In Memoriam

MR. JAMES BIRCH

Residents of South West Lot 16 were deeply greived to learn of the rather sudden passing of James Birch, whose death occurred on Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Birch was born at South West Lot 16, 91 years ago and had resided on the old Birch homestead all his life. His father was Edward Birch. In his declining years his son Sidney with whom he lived carried on the work of the farm, so well tended by his father and grandfather before him.

Mr. Birch had been an invalid for the last two years, but his intellect was keen and up to a few hours before his death he was able to converse on current events.

His death came quite unexpected and shortly before his death he had conversed with his loved ones.

Mr. Birch was the last of a family of twelve. He married Angelina Fitzgerald of Richmond and their eleven children were all present at his funeral.

He was a man of sterling qualities, always helping in community affairs. In his home he was kind and considerate and enjoyed the quiet enjoyment of family life. He was most hospitable and friends and neighbours always found a welcome at the Birch farm. He was a member of the Anglican Church at Porthill and in his younger days took an active interest in church work. He was a life long Liberal in politics and a member of the Loyal Orange Order.

He leaves to mourn five sons and six daughters namely: George Birch of the Car Ferry, Charlottetown at Borden; Gordon of the C. N. R. Shops at Moncton, N. B.; Sidney at home; Arthur of South West Lot 16; Ivan in North Bedeque; Mrs. Russell Ramsay, Northam; Mrs. Louis Perry, Mrs. Ruby Lovett, Mrs. Jessie Chaplin all of Boston; Mrs. Fremont Campbell, French River; Mrs. Aretus Campbell, South West Lot 16, all of whom attended the funeral.

The funeral took place on Friday afternoon from his late residence to the Anglican Church at Port Hill. The services were very largely attended, Rev. Hart-Davies, rector at Port Hill officiated at house and church. The choir of Lot 16 United Church assisted with the music with Mrs. Edward Lockhart at the organ. The hymns sung were "In The Sweet By and By" at the house; "Son of My Soul," "The Lord Is My Shepherd" and "Abide With Me." Rev. Hart Davies took his text from the 23rd Psalm.

The remains were laid to rest beside those of his wife who predeceased him 16 years ago. The pallbearers were his four sons-in-laws, Messrs Louis Perry, Fremont Campbell, Aretus Campbell, Russell Ramsay; and two nephews, Russell and William Cameron. S.

Australia In Final Round Of Davis Cup

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 27—(AP)—The Australian Davis Cup Tennis forces reached the challenge round against the United States team for the second consecutive year today when Jack Bromwich gained the required third win over the Yugoslavians by humbling Dragutin Mitic, 6-1, 6-3, 6-2

Adrian Quist gave the Australian team its first victory against Mitic in Thursday's opening engagement. Yesterday he and Bromwich defeated Franjo Kukuljevich and Franco Puncec, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3, in the postponed doubles.

Quist also won the Australians' fourth victory in the five matches with a decidedly sub-par performance that routed Kukuljevic, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4, in the finale.

Puncec, who gave his team its only victory, a four-set decision over Bromwich last Thursday, had been scheduled to oppose Quist but he asked to be relieved and, since the interzone tie had been decided, Harry Hopman, the Australian captain, agreed to the last-minute substitution.

The Yugo-Slavian ace told Hopman he felt "too tired" to play, but later said his decision to withdraw was based on his desire to protect his grass court record.

While putting his forces into the challenge round for the 14th time in Davis Cup history, Bromwich was called upon to do little more than stand behind the baselines and keep the ball in play until Mitic erred.

Only two of the six games that Mitic won during the 70-minute match were on service, the eighth game of the second set and the fifth game of the third.

with justice.

Italy went ahead resolutely with war preparations.

"Italy, in full harmony with Germany and with a lively comprehension of her rights and aptitude, has for some time been pursuing intense political and diplomatic activity in the service of peace assured by justice - -without waiting for invitations from this side of the ocean or the other," Gayda wrote.

"The proposal expressed by President Roosevelt in his messages to Hitler and the Polish president for direct negotiations between Poland and Germany, follow for example, some distance behind "an initiative undertaken by the Italian Government and not accepted at Warsaw."

The Fascist press generally was the most circumspect in the face of the crisis. While not minimizing the seriousness of the situation, newspapers emphasized that there was still time for peace to be saved; while responsibility for the crisis was attributed to Britain, France and Poland, there were no really bitter attacks on these countries.

Fresh Outrages In Northwest India

CALCUTTA, India, Aug. 27—(CP)—Fresh outrages are reported from India's turbulent northwest frontier, coinciding with talk of a plan to unite the warlike tribes of that region into a federation.

India's trouble-maker number one, the Faqir of Ipi, is reported toying with the idea of a federation of tribes and a Moslem state between the northwest frontier province and the Afghanistan frontier.

Guerilla fighting in that rugged territory, led by the bearded Faqir, has only recently been put down by the government at heavy cost. Large scale resistance to the government ceased in Waziristan when peace settlements were made with the influential Tori Khel and Madda Khel tribes.

The Faqir is held responsible also for the latest isolated outrages. In mid-August a British colonel and his two Indian servants were shot dead on the road near Bannu. Attacks on villages have been plentiful.

mercial flying fields, arsenals, industries engaged in making munitions and other vital products, armories, and hydro power stations.

While trains and motor lorries hurried the various detachments to the points of duty and armories buzzed with activity, units of the Royal Canadian Air Force were flying to posts assigned to them for purposes of defence if an emergency arises.

Guards placed about vulnerable properties were a precaution such as was taken during the Great War, to guard against possible sabotage. Particular attention was being paid to the safety of canals, locks and bridges.

A statement issued by the department today showed that 99 non-permanent militia units in 11 military districts from Halifax to Vancouver were involved in the voluntary mobilization. The districts from which most men were called were on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts and the St. Lawrence Valley.

In many cases the call is only for details and detachments of each unit, but about half those involved are to mobilize in full strength.

Certain reservists of the Royal Canadian Navy have been ordered to stand by for orders but no actual call to service has been issued reservists by the naval branch.

Movement of air force units toward the coast lines started yesterday and continued today but no details of the number involved or their destination were disclosed.

Defence headquarters were busy throughout the week-end issuing orders and arranging the great volume of detailed organization necessary for even a small mobilization of civilian soldiers.

Heaviest defence activities were naturally concentrated along the Atlantic and Pacific coast, and 68 of the 99 militia units involved were divided between the military districts with headquarters in Halifax and Victoria.

In calling out members of the non-active militia for duty in Canada the government acted under authority of section 63 of the old Militia Act which empowers the Governor in Council to make such a call but does not compel the members of the militia to respond.

Under section 64 the governor in council may order the militia out for active service and compel response but in this instance parliament must meet within 15 days to sanction the order.

OTTAWA, Aug. 27 —(CP) —Defence Minister Mackenzie issued a statement listing the parts of the active militia which district officers commanding have been authorized to call out under provision of section 63 of the Militia Act, for the manning of coastal defences and to provide guards for vulnerable points.

NO LESSENING

British Government's delay in answering Hilter's message was the difficulty of drafting a reply. Sources close to the government claimed, however, that Britain was playing a "cat and mouse" trick.

"Don't imagine all the nerves are on our side. Other people have nerves as well," this source declared, intimating Great Britain was letting Hitler have a good taste of his own policy of playing on the nerves of another country.

No Second Munich

The Canadian Press learned on the highest authority that the fact that the government met yesterday, today and will meet tomorrow on the peace plan does not mean a return to the Munich policy of surrendering to armed force.

On the contrary there is every indication that Britain is taking strong determined action to impress Hitler that if he goes to war Britain goes to war, if he agrees to negotiate, Britain will give him every assistance.

Sources close to the government said tonight that if Britain and France renounced their pledge to Poland it would mean the end of the whole peace bloc in Europe. It would give Hitler a free hand in eastern Europe to do what he wants and place a premium on aggression instead of curbing it as Britain and France have agreed to do.

Mysterious Figure

During today's cabinet meeting, a flurry was caused in diplomatic quarters by the arrival of a passenger in a German plane at Croydon airport which was cleared to conceal his identity.

Later a man arrived at the German Embassy in a diplomatic corps car but refused to give his name. He remained about three hours and left by car. While he was at the embassy, three men arrived by car at Heston Airport, one of whom was seen off in a German plane.

These mysterious incidents led to speculation as to the possibility the British and German governments were secretly exchanging communications preliminary to the formal British reply to Hitler.

German Freighters Sail Hurriedly From New Brunswick Ports

SAINT JOHN, N. B., Aug. 27—(CP)— German freighters in New Brunswick ports when the international situation became grave were on the high seas tonight, bound for home after leaving port hurriedly. All had cargoes of pulpwood. On Friday night the skipper of the Luise Leonhardt received orders to return immediately from Saint John but he had to wait for high tide in the morning. The 8,000 ton freighter was a scene of feverish activity when she sailed without completing the loading of cargo.

The Hans Leonnardt, under similar rush orders, sailed from Campbellton Friday afternon with about 1,000 cords of pulpwood. The Elbeck completed loading cargo at Chatham before leaving Saturday.

Identify Body Of Accident Victim

WOODSTOCK, N. B., Aug. 27—A man killed by a freight train near here Saturday has been identified definitely as Joseph P. McMullin, of Roxbury, Mass., who worked at Halifax as a metal worker for a period every year.

The identification was made by Roderick McMullin, of Roxbury, a brother; Walter Savage, a brother-in-law and M. J. Blake, a friend from Halifax.

An alligator killed long ago by an Indian arrow and a white man's musket ball combined was recently dug up near the San Antonio river in Texas.

Waterbury Mayor Gets 10-Year Term, 24 Are Sentenced

WATERBURY, Conn., Aug. 26—Sentences of not less than ten and not more than fifteen years in State's Prison were imposed tonight by Judge Ernest A. Inglis on T. Frank Hayes, Mayor and former Lieutenant Governor, and Daniel J. Leary, former City Controller, for their parts in a conspiracy to defraud the city of Waterbury of more than $1,000,000 in the years of 1930 through 1937.

Twenty other defendants in the conspiracy trials were sentenced, and another received a suspended sentence.

Carl D. Olson, former Waterbury banker who, according to Hugh M. Alcorn, special prosecutor, arranged the scheme of concealing illegal city payments, was sentenced to seven to twelve years in prison. The same penalty was imposed on Thomas P. Kelly, executive secretary to Mayor Hayes.

Thomas J. Fleming, superintendent of the city's streets and water departments, was sentenced to one to three years in jail and fined $500.

Other sentences imposed were: Martin J. Dunn, former city purchasing agent, two to six years in prison and $500 fine. Charles S. O'Conner, City corporation council, two to six years in prison and $500 fine.

John H. Grary, Democratic town chairman and city assessor, two months in New Haven County Jail and $500 fine.

Thomas A. Shanahan, city assessor, two months in jail and $500 fine.

Philip Coppeto, contractor, four to eight years in prison and $500 fine.

Roraback Ex-Aide Sentenced

Frank Santalucia, contractor, four to eight years in prison and $500 fine.

James P. Healey, contractor, two to five years in prison and $500 fine.

Henry Minor, chairman of the board of Police Commissioners, one to five years in prison and $500 fine.

Harry E. MacKenzie, former lobbyist and one-time right hand man of the late J. Henry Roraback, nine months in jail. He pleaded guilty and turned State's evidence.

Charles E. Williamson, Darien lawyer and lobbying partner of MacKenzie, one year in jail and $500 fine. He was found guilty by the court. Others were tried by jury.

Edward G. Levy, New Haven lawyer, who split fees with Kelly, but who turned State's evidence and pleaded guilty, one year in jail.

Simon J. Alderman, New Haven accountant employed by the city, one to five years in prison and $500 fine.

Donato Pietaroria, Bristol tavern keeper, to whom was paid $35 a week to endorse thousands of dollars worth of city checks charged to truck hire, according to the State, two to five years in prison and $500 fine.

John S. Johnston of New York president of the Electric Steam Sterilizer Company and for sixteen years until 1936 private secretary to President Charles H. Sabin of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, two to five years in prison and $500 fine.

John G. Purdie, New York private detective employed by the city administration and one-time Department of Justice agent, one year in the county jail and $500 fine.

George H. Kingsley of Teaneck, N. J., senior partner in the New York City auditing firm of George H. Kingsley & Co., which did the city audits, one to three years in State's prison and $500 fine.

John W. Meany, who became a partner in the Kingsley concern Dec. 1, 1937, one year in jail and $500 fine.

Timothy J. Horgan, City Hall superintendent who pleaded nolo contendere to the conspiracy charge, received an indefinite suspension of sentence on recommendation of Mr. Alcorn and Judge Inglis ordered the clerk to the court to see that there was no record of his case.

The court order was induced by Mr. Alcorn's explanation that Horgan got nothing and his only part in the case was in the burning of some city records.

Mr. Alcorn said that Horgan had told of the burning of these records. He added that the superintendent had a son who was studying for the clergy and he feared that any sentence would impair the young man's future.

The Waterbury case, involving twenty-seven public officials, contractors and owners, who, according to the charges against them, conspired to defraud the city of more than $1,000,000 over a period of eight years, constituted Connecticut's most shocking political scandal in recent years.

Of those twenty-seven for whom bench warrants were issued May 19, 1938, only one remains a fugitive. He is Enoch Borgnaes, an accountant of Hollis, L. I. Investigators believe he fled the country to Denmark.

Twenty were convicted at the trial which started Nov. 29, 1938, and ended Aug. 16, 1939. Three were discharged, two pleaded guilty and another pleaded nolo contendre. The last named case will be disposed of later by the trial judge.

Trial evidence included testimony that more than $600,000 was paid to one contractor for services never rendered in that amount, that two of the defendants split $58,400 in lobbying fees, and that "dummy" companies were set up to receive vast amounts of the city's money.

Other testimony indicated that the offenses began as far back as January, 1930. Indictments were handed up in May, 1938, and the case went to trial five months later, lasting almost nine months.

In Memoriam

MRS. JOHN A. GAUDET

A link with the past was severed in the passing of Mrs. John A. Gaudet, who died at her home in St. Nicholas on Wednesday.

Mrs. Gaudet was 92 years of age and had been in failing health for the last two years, previous to that she had enjoyed excellent health enjoying the company of young and old.

Mrs. Gaudet was born in Miscouche and came from one of the pioneer families of the district.

Her maiden name was Mary DesRoches, a daughter of John and Nancy (Poirier) DesRoches, who lived on part of the original homestead purchased by her grandfather Jesse DesRoches, who was one of the original thirteen Acadia families to purchase the 6,000 acres of land from Colonel Compton and which included the territory now known as Miscouche.

Mrs. Gaudet lived with her parents until her marriage when she went to live in St. Nicholas. Her husband came from an old Acadia family his grandfather John Gaudet was one of the first settlers at Malpeque and latter settled in St. Nicholas or Muddy Creek, as it is sometimes called. It is a part of the Parish of Miscouche. As a life long member of St. John the Baptist Church, Miscouche, Mrs Gaudet saw many changes and lived to see one of the finest Churches on the Island replace the old log church of the early settlers, Mrs. Gaudet was a woman of sterling qualities and was devoted to her family, bringing up her children in the Christian virtues.
