Coastal Shipping Issue Is Limit of Non-Can. Ships

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP)—A royal commission inquiry into Canada's coastal shipping trade is shaping up largely as a fight over the issue of restricting the operations of non-Canadian vessels in this 35,000,000-a-year traffic.

Many of the briefs from major bodies, among about 150 submitted to the commission, have advanced hearing, opening here Monday, have concentrated on this question. Advocates of various forms of restriction — which would range all the way up to barring non-Canadian ships from the coast — trade blocs, and others, would like to see Canadian shipping, shipping and marine labor.

Opponents contend it would increase water transport charges, add to the cost of living and hamstring United Kingdom shipping from earning Canadian dollars for wide investigation.

The three-man commission under Mr. Justice W. F. Spence of the Ontario Supreme Court has been given wide terms of reference to investigate all aspects of the coastwise trade, which consists of commerce between points in Canada on the two coasts, the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence river. It does not take in trade between a Canadian port and one in another country.

Appointment of the commission was given impetus by the launching of work on the St. Lawrence seaway, which in about four years will open up the waterway to the heart of America for large ocean-going vessels.

At present vessels built and registered in Canada are in the Commonwealth as Canadian ships, though their size on the lakes now is limited by 14-foot-deep canals. The seaway will admit ships of 27-foot draught, and those briefs have been received by the commission to date and who support some form of restriction or further regulation include:

The Canadian Shipbuilding and Ship Repairing Association, representing Great Lakes ship operators; the CNR, the Trades and Labor Congress and the Canadian Congress of Labor, the Association of Ontario Maritimers and Reeves and the Maritime Marine Workers' Union; the Canadian Shipbuilding and Ship Owners Association, representing owners of Canadian deep-sea ships; the Shipping Federation of Canada, whose members operate Canadian, British and foreign vessels; the Maritime Transport Commission, representing the shipping industry in Saskatchewan and Newfoundland; the Maritime Transport Commission and two United Kingdom bodies representing shipbuilders and ship owners.

SUPPORT RESTRICTION
The Maritime Marine Workers' Association said that legislation to restrict the coasting trade to Canadian-built and registered ships would assist the development of a deep-sea fleet and help industries serving Maritime needs including shipbuilding, ship repair, and ship outfitting.

"The flow of goods should not depend on foreign carriers," it added.
Any federal aid to Canadian coastal or deep-sea shipping, the federation said, should be based on the building and repairing of Canadian vessels, and their operation under Canadian registry.

The federation also said the Chignecto canal should be proceeded with as an encouragement to coastal shipping. The proposed canal, urged for many years by Maritime interests, would cut through the 18-mile-wide Isthmus of Chignecto to link the Gulf of St. Lawrence with the Bay of Fundy.

PROPOSE TREATY
The Dominion Maritime Association's proposals include the negotiation of a Canada-United States treaty to restrict all trade within the Great Lakes to Canadian and U.S. ships. This plan has met support among some U.S. Congress members.

The association also urges that the strictly-Canadian trade on the lakes be confined to Canadian-registered ships.
With the construction of the seaway, the association says, British and foreign interests could build ships specifically to compete with Canadian vessels.

"It is essential that Canadians expenditure will not destroy efficient and profitable Canadian shipping."

Boy Undergoes Heart Operation

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Michael Chiasson, 15, of New Waterford, N.S., was reported in "good condition" Wednesday after a delicate heart operation performed in Hahnemann hospital.

The boy underwent surgery Tuesday in the hospital's famed Bailey clinic.
Michael's trip to Philadelphia was financed by neighbors and other well-wishers in Nova Scotia. They arrived late in June, and was given a series of tests prior to the operation.

Also in Hahnemann hospital is another Nova Scotian, Mrs. Beattie Legge, 23-year-old wife of an unemployed Sydney steelworker, who was operated on a little more than a week ago for a heart ailment. Her trip, too, was paid for by the contributions of neighbors. Mrs. Legge continued to improve, a hospital spokesman said.

NEW GLASGOW W. M. S.
The June meeting of New Glasgow Christian Church W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. Leith Dickleson. The meeting opened by singing "Dear Lord and Father of Mankind." Mrs. H. B. Stevenson had charge of the devotional period, which opened with prayer and meditation by leader. Readings from the "World Call" were read by Mrs. Howard Ling, Mrs. Leigh Warren, and Mrs. Harland Hill.

An interesting and educational Bible quiz followed which was prepared by Mrs. Nelson Macdonald.
Mrs. R. L. Dickleson had charge of the Study Book and the lesson was on the "Friendship of John, the Baptist, and Jesus." The hymn, "Lord Speak to Me," was then sung and the devotional period closed with a prayer.

The sick committee reported several calls made to the sick and shut-ins, and Friendship secretary reported a number of cards sent to the sick and bereaved. New sick committee are as follows: Mrs. Elmer Macdonald, Mrs. H. B. Stevenson, and Mrs. W. D. Stevenson, Leaders for the July meeting: Mrs. Paul Richardson; prayer leader, Mrs. Leith Dickleson; Bible quiz, Mrs. Foster Sellar; Study Book, Mrs. R. B. Dickleson. Roll call word "Friend".

Election of officers for following year were then appointed: President, Mrs. Earl Houston, re-elected; vice-president, Mrs. Richard Dickleson; secretary, Mrs. H. B. Stevenson, re-elected; treasurer, Mrs. Howard Ling; Friendship secretary, Mrs. R. L. Dickleson. A vote of thanks was extended to the retiring officers.
Mrs. Foster Sellar invited members to meet at her home for the July meeting, and the meeting closed with C.W.B.M. benediction.

RETROGRADE STEP
The Shipping Federation of Canada said it would be a retrograde step to close off Canadian trade from British-built ships. This would prevent the U.K. from earning trade-balancing dollars.

Substantially the same stand was taken by the shipbuilding conference of the U.K., representing its shipbuilding industry generally, and the General Council of British Shipping, speaking for British vessel operators.

The shipping council said British ships in the Canadian coastal trade have contributed substantially to the availability of water transportation for the Canadian mainland and Newfoundland.

They also had "secured dollar earnings for the United Kingdom and thus facilitated the purchase of Canadian goods by the U.K."

KELLY'S CROSS C. W. L.
The members of St. Joseph's sub-division C. W. L. held their meeting at the home of Mrs. Emmett Gorman on July 3. The meeting was opened by the League prayer by the Reverend Director. The president, Mrs. Joseph Kelly occupied the chair and conducted the meeting. The roll call was answered by 13 members. The treasurer, Mrs. Clarence Curley gave the financial statement which was also adopted.

The annual convention, which is being held this year in Cardigan, was discussed and the delegates appointed to attend. A letter was read from Red Cross headquarters. The altar committee were re-appointed and Mrs. Maurice Bradley and Mrs. John Molyneux were appointed on the entertainment committee for the month of July.

The August meeting will be held in the church. Plans were talked over regarding the bazaar table at the tea party and the executive of the sub-division was asked to meet to complete the arrangements of the tea party.

MINISTER'S JOB THAT OF WATCHMAN

Dr. Wilbur Smith tell this story in his latest version of Peloubet's notes.
A man who lived on the Atlantic coast purchased a barometer of exceptional quality. One bright morning it gave signs of the approach of a tempest. The day was so clear and promising that the owner felt sure that his expensive toy was seriously defective and took it back to the city to be adjusted.

But that afternoon the storm broke over his home, tearing down trees, destroying his garage and smashing things generally.
Refusing to heed the storm signals does not stop the storm. We ignore warnings at our peril. The prophet Ezekiel considers the responsibility of the sentinel as so grave that he uses the illustration of the Watchman twice in his prophecy. It came to him at the beginning of his ministry when first he heard God's call.

Here it is: "son of man, I have made you a watchman for the house of Israel; whenever you hear a word from my mouth, you shall give them warning from me. If I say to the wicked: 'You shall surely die,' and you give him no warning, nor speak to warn the wicked from his wicked way, in order to save his life, that wicked man shall die in his iniquity; but his blood I will require at your hand. But if you warn the wicked, and he does not turn from his wickedness, or from his wicked way, he shall die in his iniquity; but you will have saved your life."

When that first message was given Jerusalem was still standing. King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon had taken the city and had carried into exile the young king and the leaders of the nation. Ezekiel was one of this first group of captives, and this call made him God's messenger to both the exiles and to those left at home.

But Judah rebelled a second time, and then Nebuchadnezzar destroyed the Holy City, the temple, and broke up the nation, sweeping its leaders into captivity on a larger scale than ever. So the prophet used this illustration a second time to show his own responsibility to the exiles in the new situation. One wonders if he had heard this story. After the captives had been taken away, the conquerors appointed Gedaliah, wise and moderate man who had always opposed those who broke faith with Babylon.

Gedaliah was warned again and again that a certain man had been hired to kill him. He refused to believe the warning, and received the hired traitor as his guest. As a result Gedaliah and all associated with him were assassinated and the arrangements made for the care and government of the poor who had been left in the land were turned upside down. The watchman had been faithful, but his warning was unheeded.

The example in our time of the warning unheeded is the refusal of the British and French governments to listen to Churchill's warnings about Hitler. Sometimes he fairly shouted at them—"Stop it now," and then described in detail what Germany was doing. By some he was ridiculed; by the governments ignored. Then when the attack came, he was called to save the nation without the armaments for which he had pleaded in vain. If ever a statesman was clear of the blood of men slain in resisting a tyrant's bid for world domination, it is the man whom all free nations honor today.

TRUE PROPHET
This law runs all through life. The true prophet is always a man commissioned by God to stand on guard against enemies present or potential. Years ago Dr. D. N. McLachlan, one of the bravest and saintliest souls who ever served the Christian church, warned Ontario of the danger of her government's policy of extending the facilities for the sale of intoxicating liquors.

Boy Undergoes Heart Operation
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Michael Chiasson, 15, of New Waterford, N.S., was reported in "good condition" Wednesday after a delicate heart operation performed in Hahnemann hospital.

people!" he exclaimed again and again. But he too was unheeded. We have only to look at the terrific increase of Ontario's expenditure on alcoholic beverages and the trends in our social customs to see how widespread is the fulfillment of his prophecy. Above all others, this is the responsibility of the Christian minister. The man of foresight. The one who can read the inner nature of the tendencies and movements of his time can predict their outcome. In no period can men sow tares and reap wheat, or plant thorns and gather grapes.

So often young people reply to the watchman's warnings that ours is a new age and that the things believed in by our fathers are no longer true. Now it is only the fashions that change, the outward appearances that express the fancies of each new generation.

The fundamental facts of human nature do not change. The laws that govern conduct do not change. The "Ten Commandments" are more modern than the latest novel or the daily paper. The one who violates them will find the consequences of his act as deadly as they were when those laws were engraved on tables of stone.

It is harder than ever to make money
... To print your own, that is, the Bank of England has made the counterfeiters' lot an even unhappier one by pressing a thin strip of aluminum foil into the paper used for making bank notes. Seems the do-it-yourself enthusiasts find it virtually impossible to duplicate.

It is nice to think that there will probably be a little bit of Canada wherever this new paper currency circulates. Great Britain imports 80% of her aluminum from Canada, and it turns represents one of the major markets for Canadian aluminum.

"Sure, many things go into growing potatoes. But I'll say this, using DITHANE to control blight throughout the season helped me have one of the best potato yields in my state last year!"
Reports like this come from champion potato growers everywhere. These men have already learned that using DITHANE to lick blight gives them substantially higher yields, on less acreage, than they can get with other fungicides.
Furthermore, DITHANE-protected potatoes do not suffer loss in specific gravity or dry solids content. Numerous tests have shown that they are at least equal in flavor and cooking and chipping qualities to those sprayed with copper fungicides.
