

Stop a Minute.

Don't hurry so. Move slower, it may be that you will go surer. Grind, grind, grind; one everlasting grind, from five in the morning till ten at night chasing the bubble of human riches. What is the need, pray tell me? You already have enough and even more than you can use. You are heaping up wealth for others to waste or quarrel over when you are dead. And half your heirs, instead of recollecting you gratefully, will contemplate your departure from this hurrying scene with infinite satisfaction. Do rest a while! You are wearing out the vital forces faster than there is need, and in this way subtracting years from the total sum of your life. This rush and worry, day after day, this restless anxiety after something you have not got, is like pebble-stones in machinery; they grate and grind the life out of you.

You have useless burdens; throw them off. You have a great deal of needless care; dump it. Pull in the strings. Compact your business. Take time for thought of better things. Go out into the air and let God's sun shine down on your head. Stop thinking of business and profit. Stop grumbling at adverse providences. You will probably never see much better times in this doomed world. Your most opportune season is now; your happiest day is to-day. Calmly do your duty and let God take care of his own world. He is still alive and is the King. Do not imagine that things will go to everlasting smash when you disappear from this mortal stage. Don't fancy that the curse of Heaven, in the shape of a vain task of righting up a disjointed earth is imposed on you. Cease to fret and fume; cease to jump and worry early and late. The good time is coming, but you can never bring it; God can and will. Take breath sir. Sit down and rest and draw a long breath. Then go calmly at the tasks of life and do your work well.

Little Pleasures and Little Annoyances.

This life is largely dependent upon little things, both for its enjoyment and its annoyances. It is a little thing that first flower that peeps out from underneath the leaves and the grass, but how sweet is the fragrance of the trailing arbutus, and how pleasant to gather it, blossoming as it does, often while yet fragments of ice and snow are lying near by.

Then the piping frogs—who listen to them with indifference? To young hearts they pipe of young love and to old hearts of by-gone days and of the companionship of spirits now in the skies.

The songs of birds—they come to us after the long silence of winter like angel's voices.

If a pair of robins come back to rebuild and occupy once more their last year's nest by the window, it seems like the return from a far journey of ancient friends—and they are to use a daily joy.

The very purr of the house cat testifying her enjoyment of the nap you permit her in your lap is musical. So to the huntsman is the crying of the hounds.

Little things make up much of our happiness; they also constitute a large part of our annoyances.

Some one wrote an account of the realization of his life-long wish to see Rome, and as he had his first look at the Eternal City, his attention was entirely distracted by the voice of some insignificant flies.

We remember another story of a married couple who had quarrelled twenty years about shutting a door; the latch was out of order and it would never catch. One day the husband took it into his head to mend the latch, and in five minutes the contemptible source of twenty years' scolding was removed.

Seeing how prolific, both of pleasure and of pain, little things are, the true philosophy of life teaches us not to despise them.

The Greatest Medical Discovery since the Creation of Man, or since the Commencement of the Christian Era.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been caused by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

Dr. MELVIN'S CAPSICUM POROUS PLASTERS are acknowledged by all who have used them, to act quicker than any other plaster they ever before tried, and that one of these plasters will do more real service than a hundred of the ordinary kind. All other plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn continually to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different: the instant one is applied the patient will feel its effect.

Physicians in all ages have thoroughly tested and well know the effect of Capsicum; and it has always been more or less used as a medical agent for an outward application; but it is only of very recent date that its advantages in a porous plaster have been discovered. Being, however, convinced of the wonderful cures effected by DR. MELVIN'S CAPSICUM POROUS PLASTERS, and their superiority over all other plasters, they now actually prescribe them, in their practice, for such diseases as rheumatism, pain in the side and back, and all such cases as have required the use of plasters or liniment. After you have tried other plasters you want a certain cure, ask your druggist for DR. MELVIN'S CAPSICUM POROUS PLASTER. You can hardly believe your own convictions of its wonderful effects. Although powerful and quick in its action, you can rely on its safety for the most delicate person to wear, as it is free from lead and other poisonous material commonly used in the manufacture of ordinary plasters. One trial is a sufficient guarantee of its merits, and one plaster will sell hundreds to your friends.

Ask your druggist for DR. MELVIN'S CAPSICUM POROUS PLASTER, and take no other; or, on receipt of 25 cents for one, $1 for five, or $2 for a dozen, they will be mailed, post paid, to any address in the United States or Canada.
