WASHINGTON, March 23 (AP) — President Truman asked Congress Thursday for $20,000,000 to pay the costs of removing 19,000 government workers from Washington. It is part of the general program for decentralizing Federal activities, inspired mainly by thoughts of what an atomic attack would do to the country's capital. Truman did not say where the workers are to be sent.

Electric Heated Hotbed is Next Best to Greenhouse

Either Heating Cable or Electric Lamps Will Heat a Hotbed.

Many of the advantages of a small greenhouse may be enjoyed by the amateur gardener who equips his cold frame with an electric heating cable. Cables and thermostats are now obtainable at less than the cost to a townsman of suitable manure, were he able to find it. Current used for heating depends upon the insulation of the frame, and how early in the spring heat is turned on, but it seldom adds an important amount to the light bill. Advantages are many. There is a much more even heat, which is beneficial to all plants and vital to those that chill easily. It gives a longer growing period, since the heat does not become exhausted, as does heat from manure, which sometimes fails before the outside temperature is safe. A frame is constructed in the usual pattern as used for both hotbeds and cold frames, but there is no need to prepare a deep pit such as is necessary when manure is used to supply heat. The frame is sunk in the ground about six inches. Soil is removed within it to an equal depth, and the cable is arranged on the bottom in loops, so that heat will be evenly distributed. The supply wire and cable are both connected to a thermostat, which can be set at the desired minimum temperature, so that as soon as the thermometer falls to that point heat is turned on. When temperature rises a few degrees above the minimum, heat is shut off, and the variation between maximum and minimum temperatures is much less than with the old fashioned hotbed. The heating cable is usually covered with three to four inches of soil. It is a good idea to place a sheet of fine meshed poultry wire an inch above the cable, with soil between. Another method is to grow plants in flats, which are placed on a grating just above the heating cable, which is not buried in soil, and thus is always open to inspection. To improve insulation and reduce current consumption, the frame should be banked with cinders, which are covered with soil, to within a few inches of the top.
