Housebreaking Charges Are Heard In Summerside Court

SUMMERSIDE — Hearing of the charges of possession of housebreaking instruments, without lawful excuse against four Summerside youths, began here yesterday in Prince County Judge's Criminal Court, with testimony of nine Crown witnesses. Six more Crown witnesses are scheduled to be heard when the trial continues at 10:15 Monday morning.

The four, Gary Wayne McKenna, Elmer Stephen Salvin, Robert Ernest Richard and Ivan Joseph Arsenault, are also charged with break, entry and theft into the store of Charles Olin Ellis, New Glasgow, but after lengthy argument by Crown

Prosecutor George R. McMahon and defense counsel Neil R. MacLeod, only the possession case was being heard yesterday. Mr. MacLeod, who has been appointed by the Court to represent the accused, argued that the break, entry and theft of offence took place in Queens County and the accused should have been tried before a Queens County Judge, unless they had specifically requested trial here, which they had been given no opportunity to do. He also objected to hearing of the second count of possession of housebreaking instruments because there had been no preliminary hearing of the charge.

Presiding Judge Walter E. Darby, agreed with Mr. MacLeod's first contention, but overruled the objection to the hearing on the charge of possession of housebreaking instruments. Hearing of Crown witnesses on the possession charge then began. First witness called was a George (Junior) Kincaid of Summerside, who said he had driven with the four accused to Charlottetown on the night of September 14 in the taxi belonging to John Morrison. They had gone to a dance and come back to Summerside. When he left them it was close to two o'clock.

John Morrison, Summerside Taxi owner and driver, said McKenna had been operating his taxi all day September 14, and that it was a white 1966 Ford. Summerside Town Police Constable Carl Newson testified he had seen four persons in the taxi, which he had known belonged to John Morrison, when the taxi passed down Water Street and into a driveway to the home of Ivan Arsenault about 2:30 the morning of September 15. He was on routine foot patrol at the time and watched Arsenault get out of the car and go into his house. He came out with what appeared to be a bag, which he threw into the trunk of the car. Gary McKenna had gotten out of the car and opened the trunk. Arsenault had gone back into the house and returned with what appeared to be a bag, which he threw into the trunk of the car and closed the trunk, then got into the taxi, which was driven away and proceeded east down Water Street.

Charles Olin Ellis, owner of the store at New Glasgow, testified that he had discovered the break before eight o'clock the morning of September 15, and that two cash registers and a filing case were missing. He said only a small amount of cash had been in the cash registers, estimating the amount at $10 to $15. One cash register he estimated to be worth about $700, the other about $100. When the cash registers were found, both were damaged, the more valuable one to a greater extent. Staff Sergeant Peter S. Gazy, stationed at the RCMP Crime Detection Lab at Sackville, N.B., gave his opinion that an axe produced in evidence by the crown had made a tool mark on a piece of the cash register taken from the Ellis store. He also stated it was his opinion that some wood chips presented as crown exhibits had come from the axe which made the identification in the cash register.

Other witnesses yesterday were Ralph Burns, Freetown, who sold a cash register to Mr. Ellis this year; Francis Andrew Godey, Charlottetown, a representative of the National Cash Register Company; CPL. William H. Smith, in charge of identifications Section, RCMP, Charlottetown; and Elmer Blanchard, New Glasgow, who was employed at the Ellis Store at the time of the break.

Registration beginning at 9:30 a.m. on Monday, November 21, will mark the opening of a two-day work shop for Prince Edward Island clergymen, at the Royal Canadian Legion. The workshop is sponsored by the Prince Edward Island Division of the Canadian Mental Health Association.

The theme address for the morning session will be presented by John Evans and will be "Youth". Other speakers will include, Dr. Ian Stewart, John Eldon Green and Rev. James Kelly. On Monday afternoon a panel discussion entitled "Youth Takes a Look At Itself and Its World" will be presented and will be chaired by Rev. Walter Reid. A general discussion will follow the panel discussion.

A dinner at Riverside Hospital, to be followed by a session in the auditorium is slated for Monday evening. Dr. Stewart will speak at this session on "A Psychiatrist's Insight Into Emotional Problems of Youth". On Tuesday morning proposals for a comprehensive treatment program for alcoholics in Prince Edward Island will be discussed, with Mr. Green being the guest speaker. Following the noon luncheon Rev. Kelly will comment on the place of the church with youth.

Three Building Projects Underway

ALBERTON — Three major building projects got underway this week in the town of Alberton and work on all three is expected to continue most of the winter.

The contract for the largest structure, a Senior Citizens Home for special care, has been awarded to M. F. Schurman Co. for approximately $425,000.

Located on Church Street of properties formerly owned by George Bennett and the late Dr. A. L. Pudry, the home will provide for fifteen bed patients and for about thirty five guests who can be up and around. There will be a library, reading room, lounge and an interdenominational Chapel.

The second largest project is a recreation centre to be constructed on the former Alberton School property on south Main Street. The 96 x 110 foot building will have space for six bowling lanes, a billiard room, a 40 x 60 auditorium, office, kitchen and washrooms. The centre will be constructed from four unused building units purchased from Crown Assets Corporation. Two of the units arrived on Thursday. The project is being sponsored by the Sacred Heart Parish.

A start has been made on the construction of new premises for Leavitts Maple Tree Craft, an Alberton industry which has carried the Island's name across Canada and into the United States.

The 156 x 29 building will be located north of the present workshops on Prince William Street and will make use of two of the building units from Crown Assets Corporation. The building will have a large display room, two work areas, office, washroom and storage rooms. Besides the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Leavitt there are three employees in the present shop.

Nearing completion in Alberton is a large extension to the Regional High School which contains an auditorium, five additional class rooms, showers, washrooms and lockers. Contractors are Williams and Murphy of Summerside.

The various projects will provide considerable employment for tradesmen in the area.

Corporal MacLeod Is Guest Speaker

The guest speaker at the Prince Street Home and School meeting held Thursday night, was Cpl. Allan MacLeod of the investigation branch of the Charlottetown Police Department.

Cpl. MacLeod, introduced by program chairman, Joe Murphy, stressed the need for good relations between the police department and general public. He discussed the role of the parents, teachers and children in co-operating in building a better community.

President Jim Fox announced that a project will be undertaken by the women's section of the association in January. Miss Olga Tombs reported on the annual convention of the Home and School Association.

The principal, Miss Mabel Matheson expressed pleasure in the interest of parents in the school as shown by the numbers attending parent-teacher interviews recently concluded.

She discussed briefly "Young Canada Book Week" and the project undertaken by the classes to add new books to the library.

Parents were invited to attend school skating sessions at the Forum held once a month. Following the meeting parents visited the school library where they were met by librarian, Miss Alice Fraser.

Assistance On Grain Is Topic

Freight assistance on western grain could be a live issue when the federation of agriculture people hold annual county meetings in the next two weeks.

This was a strong point of Eastern farmers' demands in the past years. Any suggestion the assistance might be removed aroused immediate fighting talk among agriculturists.

But Queens County president, and Knud Jorgensen, Fredericton, spoke out strongly against the freight assistance plan on grain last year. At least one important agricultural speaker from Ontario denounced the idea of importing grain, when he spoke to a local farm audience this past summer.

So the plan could arouse strong discussion this time. The Queens County federation meets at Birch Court on Tuesday night next; the Prince County federation meets in the United Church centre at O'Leary on Thursday evening and the Kings County people meet in the United Church hall at Souris on November 28.

Disease control in the all important potato crop is almost certain to receive some attention. Should there be a really tough polley or is there a case for trying to live with ring rot? Changes in fish and game regulations are being questioned. Are the rights of property owners being respected?

Should the registration of farm trucks be on a better basis than the recent quarterly fee concession? Recent Halloween occurrences tending towards fire and destruction of property are causing considerable concern. Are expropriation powers vested in different groups fair to the property owner? Farmers can no longer stay in business without profits on their operation. Is there a case for something much more definite in the way of guaranteed minimum income for the efficient farmer?

He said that at the meeting the "professionals" outlined the effects of atomic bombings with no "hysteria" merely stating a series of facts.

He said he saw that "an acceleration and broadening of our disaster planning" was also useful in coping with natural and man-made disasters, as well as the nuclear.

He asked for greater "co-operation in working and planning with our civil defence coordinator."
