The week of the wedding the bride was again honored at many informal parties when friends, relatives and neighbors brought lovely gifts. Following the rehearsal Dr. and Mrs. Beck entertained the bridal party and the out-of-town guests at a delightful party in their summer home. Last night the young set of Montague surprised the young couple. At this party they received many gifts of their kithen. Refreshments were served. Mrs. Alan Nelson at the piano, a real sing-song ended a very happy evening.

GIVES ADVICE IN Viewing Eclipse KAPUSKASING, Ont., (CP)—The busy leader of a scientific party here to study the June 30 eclipse took time out Thursday to offer advice for the layman in watching or photographing the phenomenon. Dr. F. Heard of David Dunlap Observatory near Toronto warned that staring directly at the sky could cause serious eye injury. He recommended use of four or five thicknesses of heavily exposed film as a viewing device. Photographers experienced in taking pictures through a telescope may obtain good large scale photos of the corona, Dr. Heard said. If pictures are taken with a camera alone, he warned that the image of the moon will be small—1-16th of an inch on the film of a miniature camera, 1-20th with a folding camera. "I would suggest an exposure time of 100th of a second at wide aperture with fast film, or 1-25th at full aperture with color film, perhaps longer if using a tripod." For those just looking, Dr. Heard suggested sitting in a darkened room, or wearing a blindfold for half an hour before the eclipse.

242 SEIZURES MADE IN PROVINCE DURING PRESENT LOBSTER SEASON

The Department of Fisheries has made 242 seizures since the opening of the present lobster season on Prince Edward Island according to figures released by the local office in Charlottetown. The following are the areas in which confiscations have been finalized: West Prince 111; East Prince, 8; West Queens, 42; East Queens, 14; South Kings, 20; North Kings, 46.

Out of these confiscations 82 prosecutions have already taken place with all but one resulting in convictions. In West Prince there were 31 prosecutions; West Queens, 34; East Queens, 9; and North Kings, 8. A raid by three of the Govern- ment patrol boats on Thursday afternoon in the Alberton area re- sulted in two boats being found with underseized lobsters. Fisher- ies officials report that others dumped their illegal catch before the officers could come alongside.

In regard to a report that un- derseized lobsters are being shelled on the island and shipped to the mainland for canning, Mr. J. J. Larabee, Supervisor of Fisheries, stated his Department was un- aware of such practices. Mr. Lar- abee commented that "if such al- legations were true, it would be pretty green meat" by the time it reached the mainland. The lobster catch this season has been on a par with other sea- sons, except in the Tignish and Alberton areas where the catch has been poor. Prices have held firm throughout. The season ends June 30.

Strange But True

Did you know that most of the big cities had a speed limit for horse-drawn vehicles before the advent of the automobile? Police- men were ordered to give out tickets to any driver caught "run- ning his horse." President Grant was arrested in Washington, D. C., for racing a team of horses through the city and find $20.

It is of passing interest to note that only under the Georges did wheat become the staple diet in England. Prior to this, in Eng- land, as in all other northern Eu- ropean countries, pure wheat bread had been regarded as a luxury only indulged in by per- sons of means. Here are a few recipes for nightmares and the like: A heavy meal of meat before bedtime is good for a full hour show of headless people.

For a genuine family spectre carrying out the closet skeletons of the family tree, mince pie washed down with very strong tea or coffee, taken immediately be- fore retiring. For flying saucers and the lit- tle men that steer them, one gen- erous slice of fruit cake (grand- mother's style) plus six cigarettes just before retiring. But should you prefer ghosts and fearsome hags then by all means eat a big lobster salad right after midnight.

Too much liquor and tobacco will bring before your subcon- scious eyes a real snake pit. These are all proven recipes for ghosts and other spooky things. Did you know that beneath the base of Cleopatra's needle lies buried a lot of things to give men of the future an idea of us and our times? The burial of these items took place in 1878 and the list contains a man's lounge suit, the complete dress and vanities of a lady of fashion, illustrated papers, bibles in many languages, kids toys, a razor, cigars and cigarettes, photographs of the most beautiful women of Victorian England, and a complete set of coins from a farthing to five pounds; so the old monument that came from Egypt to stand guard over London, hides this treasure trove for future gen- erations to gloat over when this present civilization will have pas- sed away.

While the Soviet newspapers were screaming in big headlines about "capitalistic flying saucers" Great Britain's war office put on its long visioned spectacles last No- vember. For the first time it gave out an official report on those queer flying objects that every- body was talking about from one end of the world to the other. R. A. F. Flying Officers S. Smith and T. Johnson were up in a Vampire jet 20,000 feet on Nov. 3rd when they saw an object zooming through space at a terri- fic speed and high above their jet. They reported the object was circular and emitted a strong light.

Smith and Johnson reported their flying saucer immediately and meanwhile the war office had other reports of strange sky ob- jects. One of these reports came from a testing radar set in South- east London, which picked up a circular white object and lost it again at a height of 43,000 feet. The war office kept the infor- mation under its hat until Nov. 19, when it officially disclosed that three other radar tracings of strange sky objects had been re- ported between September 1st and September 22. In each case the radar echo was equal to that of a large bomber of from 100 to 200 feet. The radar report from the 256th Heavy Anti Aircraft Regiment in Southeastern London quoted Ser- geant Harry Waller and three oth- er witnesses. "There was strong echo on the screen, so I looked up through the telescope and there it was, just like a tennis ball," said Sergeant Waller. "It was white and completely circular. I couldn't see it with the naked eye."

"The sky that day was clear with only a few high clouds. The object appeared to be stationary for about 15 minutes. Then it moved off fast. It couldn't have been a balloon. To get the kind of signal we got it would have to be metallic."

What! You don't believe there are machines that reproduce? Dr. Claude Shannon of Bell Tele- phone Labs says there are and predicts that within a quarter cen- tury machines will be built cap- able of collecting parts from their environment and assemble them to produce duplicates. Electronic computers already have been trained like a dog to respond to external stimuli which can thread their way through a maze faster than living mice. Well, what next?

The following quaint epitaph was penned about Sir Thomas Knowles, Mayor of London, Eng- land about 1399: Here lyeth graven under this stone Grocer and alderman, years forty, Sheriff and twice mayor, truly: And for he should not lie alone, Here lyeth with him his good wife and Jean. They were together sixty year, And nineteen children they had in feere.

Plato (428 B. C.-348 B. C.) tells us that Atlantis sank while Spauhu gives the date of the sinking of Atlantis in the North Sea around 1200 B. C. or 800 years before Plato's time. Did this tragic event actually happen, or is it only fancy on the part of some imaginative writ- ers? Read this recent report, and then be your own judge whether the story is fact or fiction. "New details regarding the wal- led city 50 feet under the north have been announced of Heligoland who been announced by the Ger- man archaeologist Jurgen Spauhu, who believes he has definitely located Atlantis."

An expedition headed by the German archaeologist returned recently from exploring the sub- merged city. Divers discovered part of a large wall, heavy gates and street paving slabs, which looked as if they had been cast in molds. And strange but true, they found other evidence of Atlantis which will be made pub- lic in the near future. This seems to be the age of amazing discoveries of lost civ- ilizations, and what comes up next is anybody's guess.
