

Rain Halts National League Bid To Tie Home Run Record: Sox Gain On Yankees

By the Associated Press
It took a downpour in Philadelphia to douse a possible new home run record by the National League Sunday.

With pitchers and pinch hitters getting into the act, National League batsmen walloped 25 home runs, which would have tied the record for most in one day but two four baggers were washed off the books.

Cincinnati's Wally Post and Philadelphia's Andy Seminick lost home runs when the second game was ended by rain with the Reds leading 4-3 in the third inning. That cut the league's total to 23, two shy of the record.

The American League hit comparatively low total of nine home runs to boost the two leagues' total to 32, eight short of the two-league record.

A grand slammer by Bob Nieman and a two-run job by Bob Kennedy helped Chicago White Sox to a doubleheader sweep over Washington 1-0 and 8-4. The twin triumphs moved the runner-up Sox to within 2 1/2 games of the American League lead.

The Indians stunned the Yankees with five home runs, four of them coming in the first game at the expense of ace pitcher Bob Turley. Vic Wertz hammered a pair of seven home runs for the Sox in the opener 7-2 on a six-run spurge in the last two innings.

Rockie Art Ceccarelli pitched a three-hitter to give Kansas City a split in its doubleheader with Baltimore. The Orioles won the opener 7-2 on a six-run spurge in the last two innings.

Stars Trim Flyers 7-1 In City League Opener

With Vern Handrahan pitching two hit ball Tom MacFarlane's Stars rolled to a 7-1 victory over Jimmy MacDonald's Flyers in the opening game of the City Baseball League played yesterday afternoon at Memorial Field.

Handrahan, with his fireball hopping, gave up only one hit during the first eight innings, and was working on a shutout until Harold Pineauro got to him for a double in the ninth and scored on an infield error.

Donnie MacLean gave up only six hits but three of them were for extra bases and coupled with four walks and two errors they were good for seven runs.

Big Joe Coyle of the Stars led all hitters with a double and a single and scoring two runs in four trips to the plate.

Fielding gems of the game were Billy Purcell's over-the-shoulder catch in the fifth inning when the Flyers had the bases loaded and Pineauro's nice grab of LeClair's hot drive in the eighth.

Horse Racing Program Opened Here Sat. Night

The 1955 harness racing season got underway at the Charlottetown Driving Park on Saturday night and a large crowd of fans braved the cool night air to witness a good opening card.

Dr. F. C. Dougan was missing from his familiar post on the judge's stand and announcer's position. Prior to the opening of the race the crowd stood in one minute's silence out of respect for the Doctor who died last December. His place as announcer is being filled by Frank Acorn who gave the crowd an accurate description of the races.

It was Gaganan, the strapping son of Brown Prince who stole the spotlight on the opening card as he paced a mile in 2:10 1/2 to win the second dash of the feature class.

Reined by Elwood Shaw, the beautifully conditioned Gaganan beat out a field that included Sir Joseph, Impact, Prudence Hy and My Darling.

Impact driven by Len O'Meara, won the first dash of the feature class. The Truro horse moved to top at the upper turn and came under the wire a half length ahead of the fast finishing My Darling and Gaganan.

In the last dash My Moreside got Prudence Hy away to a fine start and led the field followed by Impact, Gaganan, Sir Joseph and My Darling. Gaganan and Sir Joseph started to move at the three quarter pole and came up and went back to stage a stirring battle down the stretch with Gaganan winning by half a length.

Real Fingo, with Len O'Meara up trotted beautifully to win both dashes of the Classified Trot. In the opening dash it was a battle between Real Fingo and Rash Hanover driven by Eric Moreside. Real Fingo trotted a strong mile to win the second dash. Col. D. A. MacLennan gave Pet Hanover a fine drive to finish third while Rajah Hanover came in second. Keppoch Playgirl led from wire to wire in winning the second and sixth dashes. Miss Commando also led all the way in winning the first dash while Eva Budlong moved up from well back to win the fifth dash.

Blazing Count, whose daddy was Count Fleet, a 25-length winner of the 1943 Belmont Stakes, Count Fleet, established the Belmont stakes record of 2:28 1/5.

Even in his playing days Stanky was a study in perpetual emotion, whereas Harry "The Hat" Walker is another one in the long list of "nice guy" managers, doomed by Lippy Leo Durocher to the coal bins of the league cellar. If Leo's premise that "nice guys finish last" is true then there is going to be some crowding to get a nice warm spot by the furnace.

In the National League we have mild-mannered men like Walt Alston, "Jolly Cholly" Grimm and now Walker, and in the American League there are managers such as Marty Marion, Al Lopez and Bucky Harris, who are notorious in Leo's circles, for their good will towards the chatters they have under them. Certainly, this year at least, this friendly clubhouse atmosphere seems to be paying off. Marion and Lopez have their teams well up in the American League race and Alston's Dodgers are presently turning the National League into a rout.

Casey Stengel personifies a different strain in managerial types. Casey has been called, from time to time, a master strategist, a "push button" manager, a genius, Midas, and a number of other titles, most of them unprintable. He is neither mild nor bellicose, but operates on a norm between both extremes. And his attitude coupled with about twenty high grade ball players has paid off for him to the tune of five world titles in six years.

Another thing about Casey is that he manages for the fun of it. He doesn't need the money he makes in baseball, and while other less fortunate men are worrying about the loss of their jobs, and in the winter months touring the banquet circuit to keep in spending money, Casey is flying over Texas counting his oil wells.

Ed Furgol Is Winner Of International Golf Title
WASHINGTON, (A.P.)—United States Open champion Ed Furgol surged from behind Sunday to win individual honors in the $150,000 international golf championships in three-way sudden death play-off.

Furgol, the withered-arm iron-master, also teamed with PGA titlist Chick Harbert to win the team championship as the United States scored a clean sweep in competition against 25 foreign countries.

The drama was packed into the playoffs as Furgol first shot down Belgium's Flory Van Donck and then ousted Australia's Peter Thomson on the third extra hole.

Thomson, who led the field by a stroke going into the final round Sunday, was caught at the finish by Van Donck's par 70 and Furgol's brilliant three-under 67. The three had 72-hole totals of 279.

In the three-way play-off, the three men each parred the first. Van Donck dropped out on the second when he overhit the green with his approach and needed two
