night in the southern section of Saskatchewan probably will hit Winnipeg and district tomorrow afternoon.

Rain fell over the American portion of the Red River valley today.

Yesterday, city engineer W. D. Hurst of Winnipeg said "heavy rainfall would finish us."

At 1 p.m. today, the level of the Red at the James Avenue pumping station in Winnipeg was 23.7 feet above datum or 3.6 inches higher than the peak in 1948.

In St. Vital, water lapped within a few inches of the top of the Elm Park dike system. A huge dike stretches across the front of homes on Kingston Crescent and water is near the top. Workers have been racing to build the dike higher.

George Wallace, chairman of the Provincial Drainage Maintenance Board, said the flood crest probably will reach Winnipeg on Thursday.

One Provincial Government agricultural source said today that as a "guess" he figured the floods had inundated more than 180,000 acres of farm land through the Red River district.

This source said he felt farmers should be able to make a rapid recovery from the flooding, as had been done in the bad flood year of 1948, providing that "they get a break in the weather in the next week or so." He said the district would need dry, warm weather.

day at St. Paul's Hall, and was won by Hubert D. Sherren, Charlottetown, with 82 marks. George MacCormac, St. Vincent's Orphanage, placed a close second with 81, and Freddie Hyndman, Charlottetown, third with 80 marks.

79 marks were awarded Donald Waye Good, Winsloe, the only entry in class 100, violin solo, 10 years and under.

Class 93, piano duet for 14 years and under was another closely contested competition. Thomas Scantlebury and Gordon White, Charlottetown, took first place with 82 points, Kathryn and Vincent Beck, Central Royalty, second with 81, and Wilma and Janet Wood, third, with 80 marks.

Afternoon Session

When speaking in the afternoon to the participants in class 65, grades 1 to 5, school chorus, Mr. Lee explained the value of the music they were receiving. "Your teachers and parents want you to have music in your later lives," he said. "They know that music will make a great contribution to your future happiness." In his adjudicating, Mr. Lee stressed the particular care that should be taken with pronunciation of words, and placed special emphasis on the finishing of words.

In this class first place was awarded to Cross Roads School, with a score of 80. Southport School, and East Royalty School tied for second with 79 points, and third place was won by St. Vincent's Orphanage, Charlottetown, with 77.

Speaking to the schools taking part in Class 66, grades 6 to 10, school chorus, Mr. Hubble said he believed they had all done their very best. "I wonder though," he said, "what your best will be like a year from today." He stressed the need for clearer diction in all entries, and in most cases better teamwork.

The choruses in this competition did excellent work and marks were very high. Winsloe Station School received first place with 82 points, East Royalty School was second with 81, and St. Teresa's School third with 80 points.

In Class 67 for School chorus, any grades, limit 35 voices, St. Vincent's Orphanage placed first with 76 marks. Marshfield School came second with 75 points, and Glenaladale School of Tracadie Cross were third with 74.

Evening Session

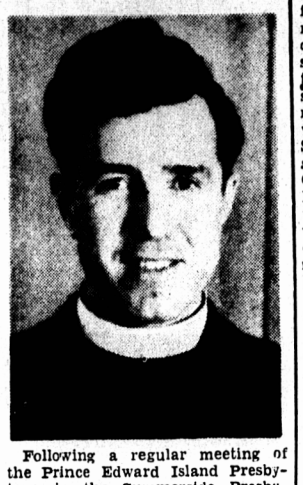
Adjudicating the violin playing of Basil Phillips, Spring Park, Mr Hubble commented on the gentle touch and very good intonation brought out in the selection. He also made special commendation of the piano accompaniment of Mrs. Allison MacRae. Basil Phillips was the only entry in class 104, junior violin solo, open, and received 81 marks.

In Class 10, women's chorus, rural, first place was won by Central Royalty Glee Club with a mark of 78. Mt. Herbert Choral Club placed second with 76 points. These were the only two entries present for this class.

The largest class of the evening was No. 42, folk song, any voice, with 13 out of the 15 entries present. First place was won by Ralph A. Emery of Summerside with 83 marks for his singing of "The Deaf Woman's Courtship." Maureen Blake of Charlottetown won second place with "Cockles and Mussels" which received 82 points. Third place was won by Gaelyne Craig, Charlottetown, and young Ernest O'Brien, Charlottetown, with 80.

Sessions will be held in both halls this morning and evening, and in the P. W.C. hall only this afternoon.

Rev. J. D. MacKay Inducted To S'side Charge



Following a regular meeting of the Prince Edward Island Presbytery, in the Summerside Presbyterian Church, Rev. J. Donald MacKay, (above), was inducted as minister last evening. Rev. Norman Young, Moderator of the Presbytery, presided over the meeting, Rev. T.H.B. Somers, Charlottetown, who read the scripture lesson offered prayer.

Rev. Mr. Young delivered the sermon, taking his text from Matthew, 20: 26-27, "Whosoever will be great among you let him be your minister, and whosoever will be chief among you let him be your servant".

In his opening remarks the speaker asked the question, "What has the Church to say in the face of the chaos in the world today?" He went on to say that the Lord's kingdom is to be one of service and that the standard of measurement is different to the worldly standard. In the struggle for power in the present day instead of being servants of men, they try to be the rulers.

What can the Church do in such a titanic struggle? The Church is to be the light of the world, a true witness of our Lord. It has a challenging message, "We are not our own but bought with a price." In closing Mr. Young said, "Our responsibility and privilege is to serve Him that His will may be done on earth as in heaven".

The interim Moderator of the Summerside congregation, Rev. J. M. MacGowan narrated the steps leading up to the call.

The Moderator then proceeded to induct Rev. J. Donald MacKay. The charge to the minister was given by Rev. J. Donald Campbell of New London and the congregation by Rev. W.A. Young of Tyne Valley.

The choir led in the singing of the following hymns,

"O Lord Thou Art My God And King."; "The Church's One Foundation"; and "Pour Out Thy Spirit From On High".

Mrs. Cleve Whelan presided at the organ.

At the conclusion of the ceremony a social hour was spent during which the Ladies Club served refreshments which were highly enjoyed by all present.

Rev. G. Carlyle Webster of Charlottetown moved a vote of thanks to the ladies which was seconded by Rev. G. Cunningham of Alberton. — S

Saint John Tax Rate Increased

SAINT JOHN, N. B., May 2 — (CP)—A tax rate of $4.30 per $100 for 1950, or 30 cents higher than last year, was approved today by the Saint John Common Council. The warrant for this year is $3,-054,066, an increase of $181,706.

In the previous nine years the highest and lowest rates were $4.22 in 1945 and $3.80 in 1947 and 1948.

Executive director E. Royden Colter warned that "the tax rate of the city will increase progressively with the years if the present plans of the school board are implemented.

"Complete failure on the part of the Provincial authorities to recognize the limited sources of revenue available to cities and towns still exists. With our tax revenue restricted for the most part to taxes on real property and business, stresses in finance are appearing. The Province has been fully informed of our position."

O'Leary School Wins Spelling Match

—On Friday night, April 28th, broadcast from Summerside, the following group of five students representing the O'Leary School defeated an equal number of students from Alberton School in the School Parade program sponsored by Schurman's Ltd. of Summerside: Claudette MacNeill, Sylvia Silliker, Bonita Adams, Freda Strang and Lorne Johnson. The score was 24-20. Two of the O'Leary teaching staff, Mrs. A. S. Palmer and Mrs. John Matthews, were down to the studios to supervise the children. The score indicates how close the spelling match was. Next week the O'Leary students will meet a group representing the Borden School. Schurman's Ltd. are to be congratulated on their School Parade, the object of which is to give an opportunity to clever and talented students in Prince County. The following students from O'Leary were also on the same program and were heard in piano solos, readings, solos, etc.: Nancy Campbell, Sandra Matthews, Doris MacLennan, Claudette MacNeill and Peter Pate who was heard in a short talk on citizenship. All of the students were heard to advantage in their respective parts on the program, which also included several students from Summerside.—O.

BOTH LIBERAL

was known to "flourish and prosper."

External Affairs Minister Pearson joined the debate at the night sitting and told the Chamber Canada should not be led into "hasty or ill-considered" action at home or abroad. Present Canadian laws were adequate to deal with Communism.

Communism had declined in the free countries and in Canada the country should follow its present course until it was clear that another course was necessary. There had been no increase in Communism here since 1936 and one reason was because Canada now was a better place in which to live.

What had increased was Russian imperialism abroad. Here, again, Canada should not be misled into taking action in domestic policy "which might not be justified."

"I hope," he said, "we will refuse to throw overboard our free institutions."

The opening stages were highlighted by the surprise disclosure of the appointment of Gordon Isnor (L — Halifax) to the Senate and the calling of Federal by-elections in Halifax, Montreal Cartier and Annapolis-Kings for June 19.

Drew Critical

Mr. Drew launched his attack on subversive activity in a 90-minute speech in which he also criticized the Justice Department for inactivity against Communism, called for prosecution of foreign-language Communist newspapers in this country and expressed his concern as to whether Canadians would "wake up in time."

Canada's tolerance of Communism within her borders, he declared, was "not tolerance, but sheer insanity."

Then, he made this appeal to the Chamber:

"If we really love our freedom, if we respect the memory of those who died for freedom in two world wars, the time has come for every Canadian, and particularly for those of us who collectively represent in this House all the people of Canada, to say that we will take the appropriate legislative steps so that freedom shall not be used to destroy freedom itself in the Canada that we love."

Mr. St. Laurent said it was his firm conviction that Communism in Canada "has diminished over the last few years," and recalled how Canadian labor organizations had rid themselves "of those obnoxious influences." They did a "much better job" than could have been done by police action."

Of Mr. Drew's charges that the Justice Department had been negligent in not prosecuting Communist papers printed in Toronto, he emphasized that the administration of justice rested, under the constitution with the Attorneys-General of the Provinces.

He was not, he stressed, saying that those Provincial authorities were not doing their best.

Turning to the Royal Commission on Espionage, Mr. St. Laurent said the Government has been giving "close and careful" attention to its recommendations for action against Communists.

He could assure the Chamber that "nothing that we felt could be done under those recommendations has been left undone."

But it was difficult to disclose the protective measures being taken for the security of the state and he did not think it would be "in the interests of security to describe too particularly the safeguards we are attempting to set up."

"We have been taking all the precautions that can properly be taken."

He agreed with Mr. Drew that it was "disagreeable" to have those organizations "we are inclined to believe are false fronts" present their petitions and complaints.

One of the best arguments against those people was the fact "they are allowed to do these things."

Mr. Drew noted that Communism had embraced one-third of the world's population in its "dreadful grasp" without a Soviet soldier crossing a single border to carry out the conquest.

"All these countries came under the control of the Kremlin through fifth columnists organized in exactly the same way that a fifth column is being organized in Canada right now."

The fifth column in Canada, under Tim Buck, Labor-Progressive leader, and his associates, had exactly the same purpose as the others.

New Radio Stations Seek Licenses

OTTAWA, May 2 — (CP) —Applications for licences for four new radio stations will be heard by the CBC Board of Governors at meetings here May 22 and 23, it was announced today.

Foster Hewitt, famed hockey broadcaster, has applied for a 250-watt station in Toronto. John N. Hunt of Langley Prairie, B.C., has applied for a 250-watt station in Langley Prairie.

A firm identified as the Dauphin Broadcasting Company Limited has applied for a 250-watt station in Dauphin. The last of the applications was from Harold A. Corning for a 250-watt station at St. Stephen, N. B.

The board also will consider several applications from existing stations for power increases and a number of requests for transfer of shares in existing stations.

Promotion Officially Announced At Halifax

HALIFAX, May 2—Defence Minister Brooke Claxton announced officially today the promotion of Lt.-Col. J. H. Shaw, 43, of Charlottetown, P.E.I., to the rank of colonel and his appointment as Assistant Director of Medical Services on the Eastern Command Medical Advisory Staff, Reserve Force.

Lt.-Col. R. B. Murray, Active Force medical officer for the Maritimes, said that this appointment reflects a considerable "professional stride" taken by the Canadian Army in Reserve Force medical interests. Col. Shaw, he said, will act as professional advisor to the command permanent medical staff and Major General H. W. Foster on technical matters relating to modern medical problems in the Army. His scope of activity in this field will embrace Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland.

A pathologist in Prince Edward Island's Department of Public Health, Col. Shaw has been officer commanding 21 Field Ambulance in Charlottetown since March 1946. His first military service was as an other rank in the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals from 1927 to 1930, and he rejoined the service in 1938 when he was commissioned in the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps.

During the Second World War he served overseas for four years with 7 Canadian General Hospital in the United Kingdom and Northwest Europe, and was mentioned in despatches in recognition of gallant and distinguished service.

Col. Shaw is a graduate in medicine of Queens University and of the University of Toronto in public health. He is a member of the Canadian Medical Association and of the Canadian and American Public Health Associations.
