WAR CLAIMS COMMISSION NOTICE

To ex-prisoners of war in Europe (including merchant navy personnel), and to surviving dependents of deceased prisoners of war:

NOTICE is hereby given that the War Claims Commission, with the approval of the Government of Canada, has today adopted an amended interpretation of the War Claims Rules applicable to claims for maltreatment of prisoners of war (including merchant seamen) in Europe during World War II. Under the amended interpretation there have been established three presumptions of fact, applicable to the majority of cases of this class:

- (1) (rebuttable) that some degree of maltreatment was inflicted, though sporadic and intermittent;
 - (2) that some degree of incapacity to work resulted;
 - (3) that such incapacity subsisted for some period or time after liberation.
- On the basis of these presumptions, it is anticipated that the Commission can now adjudicate the very great majority of claims of this class on the strength of documentary evidence provided by the claimants and of corroboration secured by the Commission, from official records, thus relieving most individual claimants from the burden and expense of attending oral hearings.
- It should be noted, however, that in order to avail themselves of the amended interpretation of the Rules, claimants who have not already given notice of their intention to claim, must forward such notice in writing to the War Claims Commission, Ottawa, Canada, on or before December 31, 1953.
- Given at Ottawa this seventh day of October A.D. 1953.
- THANE A. CAMPBELL,
 Chief War Claims Commissioner.
