Potato Prospects

Optimism is prevalent in potato growing circles, prospects are good for price and crop. Market values throughout the coming season will depend to a large extent on rainfall during the next few weeks.

Abundant rain in Maine and New Brunswick would increase the yield and reduce the price, continued dry weather could keep values at high levels.

In years past different farming operations were usually set in well defined patterns. More recently the different activities are becoming mixed up with grass and clover being stored before cropping is completed.

Given with making necessary allowances for abundant moisture for the past two years, there is evidence that production of hay and grass has made a marked increase in this Province during the past fifteen years.

The ability of the land to grow grass is the best yardstick of its fertility and the development of a good sod, the soundness of conservation practice and insurance for continued high production in all other crops.

Contributing to the improvement mentioned are the increased use of ground limestone, chemical fertilizer, the feeding of western grains to increased holdings of livestock, resulting in more manure to grow more feed.

Rainfall is seldom uniform over large areas and even in this small Province, marked variations occur. Evidently the western part of the Province has not had ample moisture this season.

Early sown grain is starting to ripen and after Exhibition Week, binders and combines will be making their appearance.

During the coming week our Province will play host to Provincial Ministers of Agriculture and their Deputies, whose deliberations will be concerned with the development of policies relative to agriculture in a national way.

It is indeed opportune that our visitors are here during Old Home Week, when the best of our livestock, handicrafts, and people make their appearance dressed for public inspection.

From an agricultural standpoint the Island always makes a good impression and visitors always see much to admire.

With the election by the private leaders of a member to the Potato Board, that body now has its full complement of members and is in a position to give direction and leadership in the important matters of marketing, promotion, and disease control.

Potato growing in this Province is of sufficient importance to merit planning and the provision of funds for development along sound and progressive lines.

The new dealer representative is both an experienced shipper and large grower and this dual experience should be of marked value to the Potato Board in dealing with the problems of the industry.

Choice Beef

During the month of June the three Maritime Provinces failed to market through inspected packing plants, a single steer or heifer in the choice class.

Quebec had ten steers of this grade. Lest farmers would form the opinion that the production of choice animals is almost an impossible feat, it is pointed out that Alberta marketed in June, over 15,000 steers and heifers of choice quality.

Top quality beef is the result of planned breeding and proper feeding. If there is one field in which an opportunity for improvement exists it is in the selection of both beef and dairy sires.

There is little excuse for using scrub sires when animals of known breeding are available, and at moderate prices. The disposal value of the poor animal will go a long way towards purchasing something much better.

Improvement on the resulting livestock pay big dividends on the investment. Western grain growers and eastern livestock feeders can get ahead in the movement of grain. Elevators and terminal facilities are still crowded with the 1951 crop and a new bumper harvest is coming up on the prairies.

Lake transportation will be under pressure to move grain and stock up for last production due to the long steel strike in the United States; but only a portion of the grain which should be moved this fall will be moved, appears to be certain.

Far Seeing Farmers In the state of Indiana, 100,000 farm families are supporting their farm organization with a $10.00 membership fee. A total budget of one million dollars would indicate activity of a worthwhile nature on the members' behalf.

In return the farmer has gotten, lowered fertilizer prices, insurance premium savings, adequate State farm legislation, and fair income tax treatment and general safeguarding of his interests.

Farmers can't be their own lawyers, economists, or legislative watchdogs, and with rural population and urban votes constantly decreasing in proportion to urban population and urban votes it becomes more necessary than ever to build a strong farm organization and promote the farmers' cause.

If the farmer wants the job done it is going to cost money and there is only one source for this money, the members' fee in the Federation of Agriculture.

The Big Fair Next week all Island roads will lead to the Exhibition Grounds and from points as far distant as Boston, New York, Toronto, and Montreal homesick Islanders will head for the little province which never loses its drawing power for those fortunate enough to have been born here.

The Provincial Exhibition is something more than an exhibit of farm livestock and products. It is a gathering of people which provides an opportunity of meeting old friends, making new ones and also provides a break in the daily routine of making a living.

Those in attendance at the Fair will find everything in ample supply and functioning smoothly, but may not realize the great amount of planning and work which goes into the staging of a successful show.

IN MEMORIAM MR FRANK MURPHY Deep sympathy is extended to the bereaved of the late Mr. Frank Murphy, whose death occurred at his home, 109 Hillboro Street on Thursday morning, July 17, 1952.

Retiring from the Canadian National Railways service in May, 1947, the deceased later engaged as engineer at the Charlottetown Hospital which position he resigned following a major operation in June, 1950, from which, regrettably he did not regain his accustomed good health.

Of a likeable personality, kind and charitable in word and deed, possessing a ready wit, Frank was much enjoyed in his home, by neighbors and friends, who were legion, as evidenced by the many acts of kindness shown him personally during his illness, and his immediate family at his death.

He is survived by his wife, the former Winnifred Mae Collins, of Charlottetown; his brother, Fred, residing in Halifax, N. S., who visited him frequently during his illness; his sister Beatrice, Mrs. William Shea, of Bridgeport, Connecticut, who, with her family, visited the deceased shortly before his death.

His remains were laid to rest in the Roman Catholic Cemetery on Saturday morning, July 19, 1952, following a solemn High Mass of Requiem, the Reverend Father Francis Donovan acting as celebrant, and officiating at the grave. Many members of the Charlottetown Council of the Knights of Columbus and Holy Name Society, together with pall bearers, mourners and many friends, formed the funeral cortege, in silent testimony of their esteem for the deceased, which regard was further emphasized by the volume of Mass and Sympathy Cards, flowers and telegrams received from friends and relatives at home and other Canadian and American centres.

It may be truly said that a good citizen, a devotee of church and family, a kind friend and neighbor has passed on to receive from his Heavenly Father the reward promised to each and every one of His faithful servants—the priceless gift of everlasting peace and happiness.
