The Sunday Observance Act.

Mr. Davies' Point re Redistribution.

(Special correspondence of The Examiner.)

By a vote of 77 to 50 the House went into Committee upon Mr. Charlton's Sunday Bill. For the information of your readers, I will say that Messrs. Davies, Welsh, Macdonald and Perry voted for its second reading, while Messrs. Yeo and McLean were absent. All the French members present, excepting Sir Adolph Caron, (Conservative) and Messrs. Laurier and Choquette (Grit,) voted against the bill. Only seven Catholic members voted for it, Sir John Thompson being one, while 31 Catholics voted against it, 28 of them being French members. But faith had not everything to do with the division, as such good Protestants as Clake Wallace, Major Sam Hughes, Col. Tisdale, Col. Denison, of Toronto, MacLean, of York, and McKay, of Hamilton—all representative Orangemen—voted against the bill.

The rest of the evening was spent in committee on this measure, when progress was reported. Some of the clauses were adopted, some amended, and some struck out. Its fate is uncertain, but it will probably get the six months hoist before the session is over.

On Tuesday Sir John Thompson moved the second reading of the Redistribution Bill, to which Mr. Laurier moved in amendment :—

"That the bill be not now read a second time, but that it be referred to a conference or committee to be composed of both political parties to agree on the lines or principles upon which a redistribution bill should be drawn."

The debate continued until midnight. Mr. Laurior was replied to by Mr. Ouimet, Minister of Public Works, and the discussion was largely in the hands of the Quebec members, and carried on in French. Mr. Perry contributed his piece. He objected to cutting up the counties. Prince and Queen's Counties should retain their two members each—King's being the smallest should be content with one member. The bill was unjust, and he was in receipt of letters every day from the Island, both from Liberals and Conservatives, denouncing it.

The debate was continued on Wednesday by Mr Choquette in French against the bill, who was answered by Mr. Dupont in the same language. Mr. Rinfret, also in French, argued against the bill. Then Mr. Desjardines, of L'Islet, made a lengthy speech in English on the Government side, and was followed by Messrs. Monet and Leduc (Grit) in French.

On Thursday, when the discussion was resumed, Mr. Davies took the floor. He avoided the details which had occupied the French members, and proceeded to argue that Parliament was not the proper authority to fix the boundaries of constituencies, and that the B. N. A. Act required that they should be determined by a separate authority.

Sir John Thompson followed. He scouted Mr. Davies' contention, and claimed that as the Parliament of Canada had, by the B. N. A. Act, the power to make laws "for the peace, order and good government of Canada," and as the B. N. A. Act also enacted that "until the Parliament of Canada otherwise provides, all laws in force in the several Provinces at the Union relative to the following matters or any of them, viz., the qualifications and disqualifications of persons to be elected [illegible], the laws relating to the trial of controverted elections, etc., certainly, therefore, the Parliament of Canada had the power to determine and adjust the representation in the House of Commons.

Mr. Davies' argument was forcible, although it was strained. The clause of the B. N. A. Act on which he relied reading as follows :

"On the completion of the census in the year 1871, and of each subsequent decennial census, the representation of the four provinces shall be readjusted by such authority, and in such a manner and at such a time as the Parliament of Canada, from time to time, provides."

Mr. Davies argues that the "authority" mentioned in that clause is not and cannot be the Parliament of Canada, but an outside and independent "authority," constituted by Parliament. It is strange, if this be correct, that twenty five years have rolled by without the true interpretation of the clause being revealed to such eminent men as have sat in Parliament in that time. Blake—for instance—William Macdougall, Sir John Macdonald, David Mills. Even Mr. Laurier does not agree with Mr. Davies' view. He strongly insists that the representation shall be fixed by Parliament, and by no commission of judges or outside authority. But—as Mayor Haviland used to be fond of saying, "a blot is never a blot till it is hit"—it may be that it has been reserved for Mr Davies, after a quarter of a century of Confederation, to "hit the blot" in our constitution.

The result of the debate on Mr. Laurier's amendment was its defeat by 109 to 58—Mr. Desaulniers, a Government supporter, whose constituency of St. Maurice is wiped out by the bill, voting with the opposition.

The debate will resumed to-morrow (Tuesday) when Mr. McCarthy will move the following amendment :

That the said bill be not now read the second time, but that it be resolved that the distribution of seats of the members of this House should, as far as practicable, be based on equality of population, due regard being had to the community of interests existing in localities, a full an fair expression of public opinion, and the permanence and stability of constituencies. That the most effective way of accomplishing these ends is to assume county and city boundaries as the natural limits of electoral districts, with equitable divisions thereof constituted with compactness as regards geographical position and based on well known existing areas, where the population entitles city or county to two or more representatives. That the system now prevailing and proposed to be continued by the said bill fails to secure equality of population, ignores community of interests, disregards geographical compactness, renders stability impossible and is liable to gross abuse in affording opportunities in the arrangement of electoral districts for promoting party aims and obtaining party advantage regardless of the consideration which ought to determine the settlement of the representatives of the people in this House.

On Friday the House took up the Government Bill amending the Voter's Lists Bill—its object being to overcome an informality about the printing, and to dispense with this year's revision. It was announced that the Government intend next session to introduce legislation simplifying the law and reducing the expense of revision. Further progress was also made in the Criminal Law.

If I had reason to complain a couple of weeks ago of the cold, it is the other way now. Last Tuesday and Wednesday, the heat was terrible—then the temperature moderated. We have had beautiful showers and last night a smart thunder storm. Just now, I had to close all the windows of my house on account of a pelting shower that was seeking entrance Yesterday, the Governor-General's Foot Guards and the Princess Louise Dragoon Guards paraded to Christ Church—an occasion for the small boy to make himself unpleasantly numerous. Sunday before, the Englishmen of the city paraded to St. John's Church, and turned out in large numbers though the weather was unpropitious. The Presbyterian and Methodist ministers are down on the Sunday parades, as the music attracts the children from the Sunday Schools.

The revenue for May was $3,193,101, and for the eleven months $33,094,281, which is $1,746,085 less than for the same period last year, which, it must be borne in mind, included the sugar duties. The expenditure for May was $3,574,121 and for the eleven months $29,272 970, showing a surplus of $3.821,310. The net debt on May 31 was $236,493,601, a decrease of $1,314,429 since 30th June last.

Dr. Leger, M. P. for Kent, N. B., returned home last week. He sat in the House only one day this session, being confined to the hospital ever since he came to Ottawa. He is in the last stages of consumption, I learn He is only 25 years of age and had twice been elected by large majorities.

Ordination.

At St. Dunstan's Cathedral this morning His Lordship Bishop McDonald raised to the priesthood the Rev. Messrs. Finn, of Newfoundland, and Blacquiere and Hogan, of the diocese of Charlottetown. The Cathedral was well filled with a devout congregation. The ordination ceremonies, which are long and imposing, were directed by Father McAulay. Fathers Morrison and McLellan, of St. Dunstan's College, were the Bishop's assistants. The Rev. Roderick McDonald, P. P. of Pictou, assisted Father Finn, the Rev. R. B. McDonald, of Rustico, Father Blacquiere, and the Rev. A. E. Burke, of Alberton, Father Hogan. During the singing of the Litanies by the choir under Prof. Caven, the candidates prostrated themselves before the High Altar in token of their renunciation of the world, and the scene was most impressive. Then followed the imposition of hands, in which all the priests present took part, and which symbolized the receiving of the Holy Ghost for the work of the ministry. After this the newly ordained priests were vested in the sacred vestments of their office, and their hands were consecrated with holy oil to further purify them for their work. At the offertory the newly ordained priests were supplied with missals, and following the Bishop who celebrated at the Main Altar, offered for the first time the Sacrifice of the Mass. The Benediction pronounced by the Bishop, he took his place on the Faldistorium on the plane of the altar and again imposing hands on the new priests transmitted to them the power of administering the Sacrament of Penance, using for the occasion the words of Christ to his Apostles, "Whose sins thou shalt forgive they are forgiven, and whose sins thou shalt retain they are retained." The chasuble, which up to this time had been pleated upon the shoulders, was now allowed to fall to its full length, signifying that the fullness of the sacerdotal power had been conferred upon the new priests. The singing of the choir throughout the ceremony was very beautiful, especially at the "Veni Creator," when the assistance of the Holy Ghost was invoked for those who were ordained, and at the "Te Deum" or song of thanksgiving at the close of the service.

The Rev Fathers Hogan and Blacquiere will leave for their homes to-morrow morning, and will celebrate Mass, the former at Tignish and the latter at Rustico. Father Finn will celebrate Mass in the Cathedral on Sunday.

VALUABLE GOLD DISCOVERY.—A correspondent of the Halifax Herald writes that H. Richardson, Samuel R Griffin, W. A. Hewitt, John McMillan and F. H. Silver, owners of the apparently rich gold property lately discovered at Isaac's Harbor, have recently unearthed a lead six feet thick showing gold. The lead is about the right course from the brook in which the deposit of quartz and gold were found, and was uncovered about fifty feet from the brook. The owners purpose forthwith applying to the government for aid to build a road to the mine so that they can have their machinery and other material there for a quartz crushing mill, which they intend constructing as soon as possible.

Molokai.

Sad shores of Molokai, the waves are keeping
A ceaseless watch, as year by year goes by,
Over the grave of him who calmed the weeping
Of thy poor children sent to thee to die.

He did God's work. He heard thy mournful crying,
And, answering, soothed the lepers in their pain.
He watched beside the pallets of the dying;
Then turned him to his weary work again.

But, now, a gossip-monger—scandal-seeking—
Writes words our little sisters may not see :
In currish manner, vilest language speaking
Of him who gave his life to succor thee.

Sad shores of Molokai, the waves are singing
A requiem o'er the Father's lonely grave :
The glory of his life a pæan is ringing
That drowns the coward's sneer against the brave.

Gathering of the Clans!

"YE OLDEN TIMES."

This annual demonstration will be held at the Charlottetown Driving Park and Provincial Exhibition Grounds, on Wednesday, the 10th day of August next. It is contemplated to introduce several new and interesting features. One of these will be commemorative of the brave Scottish pioneers who left their native land, some in the year 1772, others in 1790, and later on in 1803 6, &c. On the grounds will be built the emigrant's log house,—with its one window of four panes of glass, its thatched roof, moss "stogged" walls and clay built chimney. This dwelling place—representative of the olden time, will be furnished with the domestic articles then in use; also farm implements and relics of of every description. The Caledonian Club has appointed a committee of management to carry out the Scottish pioneer demonstration, in conjunction with the Games Committee. The Pioneer Committee will be assisted by leading Scotchmen in different parts of the Island in collecting and forwarding ancient articles, the property of those pioneers when at home in the land of the heather years before they left for America.

This novel feature in connection with the Scottish Gathering of 1892 will doubtless cause thousands of the descendants of the Scotch pioneers to see "ye olden time" log-house and its surroundings.

The Census Wrong.

MONTREAL, June 10.

Fourteen members have applied to be received as ministers of the Presbyterian Church of Canada.

Dr. Robert Campbell, of St. Gabriel's Church, Montreal, has been appointed recording clerk.

Rev. John McMillan presented the eastern section of the home mission report. He referred to the alleged decrease of the Presbyterian population, shown by the census, as a complete surprise. The Presbyterians have not joined other churches. Emigration, it is true, has been large, for Presbyterians are apt to push their fortunes. But this will not account for the whole decrease. He accounted for it by errors in the census of 1881. The real increase among our people must have been little short of ten thousand. There has been a great increase in all departments of work. Since the last census the people have trebled their contributions to home missions, and more than doubled their contributions to the schemes of the Church.
