The Trot at Stanley.

As it had been announced a few days previously that a trot would take place on the Stanley River ice, on New Year's Day, and the day proving fine and travelling fairly good, a large crowd of people from the adjacent settlements gathered on the ice on that day to witness the speed of the different flyers and to enjoy an afternoon's pleasant sport and recreation. After the usual amount of talk, always indulged in on such occasions, the judges and starters were chosen, and a start effected. The following horses were entered: P. Welsh's bay filly Gay Girl, E. H. McMullen's brown filly, Jenny Lind, and George McNeill's grey filly, Goldie. In the first heat Gay Girl went to the front at the start and maintained the lead without a break to the finish, followed by Jenny Lind, closely pressed by Goldie. In the second heat Gay Girl again took the lead, and as before, won with apparent ease; Goldie second, Jenny Lind third. The judges, however, awarded the heat to Jenny Lind, her driver claiming it on the ground of Goldie running. A third heat was now trotted, with Gay Girl as usual leading, followed at some distance by Jenny Lind and Goldie in the order named. A heat was now trotted between Jenny Lind and Goldie, which was the most closely contested race of the day, the horses being together the entire way, and coming in neck and neck. The judges, however, awarded the heat to Jenny Lind, although a majority of those present were of opinion that, with a little training, McNeill's mare would make the fastest trotter.

P. Welsh's Gay Girl is a handsome bay filly, sired by Gay Boy, and comes of good trotting stock, he being sired by the celebrated Dean Swift. Jenny Lind and Goldie were both sired by All Right, and give promise, with a little more training, to become fairly good trotters. The sport for the day being now pretty well over, the crowd quietly dispersed, seemingly well pleased with their afternoon's enjoyment.

Address and Presentation.

On the evening of her marriage to Mr. Howard, Miss Mary J. Haslam, of Springfield, was presented with the following address and accompanying present, by some of her friends:—

To MISS MARY J. HASLAM.—

We, the parents and friends of the children attending the Sunday School so efficiently managed and successfully carried on by you, at Lower Granville, wish to convey to you our high appreciation of your self-denying Christian labors in our school.

We are obliged to admit that the young children of this settlement were not receiving the moral and religious training we earnestly longed and prayed for, until you, in your desire to bring the teachings and blessings of your Holy Religion to others, came to us and personally conducted the Sunday School, that has already given sure proof that God's blessing has rested on your labors.

It is very gratifying to us to be able to bear testimony to the improved behaviour of our children at home and abroad, and to the evidence they give of our earnest desire to increase in Spiritual and Christian knowledge; and we trust and pray that the good work so auspiciously begun will continue to bear additional fruit to the glory of ourselves and others, and to the glory and honor of God.

As a slight token of the esteem and respect we entertain for you, and with our best wishes for your future happiness, we beg your acceptance of the accompanying silver butter cooler; and we sincerely pray that the united lot of Mr. Howard and yourself may be characterized by the blessing of love, happiness, and prosperity.

The Wages of Sin.

The Yarmouth, N. S., Times gives the following:—"About a year ago a Shelburne County woman, who is no chicken, left her husband and came to Yarmouth. A Shelburne County man, who had a wife at home, met her in Yarmouth, and they have been living together in a house at the lower end of the town ever since. A few days ago the deserted wife of this model husband arrived in Yarmouth. She discovered her husband, and they had some long and serious talks, which ended in his deciding to return home. On Sunday evening the wronged wife went to the house her husband had been living in and saw the woman who had come between them. The latter, it is said, bragged of her influence over the husband and said he might go home now, but he would be back in Yarmouth before long. The injured wife became exasperated, and seizing a hatchet proceeded to chop up the other woman. When the police got in the woman had two or three nasty wounds on her head which bled profusely and she was unconscious.

A woman was in disguise and was fleeing from some crime she had committed. She was travelling in a stage coach, and stopped at a country inn. The travellers alighted, and the supposed man got out with the others. All went to the wash shelf at the end of the porch. A man was sitting leaning against the post of the porch. He was watching the woman in disguise as she washed her face and hands, and when she was done he at once arrested her. He discovered her sex by the manner of applying the water in washing her face. All she could do was to rub up and down and snort. All women apply the water and stroke gently downward.

Divorce is quite common in Burnah, and very simple. The man and wife, having agreed to a separation, light each a candle, and seating themselves, watch to see which will first burn out. The owner of the candle which lasts longest corresponds to the person who, in our civilization, "obtains the decree." The but that the pair have occupied, its utensils and furniture, and all that the couple have owned, become the property of the one whose candle has shown the superior endurance, and the other goes forth with only the clothing which he or she may have on at the time. The need that a Burnah greaser has to be utterly trustworthy in the matter of candles will be understood. It would be ruin to him to sell a poor article to ladies and gentlemen contemplating divorce.

A party of travellers recently made the journey from San Francisco to London, via New York and Liverpool, in a trifle less than fourteen days.

A Massachusetts man has invented a machine which he says will tie a square knot, hitherto regarded by inventors as beyond the power of machinery.

One firm in western Massachusetts last year made 130 000 drums, using half a million feet of lumber, 35 000 sheepskins, 2 200 pounds of cord, and tons of other fittings.

Philadelphia may be a trifle slow, but some things occur there. For instance, 48 people were killed in Philadelphia in 1885 by steam cars which cross the city's streets at grade.

A woman in Bohemia was lately sentenced to imprisonment for ten days for forgery, because she changed her physician's prescription calling for 123 grammes of morphine so that it read 620 grammes.

Some Indian arrow heads were lately shown at the Societe d'Anthropologie which were poisoned with curare over a century ago, but still retained their deadly power. Small animals scratched with them died in half an hour.

A Vermont man has sold his wife for $5. This, however, in no way tends to throw any light on the question of woman's inferiority to man. It is extremely doubtful if this Vermont man's wife could have sold her husband for 6 cents.

At a horse race in South Australia, a few weeks ago, the falling of a leading horse brought nearly the whole field tumbling over him. Two jockeys were killed outright, half a dozen others seriously (some fatally) injured, and several horses killed or maimed.

A Kingston, Ont. policeman who was sent to Sweden to remove an alleged insane woman to the asylum, was attacked and forced to return by a mob of females who refused to allow him to accomplish his object, declaring that the woman was not insane.

The border religion leaves its brand of set behind when the grave is reached. A prominent New York Hebrew, Jonas Straus, has set an example to be imitated, leaving a large sum of money to be divided among charitable institutions without regard to creed.

Recent explorers in Alaska came upon a native village, containing eleven males, five of whom were deaf mutes, while one of the women was wholly deaf. This state of things is accounted for by steady intermarriage, as no other Indians lived within several days' journey.

Gen. Bszaine (ex-Marshal of France), who is living in Madrid, is enduring great privation and charitable appeals are being made to his comrades in his behalf. Several English generals have contributed to a fund that has been started for the benefit of the ex-Marshal.

"It is noticeable," remarks Life (London) "that the Queen, after returning to Windsor from Scotland or elsewhere, always pays a visit to the Empress Eugenie. The difference in their fortunes, if it has any influence with the Queen, only makes her more sympathetic and affectionate. But while the Empress is the survivor of a fallen dynasty, and the Queen is an Empress whose throne is the finest in the world, they are women who have peculiar griefs in common, in presence of which the difference in their external fortune is nothing."

Mr. Wm. H. Guion, Jr., that last one of the family who was connected with the steamship line which bears their name, died of pneumonia, at the age of thirty seven, at New York, on Thursday night week. He was the son of the late Dr. Edward M. Guion, and nephew of William H. Guion, New York, and of Stephen Guion, who died in Liverpool about three weeks ago. He was born in New York, and when a lad entered the office of Williams & Guion as an office-boy. He advanced steadily, and on the retirement of his uncle, Wm. H. Guion, two years ago, was admitted to a partnership, the firm having become Guion & Co. after the death of Mr. Williams. For the past two years he had been the head of the steamship line in this country. His uncle, Mr. Stephen Guion, representing the firm abroad.
