MARY HAWORTH

Distressed Wife Seeks Aid From Spouse's Rejection

Dear Mary Haworth: I have never written to a columnist before. I am the type of person who would be embarrassed to discuss this problem face-to-face with anyone. But as it continues to hurt me, perhaps just writing about it will help.

Two months ago we had our 24th wedding anniversary, which my husband ignored completely. When I mentioned it later, he said he hadn't forgotten but I didn't deserve any consideration or remembrance, as I am not being a wife to him.

I don't believe he has ever been more unreasonable or unfair than he is now. Several times I have felt at the breaking point but thanks to prayer and meditation I manage to keep up with the housework, including washing, ironing a and sewing and also help my aged mother, who isn't able to do much for herself.

My husband never has helped with chores or the children. If yard work is done, I have to do it, though he has a very easy job with two days off each week. I am going through change of life, very nervous at times, but trying to make it on my own without shots, etc., and prefer to sleep alone. Does this a temporary arrangement. I hope — mean that I've ceased to be a wife? My husband seems to think so. V. R.

Dear V. R.: It is foolish of you to make a hush-hush matter of your distress and your husband's unreasonableness. You should have a doctor's moral support, plus hormone shots if he prescribes them, in getting through the change of life.

For information on just how helpful a doctor can be, during this transitional phase, you might read Dr. Miriam Lincoln's book "You'll Live Through It: Facts About Change of Life" — published by Harper and Brothers.

Dr. Lincoln is concerned not only to help women get through the change with a minimum of stress but also she warns them against presuming, unwisely, to interpret and treat their own symptoms at this age.

By way of illustration she writes (see page 54) "Mrs. Damson is a good example of the unwisdom of automatically attributing all discomfort to the menopause. She found herself more and more nervous and suffered from palpitation and heart-consciousness, which she imputed to menopause."

When finally she consulted a doctor, it was obvious that she had a toxic goiter. She had lost a lot of time before getting treatment."

After reviewing assorted menopausal symptoms, Dr. Lincoln lists various ailments, "a no way varied to change of life, that produce identical symptoms. Hence the importance, she insists, of individual medi-

Basilica Parish Council Plans Activities For Funds

The January meeting of St. Dunstan's Basilica parish council of the Catholic Women's League was held Jan. 8 conducted by the president, Mrs. Fred Coyle.

Mrs. George MacDonald read the correspondence which consisted of thank you cards for masses and prayers from relatives of deceased and sick members also letters of thanks from the Precious Blood Monastery and Welfare Bureau for Christmas baskets for the needy received during the Christmas season, also from Red Cross for assistance at Blood Donors clinic, from Mrs. Mary MacQuill, convener of Our Ladies Missionaries and from Mrs. Ivan Bergan, convener of radio, television, in which she asked for assistance to sponsor the Bishop Sheen program.

Treasurer's report as given by Mrs. Mary Griffin, was very satisfactory.

Conveners reports were given and showed the vast amount of work done especially during the Yuletide season in helping the needy, visiting institutions and the sick and shut-ins, assisting at clinics, sewing, knitting, etc.

It was decided to hold a cake sale in February and also that a date be arranged for the annual Tag Day. Fifty dollars was voted to the Precious Blood Monastery to help furnish their new home and $5.00 for knitting yarn for welfare and basaar.

Very Rev. P.F. MacDonald spoke briefly asking members to pray especially during the Church Unity octave that "They all may be as Thou Father in me and I in Thee" and not to relax in saying the beautiful prayer of grace and thanksgiving before and after meals.

Marriage Vows Exchanged At Ceremony In Saint John

A pretty wedding of interest to islanders took place at West Side Kirk United Church, Saint John's, N.B., when Elizabeth Joyce Crozier, daughter of Mrs. Beatrice Crozier, Charlottetown, became the bride of P.O. William Charles White, R.C.N., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. White, Nanaimo, B.C.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. McVicar.

Baskets of gladioli decorated the altar and the guest pews were marked by pink miniature gladioli flowers and white satin streamers. Appropriate organ music was played by the church organist.

Given in marriage by Milton Frazee, the bride was lovely in her floor length white lace wedding gown, featuring a fitted bodice, long tapering sleeves ending in lily points over the back of her hands, scalloped Sabrina neckline and full skirt of net and lace over tulle. Her scalloped waist length veil of tulle illusion was held in place with an organza shaped rose. She carried a bouquet of red roses with white satin streamers. Her only jewelry was a pearl and diamond drop, the joy of the groom.

Mrs. Frank Todd, as matron of honor, was gowned in mauve organza with matching lace bolero and full ballerina length skirt. Her headress was a mauve organza picture hat. She wore matching accessories and carried a nosegay of yellow mums. Miss Mary Smith, as bridesmaid, wore a gown of yellow organza with full ballerina length skirt, picture hat of yellow with accessories to match. She carried a nosegay of mauve mums.

Little Valerie Summerville was very winsome as flower girl in a mauve flowered nylon dress. Her headress was a coronet of white and mauve flowers. She carried a petite basket of yellow baby mums.

Stirling Summerville was groomsmen. Pat Canon and Gerald Denton ushered the guests to their pews.

Mrs. Crozier, chose for her daughter's wedding a light navy crepe redingote dress with fuchsia and black accessories and a corsage of white orchids.

A reception was held in the Harbor Room of the Royal Hotel. The brides table was centered with a three tier wedding cake, topped with miniature bride and groom. On either side was an attractive arrangement of flowers and lighted tapers. The toast to the bride was proposed by the groomsmen and responded to by the groom. Mrs. Gerald Denton was in charge of the guest book.

For a honeymoon trip to Boston, the bride chose a walking suit of mauve wool mohair with black and white feathered hat with accessories to match and a corsage of orchids.

Prior to her marriage the bride was guest of honor at several miscellaneous showers where she received a number of lovely gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. White are residing in Dartmouth, N.S., where the groom is stationed with the R.C.N. at Shearwater.

cal examination, to rule out such possibilities, when a patient complains of acutely uncomfortable change of life. Only then can helpful treatment be devised.

Your husband's injured reaction to the situation is downright stupid and brutish. Still, it is consistent with his habitual selfishness in never lending a helping hand at home. His sulking signifies that he is blindly self-centered, wanting in sensible sympathy.

Until recently your generous spirit made up the deficit. But now that you aren't equal to the effort, temporarily, his emotional beggary becomes glaringly evident. What to do? Dr. Lincoln's book devotes a chapter to husbands; she underscores the truth that a good husband makes a good wife. Maybe her book could help your husband see straight.

I think we can accept the challenge of the new organization, "United Church Women", that we through it, be united for the total mission of the church and use it as a medium through which we may express our loyalty and devotion to Jesus Christ in Christian Witness, Study, Fellowship and Service."

Five area units were formed, each of which will meet once a month. The first meeting will be held Jan. 28. A general meeting for all units will be held Feb. 12. THEY RE-GREW HAIR!

IN 12 MONTHS IN 3 MONTHS

Hair Specialist Here Monday Will Show Men and Women How to Save Hair and Prevent Baldness

OTTAWA, Ont. New home treatment methods for saving hair and improving its growth will be demonstrated in Charlottetown Monday January 15 at the Charlottetown Hotel.

Trichologist R. G. Lang will be in charge, representing the dynamic Roberts Hair & Scalp Specialist organization. He will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 12:00 to 8:00 p.m.

This new treatment is neither "mail order" nor "cure-all." It is adapted to the individual after a personal examination and progress is checked at regular intervals by a Roberts Specialist.

Who Can Be Helped?

Will the new Roberts treatment cure baldness? "No!" For we cannot help men and women who are sick-bald after years of gradual hair loss. But if you still have fuzz and your scalp is still sensitive, hair you can at least examine and thicken what you have. Some conditions, such as "spot baldness" usually have complete coverage if caught in time!

Other conditions that usually bring on excessive hair-loss—dandruff, itching, over-oiling or dryness, follicle clogged with sebum or sebaceous—can be corrected by the Roberts home treatment if caught in time.

"DON'T WAIT UNTIL IT'S TOO LATE."

Baldness won't wait for you! If you are convinced, you're going to keep right on losing hair 'til you're bald—unless you get your scalp in healthy, hair-growing condition again.

Examine You Free

We want to make it clear that you incur absolutely no charge or obligation by coming in for an examination.

Your only obligation is to yourself. We do not accept cases that will not respond.

Guarantee Satisfaction

The Roberts Specialists will give you a written guarantee that you must be satisfied within 30 days or it will cost you nothing.

For a free examination and treatment of your hair condition, ask the desk clerk for Mr. Lang's room number. He does not make appointments, so come in at your convenience.

Examinations are given in private.

ELLEN'S DIARY

"My Task Accomplished And The Long Day Done"

"What do you make of it?" Mack questioned a weekend visitor this evening of the weather, when they stopped a moment in the yard to take stock of it.

"I'd say—There's a new moon today, isn't there? Yes. Then we may get a change. You'll see it come milder now."

"That's what I've been hoping," Mack smiled. "I've been wishing for a thaw."

"I believe it's in the wind" the visitor nodded.

"What is?" James queried coming by.

"A thaw—to make a skating," Mack grinned.

"And" James added with a wry smile "to bring its worries: icy yards, slippery roads, accidents. Branches drooped over service-wires."

Dusk was falling then, veiling the far white hills in purple shadow; making of the groves and woodlands about, a dark velvety design against the winter-white fields. So pleasant a time of day that is now on farms — when the dimming of the twilight gathers in the household to supper—

No "traditional" beans and brown bread was to be our fare, but cold roast pork and spicy apple relish from the shelf in the cellar. Baking powder biscuits hot from the oven would eke out our falling supply of bread which must last over Sunday. For sweets there were cookies and strawberry jam.

This was a preserve made by a rule-of-thumb method: berries washed and strained, sugar added in such a quantity as it pleases the housewife — sweet, or not-so-sweet. Then we set it aside to wait overnight. In the morning, we stir it gently to mix well, yet keep the fruit whole, then consign it to tins, and seal and process them. One of the simplest methods of preserving, we find this comes from the tins ruby-red and tasteful. And while enjoying it, one may return in mind to the joys of the July-time: see the warm blue of the summer-sky, the lush greens of the farm-lands, and hear in fancy, though it may be with some regret, the sound of the mowing-blades at work in the haylands.

With each passing day, we move farther along the new year's path.

It was early on the New Year's Day, that mother of the family born and reared in our childhood home, heard and heeded — that strange call which severs every earthly tie. A September child, she had seen 95 summers. And now weary and lonely, as are folk who have lost many a loved one and friend along the way, she went in a dream from her pillow.

She was one who never spread a meal she was unwilling to share. With whom wayfarer, friend, kin, it mattered little, just so long as he was "hungry." She never baked a loaf that was not spiced with the spirit of kindness. Nor toiled for reward, but accepted happily and glorified thereby every work of her hands. Flowers bloomed easily for her children, were happy with her and her house was an orderly and pleasant home.

"Home" someone has said, "It is the last stanza of the road song. It is the meeting with beauty — not awful, a p p calling beauty, but the beauty of family scenes glorified and dear smiling faces, we have lost while it is the fulfillment of the road's promise, and the justification of the road's tolls."

"Home is the last stanza" of the song and the end of the road. And — paradoxically and superbly — it is the beginning of a new song, and the first step upon a road that has no ending.

"So be my passing!

My task accomplished and the long day done,
My wages taken, and in my heart
Some little lark singing,
Let me be gathered to the quiet west.
The sundown, spendid and serene."

Following some discussion it was agreed that as the Catholic Women's League have a Mass offered on the first Friday of each month for the increase of religious vocations, that the general Communion be held on this day.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Huestis of Summerside had as their recent guest, their son, Robert, of Halifax, N.S.
