

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

DECEMBER 13, 1894.

THE SITUATION.

CANADA is today shocked and grief-stricken. It is impossible to describe the feelings of surprise, regret and genuine sorrow caused by the sad and terrible news of last evening. The foremost man of Canada, struck down at the heart of the Empire, in the hour of his greatest earthly triumph. What a consummation, and what a lesson, and how appropriate the words of Milton:

"Fame is the spur that the clear spirit doth raise (That last infirmity of noble soul) To scorn delights and live laborious days; But the fair guerdon when we hope to find, Adh think to burst into open blaze, Comes the blind fury with the abhorred shears, And splits the shyn span life."

While full of sympathy for the family thus suddenly bereaved, the people are beginning to talk about the effects of the death of the Prime Minister. It is pretty generally understood that the Government is now centered in the Governor General. Lord Aberdeen was deprived of all his constitutional advisers at the moment that the Premier expired. That which will be done by the Governor General until a new administration is formed will be done upon his own responsibility. We note that the Guardian's Montreal despatch states that he has summoned to his side the Honorable McKENZIE BOWELL. That is, without doubt, the wisest thing that he could do under the circumstances, though it will not necessarily follow that Mr. Bowell will succeed to the Premiership, or even that he will be offered the high and onerous position of Prime Minister. Mr. Bowell was the acting Premier in the late administration, and he is the oldest and most experienced man in the late Cabinet. What more natural than that the Governor-General should consult with him as to whom he ought to call upon to form a new Cabinet? With his personal knowledge of the labors and responsibilities of the Leader of the Government, and with Sir Charles Tupper in the background, I think it unlikely that Mr. Bowell would at once accept the task of forming an administration, even if it were pressed upon him. It is more likely that he will advise His Excellency to call upon Sir Charles Tupper, whose name and prestige would command the highest respect of the Liberal-Conservative Party throughout the country, and who would bring to the office of Premier, not only the largest experience but the greatest ability as a Canadian statesman. But Sir Charles Tupper is now seventy-three years of age, and he may well decline the great responsibility of leading a Government and contesting an election. In that case the choice of the Governor-General will probably be between Mr. Bowell, Mr. Foster, Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, Mr. Bowell, who is himself no longer young, may perhaps, prefer one of the others. On the other hand it is not likely that either Mr. Foster or Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper would care to take the leadership of the Government until his ability as a leader of parliament has been more fully proven upon the floor of the House of Commons. Upon the whole we incline to the opinion that if Sir Charles Tupper should decline to form an administration, the task will devolve upon Mr. Bowell, who has long been known as one of the best all round men in council, in office, and in parliament. That Mr. Bowell has held high positions in the Orange order may, perhaps, be deemed an objection by some persons. But all those who have observed the fair and moderate and unprejudiced course that he has pursued, throughout the whole course of the past sixteen years, to ward off all classes and all creeds, will not permit that fact to weigh against him for a moment.

In any case, and whoever may be called to the Premiership by the Governor-General, we hope and trust that no question as between persons will be permitted to disturb the solidarity of the great Liberal-Conservative party. Union is strength, and strength is needed in view of the battles of the future. Men may come and men may go; but Canada will live on. It is the maintenance of those conditions which make for the prosperity of Canada and most of all, we are chiefly concerned and most solicitous. The Liberal-Conservative party is under a leader, but it has a policy, a well understood policy, and a continuance of that policy is, we believe, essential to the welfare of the country. Let us follow the new leader, whether he be a Tupper, or Foster, or Bowell, and maintain the National Policy of Canada.

The present House of Representatives in the United States numbers 219 Democrats, 123 Republicans and 12 Populists. The latest count of the new House shows 244 Republicans, 104 Democrats and 6 Populists. The present Democratic majority has reason for declining to go any further with the work of free trade tariff reform.

ACKLAND, N. Z., Dec. 11.—Premier Ward has outlined in a speech the policy of the government in the coming session. Their aim, he said, would be to reduce the tariff, introduce extensive local government reforms and old age pensions. He condemned Great Britain's apathy in the matter of the Pacific cable, expressing regret that the powerful influence of one man was of more importance than the wishes of the colonists. He contended that the colonists' opinions as to Samoa ought to be treated with respect, inasmuch as they were prompted by the best spirit and aimed at the welfare of the empire.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Feeling the weakness of the position of the Opposition in respect to the fiscal policy, the Montreal Transcript has gone into the question of "cash here."

The Montreal Transcript's "England, Australia, United States, Newfoundland, Canada" alone has been exempt from financial disaster. There is something in good government and a fiscal policy to suit the times.

The Earl of Jersey's report closes with these words: "I am impressed with the belief that the channels between the Ottawa conference are sound and practical and full of imperial advantages. Never perhaps in the history of the empire has such an opportunity been given the mother country to help clear the channels between the colonies and herself, so that trade will be increased and the feeling of kinship will not be stopped. The ready and generous consideration of the proposals would be hailed with intense satisfaction."

CASH VERSUS CREDIT.

The Toronto Globe, commenting on the trade situation, says the tendency in Ontario is more and more toward getting business into the hands of men with capital, which fact, it thinks, will in the next few years effect some important changes in the retail trade of the country. The Montreal Gazette remarks that where a business man has ready capital he is able to avail himself of the considerable cash discounts which are offered by wholesalers and manufacturers. This not only means, in the course of a year, a saving that goes to swell his profits, but it enables him, in the local market, to more than meet his less fortunate rivals, and gives him the pick of the retail custom. Business is done on a narrower margin both by wholesaler and retailer, the lessened risk of loss attending cash transactions making this possible. Some Montreal travelers have of late commented on the same state of affairs, which, as it develops, will be a good thing all round, and especially to the cash merchant, who, under the credit system, pays not only a fair profit on what he himself uses, but a share of the merchant's losses on what is sold to people who do not pay at all. The Globe's observations also agree with a feature of the bank statements noted lately, namely, an increasing circulation and a declining volume of discounts. There are, however, other conditions in the general situation to account for this, and it would be a mistake to attribute too much in connection with the banks to the growth of the cash system. That it has extended so far as to attract such public attention is, however, a significant and satisfactory fact.

OBITUARY.

The Pioneer reports: Mr. Wm. Alfred Reeves, son of Mr. Thomas Reeves, of Freeport, died somewhat suddenly at the residence of his brother-in-law, John M. Clark, of the firm of Schurman, Clark & Co. Mr. Reeves came in from Freeport on Monday, and on Tuesday evening, prior to Mr. Clark going to Clifton, he was up about the house in seemingly his usual health, although he has been ailing more or less for some time past. About 9 o'clock he breathed his last, about at his usual bed, being only a half hour previous that his life was ebbing away.

Another of the old residents of North Beauce passed away through the night of Tuesday in the person of Alexander Lefurgey, Esq., at the age of 76 years. Mr. Lefurgey has been ailing for some time but it was only on Sunday last that his family became aware that the end was approaching. The deceased is universally spoken of as a quiet, unassuming gentleman who attended to the duties of his home and farm assiduously. He was also an honored member of the Baptist Church and held in high esteem by all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance. He leaves behind him a number of sons and daughters, only one—Montague, the eldest of the family—having preceded him to the great beyond. Those remaining are: Thomas Lefurgey, the business manager of the Pioneer Co., David and Maynard, who live on the homestead, Spurgeon living in Boston and Rev. Lefurgey of North Beauce. The daughters are: Mrs. John Lawson of St. Paul, Minn., Mrs. Thos. Andrew and Mrs. Henry Seales of St. Elizabeth, Miss Lucy Lefurgey, at present in Boston, and Miss Mable who lives home.

A SUGGESTION.

Sir,—As there seems to be a disposition on the part of a majority of the City Council to appoint none but smart, energetic young men as members of the Police force, judging by their action at the meeting on Tuesday evening last, would it not be well to supply all the force with bicycles, as is done in all progressive towns and cities. This would enable the men to go their rounds much faster, and would, no doubt, give better satisfaction to the property-holders and taxpayers.

CITIZENS.

Receiving the Ladies.

The unceasing struggle for supremacy in almost every line of trade undoubtedly has a tendency to make dealers resort to questionable methods of business. Take, for instance, a line of high-class dress goods like Priestley's, which has been brought to a state of perfection and has attained popularity everywhere; as soon as the leading importers of these goods and no others, it is reported that some merchants have even taken the "Varnish-board" Priestley's Trade Mark out of the Genuine Priestley's Black Dress Goods or Cravenettes, and wrapped inferior goods upon it, for the purpose of deceiving the customer. Fortunately, however, an extra precaution was adopted by the manufacturers in stamping the name "Priestley's" and the length on every yard, so that ladies who want these goods can be sure they are getting them.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

THEIR NAMES WANTED.

Sir,—I observe by the published reports of the last meeting of Council that some citizens protested against Walter Kinsman's appointment to a post of honor in the police force because he was a Catholic. But none of the papers gave their names. Will you kindly supply the omission? There are very many people in Charlottetown who would like to know who these liberal-minded worthies are.

FAIR PLAY.
Charlottetown, Dec. 12, 1894.

COUNCILLORS CRITICISED.

Sir,—Some time ago I noticed a letter in your paper bearing the signature of T. Z. Taylor, in which he made some attempt at replying to what had been said about him in THE EXAMINER, by some writer whose name de plume has escaped my memory, and in which he also proclaimed himself the friend of Catholics. He failed, however, to point out to what extent he had befriended Catholics. If he ever did anything to help along a Catholic I do not know it, and there are hundreds of others like me. Perhaps he will take the public into his confidence, and "make a clean breast of it." His action in the Kinsman matter would indicate that he is not above suspicion. Councillor Douse is another member of the Board who poses as a friend of Catholics. But he, also, has been found wanting. How long will Catholics continue to support such men?

CITIZEN.

THE DISMISSAL OF KINSMAN.

Sir,—The expected has happened. Walter Kinsman, appointed a policeman a month ago, was last evening dismissed. Both appointment and dismissal were ordered by the one body—the City Council. Kinsman was appointed policeman on the casting vote of Mayor Dawson; last evening he was dismissed on the casting vote of the same gentleman! Councillor Taylor's "bullying" evidently proved too much for His Worship. I was present at the meeting of Council, and am in a position to state what took place. After Kinsman was appointed, Taylor raised the religious cry, and said the Protestants had been "done out" by their policeman. The Mayor meekly remarked that he "didn't know Kinsman was a Catholic," whereupon Taylor shaking his hand at His Worship cried out, "His done now, and upon your head be it!" Councillor Hazard put the case in a nutshell when in reply to Councillor Taylor's remarks he said the religion of the policeman, he said, "is not a question of religion, but of fitness for the job." He then declared that the bigots have triumphed, Kinsman has been dismissed.

Now that the question of religion has been raised in civic affairs, it may not be out of place to take a peep into the files and see to what extent Catholics are ignored. There is not a Catholic in the office of the City Clerk, where two officials are employed at good salaries; there is not a Catholic in the office of the Water Commissioners, where two officials of the city are engaged; the Clerk of the Stipendiary Magistrate's court is not a Catholic. These are not the only instances of "year in and year out." What have the Catholics? Simply three policemen, and a few laborers on the streets and about the waterworks. I regret that I have not the materials at my disposal for making a comparative statement of the Protestants and Catholics paid out of the civic exchequer and the amounts they receive. Perhaps you will do it, Mr. Editor, in order that the people may see for themselves the true injustice of the move which culminated in the dismissal of Kinsman, that a discriminating and discerning public may be truly and reliably informed regarding the "year in and year out" of the Protestants and Catholics.

Let this matter be fully and freely ventilated.

SOUTHPORT FERRY.

Sir,—In your issue of the 11th, an individual signing himself "Superintendent," makes a groping attack upon the Editor. He commences with the need of electric lights. Now, sir, those lights have been tried on our wharf and proved a nuisance. They are not coming into the dock, striking the side of the dock, the light of the dock, and immediately expire. As a consequence, the only lamps left to be resorted to as the only means of safeguard. Perhaps the writer will explain how a few evening lamps, under the luminous canopy of heaven, act as the reflection of the mineral, he reeled and fell on the bright deck of the steamer, fracturing his shin bone. He next speaks of the waiting room. I have been a traveler over this ferry for twenty years, and at the present day find greater accommodation in good fires and clean rooms than ever did in my period of traveling. We know well the motive of the writer in his letter, who, I presume, is steward of one of our gentlemen's clubs, and of course, the ferry is not run to his satisfaction.

TRAVELLER.

EXPLANATION WANTED.

Sir,—Some time ago the Grand Division met in Charlottetown, and the G. W. P., Rev. Mr. Kirby of Beauce, announced that "Charlottetown had become more peaceful since the introduction of the Scott Act." The Farmer of this week publishes the following item:

"A very enjoyable evening was spent at the 'lark' social held in the hall at North Beauce last Tuesday evening, but it is to be much regretted that there was considerable evidence of drinking among some who were present from the direction of Summerside."

Mr. L. U. Fowler performed the duties of auctioneer most creditably. This extraordinary announcement will afford an excellent opportunity for explanation from the G. W. P. at the next meeting of the Grand Division. He may be able to explain where a lot of drunken rowdies got run in a Scott Act town and country and disturbed a religious meeting, and why it was that "peace" did not abound. He resides in the vicinity, and will have plenty of opportunities to get the materials for the explanations. Mr. Fowler, if I mistake not, is a man of a great temperance advocate and supporter of the Scott Act, and he might "take a hand" in the matter.

DEATH OF SIR JOHN THOMPSON.

The Last Sad and Tragic Scene.

A Graphic Description by One Who Was Present.

The Arrangements for a State Funeral.

The Body Will Be Interred at Halifax.

Tributes to the Dead Premier.

LONDON, Dec. 13.

All reports agree that the Queen was deeply moved by Sir John Thompson's death. Sir Charles Tupper was summoned to Windsor by a special courier. He arrived at 7 in the evening and rode directly to the castle, where he was at once received by the Queen, and had a long audience.

The Marquis of Breadalbane made this statement: "I travelled from Paddington to Windsor with Sir John Thompson. He appeared to be all right then and afterwards at the meeting. After being shown in he retired to the luncheon room. While we were sitting there he suddenly fainted. One of the servants and I got him into the next room and placed him and beside the window. I got water and sent the servant for brandy. In a short time he recovered somewhat. He seemed much distressed at having made what he regarded as a scene, remarking, 'It seems too weak, too foolish to faint like that.' I replied: 'One does not faint on purpose. Pray do not distress yourself about the matter.' He begged me to return to my luncheon. Of course, I would not listen to this. I remained with him till he seemed completely recovered. He rose to accompany me back to the luncheon room. I offered him my arm. He walked unaided. He cheerfully remarked, 'I am all right, thank you.' In the meantime, Dr. Reid, the Queen's physician, whom I had sent for, arrived. Within two or three minutes after Sir John's return to the luncheon room, and I believe before he tasted the coffee or whatever was placed before him, he died. He suddenly lapsed and fell almost into Dr. Reid's arms. At the request of the doctor the ladies at the table went out. The doctor, I and the servants alone remained. We did all that was possible. I felt his pulse and was confident that he no aid would have availed him. The doctor held the same view, which I un happily proved too correct. As far as I could see, Sir John had been in good health up to the first seizure. I believe that he told Dr. Reid that he had had pains in his chest. The cause of death was undoubtedly a sudden failure of the heart, which he had been suffering from for some time. He had a certificate of death from syncope. Therefore, no inquest will likely be made.

OTTAWA, Dec. 13.

When the first excitement of the sad news had died away, the members of the late Government in town (for by the death of Sir John Thompson the ministry (Mr. Spence is dissolved) met in the Council Chamber. There were present: Acting Premier Bewell, Costigan, Foster, Daly and Ives. Mr. Bewell held, early in the afternoon, telegraphic to all his colleagues asking them to return to the capital as speedily as possible. Sir C. H. Tupper cannot be home for five days. The ministers considered what should be done in regard to the funeral, and it was decided, subject to Lady Thompson's wishes, that the remains of the deceased Premier should be given a state funeral. The High Commissioner was called to have the body sent to Ottawa, via New York. The remains will probably leave Liverpool to-day. He will lie in state here and then be conveyed to Halifax for interment in the family burial plot. This is in accordance with Lady Thompson's wish.

HALIFAX, Dec. 13.

This morning's papers are full of tributes to the memory of the dead premier.

The Official Announcement

The following despatch was received last evening by Lieutenant-Governor Horder: "To His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Prince Edward Island: With deepest regret I have to inform Your Honor that I have received the lamentable intelligence of the sudden death of Sir John Thompson at Windsor Castle room after a meeting of the Privy Council, at which he had been sworn in a member, SGT. ABERDEEN."
