Hundreds Watch Highland Games At Lord Selkirk Park

The call of the pipes, a call that cannot be ignored by any Scot, was answered yesterday by hundreds of Islanders and visiting allies who crowded Lord Selkirk Park, in the scenic district of Belfast, to witness the Highland Games.

Although, at times, the weather was threatening, giving the appearance of a heavy downpour any minute, the day was mostly sunny, and the large crowd took advantage of it to wear their favorite tartan.

Dressed in highland regalia, MacRae MacRae, MP for Queens, officially opened the event. He pointed out that wherever a Scot goes, he becomes a nationalist and that across the years of history, Scots have found well in the forefront with national events.

Also speaking briefly were Gordon Ross, Chief of the Caledonian Club and Howard MacKinnon, president of the club. The master of ceremonies was James Walker.

The official party was piped to the platform by the MacLacross Gait Pipe Band from Glace Bay, N.S., and the MacDonnell Gait Pipe Band from St. John's, N.S.

PRINCE EDWARD Island named a senior and a junior dancing champion at the Highland Games at Eldon yesterday. They were Marsha Walker, Southport, senior champion, and Heather Burke, Charlottetown, the junior champion. They were presented with their trophies by Gordon Ross, chief of the Caledonian Club of P.E.I. and Howard MacKinnon, president of the club, respectively. Both girls were placed fairly high in the day's competitions, and walked off with their share of prizes.

A FEW grunts and a mighty push sends this caber flying through the air as part of the caber tossing competition at the Highland Games in Eldon yesterday. The caber toss is always a popular event at every Scottish gathering and yesterday was no exception as a large crowd of spectators gathered to see how far the heavy object could be thrown.

The winning distance was 10 feet 1 inch with Irwin Connolly by doing the throw. The caber toss was only one of the many sporting events staged during the day.

RCAF Announces Further Layoffs

Summerside Bureau of THE GUARDIAN Approximately 27 more casual civilian laborers have been ordered to leave the RCAF Summerside it was learned yesterday by the chief administrative officer, Sgd. Ldr. E. Semple.

Seven of this number, who are painters, will be retained until the end of this week, the officer explained. This brings to 37 the number of casual employees that have been released in the past six days due to the lack of funds for internal maintenance of the air base, which is attributed to the government's emergency program.

About 80 men had been employed in the construction engineering section before the layoffs commenced, consisting of painters, laborers and other maintenance workers. Commenting on the second layoff within a week, R. W. Betton, eastern vice-president of the National Defence Employees Association last night in a statement told The Guardian "This move is far more serious than at first expected."
