cent increase in hog breeding in January this still represents only a fraction of the decrease noted last year. At the same time it is anticipated that this year there will be a 20 per cent increase in beef marketing.

January slaughtering of cattle showed a 22 per cent increase in the United States, jumping from 1,093,300 in 1953 to 1,262,100 animals this past month. In Canada there was a 18 per cent rise from 112,768 to 132,866. But there was a startling drop in the number of hogs marketed reflecting the heavy sales of a year ago when breeders feared the bottom was dropping out of the market.

In January of last year there were 421,548 hogs sent to market, but in the same month of this year there were only 350,621 for a 21 per cent drop.

At the same time when farmers are breeding even their top quality sows and sows of the year, agricultural experts warned, they were making a mistake and predicted that before the end of the year pork should be selling at a higher price than beef.

Rapidly Expanding

The Commodore stated that the Navy is rapidly expanding and through building and conversion is planning a new aircraft carrier, 14 destroyer escorts of a completely new design, 14 new minesweepers, eight completely renovated and fitted with all new equipment. These are over and above the ships already in service.

He stated that the Reserve was well started on its program of building up a reserve air crew training scheme and has five squadrons in being or about to be established. They are located at Toronto, Kingston, Quebec, Calgary and Victoria.

At the same time, he said, recruiting for the regular force is going well and the Navy is getting its full share of young men entering the services.

Naval Career

Commodore Adams entered Naval College in 1919, graduating three years later. He then spent five years in the merchant service before re-entering the Navy in which he trained in Canada and at the Royal Naval College, Greenwich, England, and at Portsmouth, England. This he spent two years in the Mediterranean with the Mediterranean Fleet.

During his naval service he has commanded the Prince David, the Assiniboine, which later went a ground off East Point, the Iroquois, the cruiser Uganda and shore stations at Stadacona and Naden, B.C. He was in command of the big aircraft carrier H.M.C.S. Attended Civil Defense College

Chief of Police C. W. MacArthur M. M., (above) returned last night from Annapolis, Ontario, where he attended the first class or forum at the newly established Civil Defense College.

Chief MacArthur states that Federal Government believing that preparedness is necessary not knowing what developments may take place in the International situation, have opened this school for instruction in all phases of Civil Defence, including police, wardens, fire, rescue, welfare, health and ambulance services.

The first course embodied forty police chiefs from St. John's, Newfoundland, to Vancouver and Victoria, B. C. It was specifically for the instruction of police in their duties, should a major disaster occur. This might result from enemy attack or other sources such as fire, tornado, floods, etc. In future, courses will be held regularly at this Civil Defence College and members of the above named services will be designated from time to time to attend the institution.

The initial or pilot course was for one week's duration and was held principally to get the views and ideas of those attending in regard to future agenda. It was addressed and officially opened by the Hon. Paul Martin, Minister of Health and Welfare under whose jurisdiction this Department now functions. Lecturers included Major General F. F. Worthington, head of Canadian Civil Defence program; Air Commodore F. E. Carpenter, Royal Canadian Air Force; Dr. E. E. Massy, Defence Research Board; Mr. P. Batson, U. S. Civil Defence Administration and Lt. Colonel F. C. Bacon, Army Medical Corps at Camp Borden, Ontario. Future courses will be for two weeks duration.

The grounds and buildings of the new Civil Defence College were formerly occupied by the R. C.A.F. Armory is approximately 48 miles northwest of Ottawa.

Second Dramatic Production Of Centennial Year

The second dramatic production of the Centennial Year at St. Dunstan's College will be presented in the college auditorium tonight, "Thor, with Angels," a medieval play by Christopher Fry, will be staged by the dramatic society of St. Thomas' College, Oshawa, N. B. Dr. A. P. Campbell, of this city, Professor of English at St. Thomas' College is the director.

Tonight's presentation, open to the general public as well as the College personnel, will be the only Charlottetown performance of this play, which was the Canterbury selection for 1948.

A leading drama critic in a recent article in "America" magazine commented on the play as follows:

"Thor, with Angels" tells the story of the awakening to new life of a (literally) god-fearing Jewish farmer of Kent in the year 596. Through inexplicable circumstances he finds himself ready for the Christian teaching of Augustine. Cymen, father of two sons and a younger daughter, in a battle with Saxon neighbors, has been prevented by an unseen force from slaying a young Briton fighting for the Saxons. With dogged determination to understand, he brings the youth home a captive, obstinately refusing to carry out the wishes of his brothers-in-law that he slay the Briton in order to placate the gods whom they worship in servile fear. Their sister, Cymen's wife, Glodeswida, vacillates between compassion for her bewildered, stubborn son and the irrevocable fear of deities. "It isn't easy to keep on the windy side of Woden, as anyone knows," she says once. Cymen's wife has something of the shrewdness of Mrs. Noah in the mystery plays.

"But Cymen is strong enough to stand against wife and brothers and sons. He will save the Briton in order to understand the spiritual thing which he knows has happened to him. What it is like he tries to suggest in these words to Hoel, the Briton: 'As tho a spirit in you, like A wild fowl hiding in the mere of your flesh, Heard the sound far off and flew up clamoring Raising a spirit in me.'"

"The language in Fry's plays is so enchantingly expressive that the critic must continually resist the temptation to offer small compliments of this refreshing fountain of English lyricism. But no Christian can resist quoting lines like Cymen's explanation of what he has felt in this first fingering of

Gift Of Fawns From Manitoba

Mr. Ira Banks of Conway, P. E. I., was the recipient of a unique gift when two one-year-old fawns arrived at his home from Portage La Prairie, Manitoba. The two "Blacktails", a male and female, were sent to Mr. Banks by Rev. Lloyd Henderson, minister of the Presbyterian Church, Mayor of Portage La Prairie and brother of Mrs. Ira Banks.

The matter of shipping a couple of deer to the Island was discussed about a year ago when Rev. Mr. Henderson was on a visit to his sister. They were captured in an area adjoining the prairie town and arrived here in perfect condition. Their feeding during the trip consisted of a handful of grain and a handful of hay, first thing in the morning. They also received one quart of water each day.

It is Mr. Banks' intention to keep the animals confined to a ranch during the winter and if they do well he will release them in the Black Banks area.

Fourteen deer have been brought to this Province previously, through the efforts of Senator Jones, then Premier. Little is known of the whereabouts of these animals, although two have been reported seen in the Cardigan area recently.

SDU Win Intercollegiate Debate From St. Thomas

A Saint Dunstan's University debating team of Miss Mary Farmer and John Walsh defeated a team from St. Thomas University in a Maritime Intercollegiate Debate at S.D.U. last night. The Saint Dunstan's debaters were unanimous winners.

St. Dunstan's defended the resolution "That increased immigration would be beneficial to Canada." They were opposed by Jim Daly and Rod Violette of St. Thomas.

The judges were Messrs. Frank MacPhee, Leo F. MacDonald and J. J. Morris. The Chairman was Art Pendergast of St. Dunstan's. The win was the second for the Saints in the M.I.D.L. this year. They will hold their third and final debate at Dalhousie University tonight. Allan MacDonald and Ian Gillis will represent St. Dunstan's.

A win tonight would possibly mean the Maritime championship for the local college. Two years ago Saint Dunstan's won the Maritime and Canadian Intercollegiate debating championships.

The debating moderator at S. D. U. is Rev. F. L. Carr. He has had outstanding success as a coach during the years that St. Dunstan's have competed in intercollegiate debating competition.

Two Apprehended In Purse Snatchings

City Police report that a 22-year-old man and a youth, twelve years of age, have been apprehended in connection with the recent purse snatchings which have taken place here. Both have been charged accordingly and will appear in Court this morning.

Three women, during the last two weeks have fallen victim to the acts of a party or parties who moved with such speed that their identification was difficult to establish. Afternoon Tea For Legislative Members

The customary afternoon tea on the occasion of the opening of the Legislature will be held in the Confederation Chamber March 2 by the Women's Liberal Club. The decision was announced following the regular meeting of the club at the Legion Home presided by Mrs. Joseph Rodd president. Mrs. Milton Bell was named convener for the tea.

Club members observed a period of silence in memory of the late Mrs. D. J. Riley who had been active in the club over a long period of time.

Mrs. Rodd gave an interesting and detailed report of the 25th annual meeting of the National Liberal Women's Federation which was held in Ottawa last November 23 and 24.

Lunch last night was served by a committee of Mrs. Gertrude Gormley, Mrs. Harry Bonnell and Mrs. Maurice Burrows. It was decided that the next club meeting would be held in April after the closing of the session of the Legislature.

SEAWAY NEUTRALITY

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Representative Clarence E. Kilburn (Rep.-N.Y.) said Tuesday that the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, long opposed to the St. Lawrence seaway, now has adopted a position of neutrality. A similar decision was taken recently by the Brotherhood of Railroad Engineers.

grace upon his arrogant yet receptive spirit: "A violence of humility arrogantly Demanding all I am or possess of have ambitions for."

The critic goes on to say, "Let it not be supposed that Fry has merely told a pious story of the conservation of a pagan Jute in the year 596, just after Pope Gregory had made the ever-to-be quoted pun on Angles and Angels which gave Fry his title, 'Thor, with Angels.' There are no visible angels in this play about the Saxons and Jutes, Britons and Merlins (no less). It is the story of a hard-headed, hard-fisted farmer and his practical wife and their children, two strong sons old enough to want to be on the successful side, and a younger daughter with a heart as compassionate as Miranda's and a spirit as frank as Rosalind's."

"Powerfully evocative of Anglo-Saxon England in its rugged verse and idiom," the critic concludes, "This play about the conflict in the soul of Cymen between grace and nature has the essential integrity of good drama: it is true to life."

Card Of Thanks

The family of the late Mrs. Edwin Dawson wish to express their sincere thanks to Dr. Simms, the clergy, the staff of the Stewards Department of the Abbeville, Mr. Heath Chisholm, and all those good friends and neighbors who sent Mass cards, flowers and messages of sympathy or in any way helped during their recent sad bereavement.
