

The Morning Guardian.

FEBRUARY 7, 1891.

That Compromise.

The Patriot and the Examiner are very wary of our proposition to unite both parties and send Messrs. Davies and Ferguson to Ottawa by acclamation. The Patriot is quite agreed that Mr. Davies is the right man but it balks at the name of Mr. Ferguson, and the Examiner, while in hearty accord with the proposal to elect Mr. Ferguson, has grave doubts about Mr. Davies. Each distrusts the other. Party feeling runs so high they say or imply that it would be useless to expect two representatives from opposite sides to agree. When they get up to Ottawa the tunnel would be forgotten or given second place altogether to enable these gentlemen to be what the Examiner calls "in the highest sense of the word, Canadians." That is just what the people of this Province are not and never can be until the bond of union is sealed with the tunnel—until we are no longer isolated and neglected while millions of dollars are annually dumped into such places as the harbor of Montreal. With all due respect to the Examiner's lofty ideal of Island representatives, we say that the trade question is not in the slightest danger of suffering in a House of 214 members if this Province should elect its representatives on the tunnel issue alone. Our contemporaries will surely admit that the commerce of this country needs the tunnel more than anything else. To get that tunnel we require able advocacy on the part of our representatives. If those representatives are not able men, if they fail to make their individual power felt, or if they should all happen to be in the minority, our chances of success will be greatly diminished. But with representatives like Davies and Ferguson, one of whom will surely be taken into the next Cabinet, and probably given the portfolio of Minister of Marine, we can depend on having our rights pressed home in the most influential quarters and at the same time have one or the other of these gentlemen in her Majesty's Opposition where he can all the better watch his colleague, keep his zeal from flagging and prevent him from forgetting in the blaze of ministerial glory the people who are in "the highest and every" sense of the word "Islanders, and will remain so until the tunnel joins them to the Mainland.

A Dairy School for the Island.

We are glad to hear that one of the government dairy schools about to be instituted will probably be established in this Province. The basis upon which these dairy schools will be operated is quite simple. For the current year it is proposed to establish one school in each of the leading provinces. At these schools everyone will be welcome. Bulletin will also be issued periodically. New, small and baby varieties of cheese will be made. Methods of developing fine flavor will be investigated and demonstrated. Butter will be made during the winter in particular, so that the stations would be in operation the year round. After a station has been in operation for a year or two in one locality, and it had been found that cheesemakers and individual farmers have availed themselves of the privileges, it will be moved to another section of the country. For this reason a factory in each district will be rented. It may be said that for a similar purpose to this the Imperial Government sets apart $25,000 annually. The same reason which called for the appointment of a dairy commissioner in the person of Prof. Robertson has actuated the Dominion Government in undertaking the establishment of these dairy schools, namely, to encourage the making and export of butter and cheese. In a memorandum to Hon. Mr. Carling, Prof. Robertson says the prime object of these dairy schools will be to improve the quality of our cheese product and to guide the farmers of Canada into better methods of butter making. Speaking of this Province recently Prof. Robertson says "it is admirably adapted for cheese and butter making, but the farmers have grown somewhat discouraged because of the comparatively poor success they have obtained. It is believed that a dairy school in that Province would tend very much to the removal of this trouble." The encouragement of winter dairying by example and the hard logic of commercial success is another aim of these schools. Prof. Robertson says: "It is possible to develop the butter-making industry during the winter months to as great magnitude and with more remunerative results to our farmers than now arise from summer dairying. By the use of ensilage the problem of a suitable winter fodder is most satisfactorily solved. Better commands almost twice the price in winter than it does in summer, and the dangers arising from transportation are minimized during cold weather." We are glad that the Government are moving in this matter and glad that Professor Robertson having visited the Island, is in a position to "put in a good word for us" when the occasion arises.

Ventilating the Cars.
The ventilation of our railroad cars in the season of cold weather has always been a source of discomfort to the travelling public. Whether this is due to the attendants in keeping the fires too hot and the drafts closed, or to the construction of the cars, we are unable to say, but it frequently happens that the air is so impure that passengers become ill. The St. John Globe announces that a coach attached to the Quebec express has been fitted with a new system of ventilation which seems to indicate a revolution in that department of railway construction, and we trust that our wide awake and progressive Superintendent, Mr. Unsworth, will make enquiries regarding it, and if possible have it introduced here. It appears that air is admitted into the car when in motion by an induced current caused by the motion of the train. The air strikes the surface of water in a tank, there depositing dust and cinders, is deflected upwards, passing in winter around coils of heated pipe, and thence warmed, is distributed along the ceiling of the car by longitudinal pipes having openings along the extreme length. In summer the air is cooled by passing around an ice-chamber. The foul air is exhausted on the induction plan. Air is also freely supplied while the train is standing still. Passengers are noticeably pleased with the freshness of the air. The air coming in warmed dispenses almost entirely with any other heating, and the invention seems just what has long been needed.

LETTERS TO EDITOR.

The Distribution of Offices.

SIR:—In the Watchman of the 5th instant the editor endeavors to raise a religious war over the amount of the city revenue paid to Protestant and Catholic officials and others connected with the City Government. If he had dealt with the matter in a fair and impartial manner and had shown that Roman Catholics were not receiving justice, I for one would not object. I am of the opinion, however, that Catholics are getting a little more than they are entitled to in this city, as they are in most other places. Protestants are now receiving the sum of $8,483.44 from the City Treasury while Catholics are getting $3,781, or nearly half of that paid to Protestants. The editor of the Watchman gives these figures—Protestants $8,483.44; Catholics, $2,219.08. My figures are based on the following statement. (In each case I take the actual yearly salary which is the only fair way.)

PROTESTANTS.

R. Heath Haviland, Mayor	$324.44
R. R. Fitzgerald, Stipendiary Magistrate & Recorder	1005.00
H. M. Davison, City Clerk & Clerk Fire Dept.	908.00
H. V. Palmer, Clerk Police Ct.	600.00
Chas. Cameron, City Marshal	500.00
L. B. Miller, Auditor	75.00
R. Galbreath, do	75.00
J. N. Campbell, Police Sergeant	400.00
T. Taylor, Policeman	365.00
Jac. Harris, do	120.00
A. N. Large, Chief Engineer	120.00
D. McRae, Market Clerk	5.00
Sanitary Officer	350.00
Jos. Taylor, City Surveyor	500.00
R. Understone, City Collector	400.00
D. McLean, Asst. City Clerk	275.00
Chas. Berrie, Keeper Hospital	60.00
Ed. Davy, Assessor	75.00
do	50.00
Fire Department, allowance	304.00
Water Department	120.00
Hon. D. Laird, Asst. Salary	90.00
A. McKinnon, do	90.00
J. McDonald, Engineer	400.00
Chas. Dalziel, Supt.	600.00
D. McLean, Clerk	525.00
	$8,483.44

CATHOLICS.

P. Bradley, Police Sergeant	$400.00
D. Doyle, Policeman	365.00
Jos. Carter	365.00
M. Murphy, Keeper Bldg Engineer	450.00
W. Dillon, Janitor & Asst. Mk's Clerk	350.00
J. Kelly, W. Com'r. (sect. salary)	90.00
B. McQuillan, Keeper Park	250.00
J. Quirk, Assessor	50.00
Wm. Mahan, Horse-man	365.00
Jno. McCourt, Driver	365.00
Theobald, (yearly superannuation allowance)	125.00
Fireman, two-third allowance	600.00
	$3,781.00

I have omitted from the above list the name of Dr. Johnson, Health Officer, because he is paid no salary—only actual expenses incurred by him in extreme cases. Of the firemen I have placed one-third under the head of Catholics, because that is a fair proportion as they are at present. It would be well for the editor of the Watchman to stick to the truth. If I were to take the exact amount paid out of the city treasury for the past five years as between Protestants and Catholics, I am sure the editor of the Watchman would be ashamed of himself (if there is any shame left) for having raised this question at all. Would it not be well for the Watchman to now make comparisons in the local Government officials, and also Division located in this Province. Perhaps his own name would figure in the list. Of course he would draw his pay for office time occupied in writing.

The Queen to Visit Italy.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—The Queen is to start for Florence on March 23. At Portsmouth she will embark on board the royal yacht "Victoria and Albert." I am sure the editor of the Watchman will be glad to hear that the "Osborne," the Admiralty yacht "Euchantress," and the Trinity yacht, and the French port will be reached early in the afternoon. The Queen's stay in Florence will be about three weeks, after which she will probably go to Darmstadt for a few days on a visit to the Grand Duke of Hesse, where the Emperor William will meet her.

Devoured by Wolves.
WINNIPEG, Feb. 3.—It is reported that the camp of Indians devoured by wolves a few days ago, is confirmed by Indians arriving from Lake Winnipeg, who say that eighteen Indians, men, women and children, were eaten up by ravenous beasts which gathered in numbers probably 200.

Wanted to Cut the Rope.

A young couple from the "rural districts" who had never had any experience with new fangled notions in the shape of electric light, &c., registered at the Hotel Exchange, Arrostook, one day last week and during the day called in a Justice of the Peace and were made one. The next morning the groom appeared and in a casual manner said that these "rural lights" never went out until 12 o'clock but if I had a pair of scissors I would have cut that darned rope.

Death Followed Laughter.

SARNIA, Ont., January 28.—Joshua Matthews, while engaged at his work in William Farr's blacksmith shop, was observed by his fellow workmen to burst into a fit of causeless laughter, and then to stagger as if from weakness. He was assisted to his home in George street, before reaching which he had sunk into a state of almost stupor. Medical aid was summoned when it was found that the seizure was apoplexy and the cause the bursting of a blood vessel in the brain. He only lived a few hours.

Bitten by a Rattlesnake.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 2.—Mr. Edward Rosenquet, son of a banker, of London, England, was bitten by a rattlesnake near Daytona yesterday morning, while hunting, and is beyond hope of recovery. The snake struck him on the inside of his left leg, above the ankle. Mr. C. Evelyn Walker, his companion, carried him on his shoulder to Daytona, mean while endeavoring to suck the poison from the wound. It appears that Mr. Walker had some on his lip and absorbed some of the poison. He became partially paralyzed, but at 10 o'clock to-night he was considered out of danger. Mr. Rosenquet and the Walker family had spent the fall here, and Mrs. Walker sailed for England only last Thursday.

A Clergyman on Dancing.

BRANTFORD, Ont., January 27.—On Sunday morning the Rev. John Kay, pastor of the Wellington Street Methodist church, used plain talk to his congregation before preaching the sermon. He said for several days past he had been defending members of his congregation who were said to have danced. He had not believed it simply because their names were in the paper. It was possible their names could be published without their consent and he would not believe it until he had positive proof of it. If any had indulged in this dance he would read that portion of the church rules touching on it, which he did. He then said he wished that any who were breaking the rules of the church would withdraw their names from the membership, as he would rather they should go to the devil outside the church than as professed members.

In this Generation.

William H. Cossam addressed meetings of the Dalhousie students at Halifax on Saturday night and Sunday afternoon. He is the travelling secretary of the students' volunteer missionary movement. Some five young men signed a pledge as prospective missionaries to the foreign field. Mr. Cossam outlined the student volunteer missionary movement—its origin and object. In 1886 Evangelist Moody gathered together at Northfield a convention of 300 students. Here the movement started and at the convention 100 had devoted their lives as prospective foreign missionaries. The movement has spread like wildfire since then, till now 6,000 among the students of this country and the States are similarly pledged. The movement has become organized, and Mr. Cossam is spending this year visiting the colleges with the object of furthering it, and crystallizing it, as he himself going into the work in China among the T'ungus. "The evangelist is of the world in this generation," is the motto of the movement. "Because the Church has existed for 19 centuries," says Mr. Cossam, "and only one-third of the world has been reached, it is not an argument that the whole earth cannot be reached in this generation. There are 7,000 missionaries in the foreign field, but within the last four years fully six thousand more have pledged themselves to go into the work. As to money, only 1 cent member to form a missionary work; and nine-tenths of all that is given is put into the hands of the church membership. A convention of the movement is to be held, Mr. Cossam stated, in Cleveland, from February 26th to March 1st.

The Marriage Tie Sundered.

BOSTON, February 1.—In the divorce court yesterday, Louise Hart, of Cambridge, a pretty little woman, asked to be freed from the matrimonial bonds existing between her and her husband George, now of Savannah, on account of his cruel and abusive treatment and confirmed habits of intoxication. She testified that she was married May 22nd, 1883. The libellee was not addicted to drink until about four months after marriage, when he came home intoxicated. She entreated him to give up the pernicious habit, but to no avail. Liquor made him disagreeable, and she could not go into society, as she feared he would disgrace her. They left Halifax and came to Summerville, as libellee claimed, he wanted to give up his old associates, with the view of giving up drinking. They lived with the libellee's aunt, but he did not give up drinking, and she got sick with care and anxiety, and went home. All these years the libellee neglected to suitably provide for his wife, and she made children's clothing and did embroidery to support herself. He deserted her in March, 1889, when he got into business difficulties, and took a position as a travelling salesman. He promised to send money, which he failed to do. Saw her husband with other women on three different occasions. One Saturday night, when she begged him not to go out, on account of his condition, he choked her. At other times he abused her, throwing her down stairs on one occasion. When he left her she was destitute, and could not have supported herself except for the aid from her parents. Libellee's mother testified that her daughter was sick nine weeks with nervous prostration. He paid no doctor's bills and her parents had to stand the expenses of the libellee's illness. Decree nisi and permission granted to resume her maiden name.
