

flourishing cyber-wise. Anyone and their dog can download Eminem's tracks and listen to them, whether the government approves of it or not.

I personally do not own a copy of Eminem's latest CD. After borrowing a friend's copy, I simply did not find it to be a quality album according to my tastes. Millions disagree with me. Personal choice should be the governing body as to whether or not an individual listens to the music of Eminem, not the government.

As Derik Hodgson, spokesman for the Department of Immigration said, "If all people who made bad music were kept out of Canada we could have stopped disco."

And heck, where would we be if the government kept the Canadian public away from the BeeGees? After all, we're not living under a fascist government, right?
