IN MEMORIAM

HOUSTON—In loving memory of our father, Gordon G. Houston, who departed this life Feb. 10 1946.
Always remembered by Lloyd and Evelyn.

ABBOTT—In loving memory of Mr. and Mrs. George Abbott, who departed their lives on Feb. 10, 1957 and July 29th, 1948.
Although you both have gone
Your memory still lingers on.
Lovingly remembered by your daughter, Lillian Bermpus, Watertown, Mass.

McGUIRK—In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Henry McGuirk who passed away Feb. 10th, 1955.
A little tribute true and tender
Just to show that we still remember
Dear is his memory, sweet is his name,
Deep in our heart he will always remain.
Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by daughter Tena and grandson Raymond.

McGUIRK—In loving memory of my dear father, who passed away Feb. 10th, 1955.
Beautiful memories are all that are left.
Of one we loved and will never forget
A loving smile a happy face
A broken link we can never replace.
Lovingly remembered by daughter Doris.

McGUIRK—In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Henry McGuirk, who passed away Feb. 9, 1955.
You suffered much in silence
Your spirit did not bend
You faced your task with courage
Until the very end
At times when we are lonely
Your smile then seems to say
Don't grieve for me my loved ones
I am with you all the way.
Always remembered by daughter Bertha, son-in-law, Norman, grandchildren Norma, Heather, Barbara and Beverely.

McGUIRK—In loving memory of my dear husband Henry McGuirk, who passed away Feb. 10th, 1955.
I have lost a real companion
A life linked with my own
And day by day I miss you more
As I walk through life alone
Looking back with memories
Along the path we trod
I bless the years I had with you
And leave the rest with God
Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by his wife.

Foils Bandits In Planned Holdup

TORONTO (CP) A 32-year-old woman says she escaped Friday night from two men who kidnapped her part of a planned holdup at her husband's supermarket.

Mrs. Bruce Lawson told police the men made a two-inch wound in her back with a knife when they forced her from her suburban home into their car. She escaped when the car stopped at a traffic light.

She ran across a snow-covered field to a Canadian Legion hall, where a warning was telephoned to Mr. Lawson, manager at the supermarket.

SIMILAR INCIDENTS

It was the third time in recent months bandits have threatened a family in attempts to rob supermarket managers.

Mrs. Lawson said the men forced their way to her home as she prepared her three children for bed.

She managed to warn nine-year-old Bobby: "Phone Daddy, there is trouble." Bobby made the call. The other children were Cheryl, 7, and John, 5.

Police said the bandits could have got as much as 15,000 from the supermarket.

To Print Ads Free For Jobless

TORONTO (CP) — The Telegram announced Saturday it will print "employment wanted" ads, without charge to the jobless, from Feb. 10 to March 4.

During that period anyone without a job may advertise for one day by appearing at the newspaper office with an unemployment insurance book, or—in the case of immigrants not yet provided with these—a landing card. Each applicant is promised three - day publication of a three-line classified ad.

The Telegram has timed its free ad service to coincide with the "do it now" campaign promoted by the Canadian government for the last three years to combat winter unemployment. Under this program householders are urged to schedule repairs, renovations and other temporary jobs for the inter months, when labor is not at a premium.

Algoma Steel Had Good Year

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—Algoma Steel Corporation Ltd. had net profit in 1957 of 14,178,000, or 2.49 a share, compared with 15,714,000, or 2.76, a share in 1956, David S. Holbrook, president, says in an interim report to shareholders.

The comparison is on the basis of present issued shares, which were split 4 for 1 last year.

Mr. Holbrook said a very good first half-year was followed by progressively slowing demand, with the result that over-all production in 1957 was down slightly.

Production in January of this year was at 70 or 75 per cent of capacity, a rate expected to be sustained through the first quarter.

The company spent 25,000,000 on expansion and modernization in 1957 and will continue the program throughout 1958 at the same pace, Mr. Holbrook said.

Major units to be constructed this year include a new oxygen steel plant and a new blooming plate mill.

Crowd Uninsured Drivers Off More Canadian Roads

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

In face of a rising toll of traffic accidents, most Canadian provinces are making it harder for uninsured drivers to use the roads.

Saskatchewan, which has Canada's only CCF government, also has Canada's only compulsory automobile insurance plan, operated by the state.

CP reporters making a cross-Canada survey found supporters in almsot every other province for the compulsory - insurance idea, though its spread beyond Saskatchewan does not seem imminent.

PROVED RESPONSIBILITY

But eight of the nine other provinces—all except Quebec—require insurance of other proof of financial responsibility from drivers who have accidents.

They also have unsatisfied judgment funds to pay damages assessed in court against drivers without resources.

Quebec has no fund and no insurance requirements for private motorists but suspends a driver's licence until he pays accident damages assessed against him.

In Nova Scotia, a royal commission recommended compulsory insurance last year—" a law that . . . will eliminate practically all of the irresponsible motorists . . . without impairing the system of privately-financed insurance in Nova Scotia.

Premier Frost of Ontario has approved the principle of compulsory insurance. Some newspapers have campaigned for it. "Ontario should tell every driver Carry insurance or walk," the Toronto Star adlined a recent article. But Ontario seems likely to try persuasion before turning to compulsion.

QUEBEC CAUTIOUS

Delegations have asked Premier Duplessis for compulsory insurance and an satisfied jndgment fund for Quebec but he opposes both. Compulsion might increase carelessness because drivers would know insurance would cover any damages, he told one group. Unsatisfied judgment fund are based on the wrong principle, he told another—" he good motorists have to pay for the bad. The wrong-doers are in the minority."

In other provinces, compulsory insurance is not a live issue.

Massachusetts pioneered compulsory insurance in North America 30 years ago. New York became the second state with a universal law in 1956. Thirty-five states have limited forms of compulsion, mostly in respect of minors, or drivers at fault in accidents while not insured.

The Canadian toll of deaths and injuries in motor accidents has mounted sharply since the war. In 1956, 3,184 persons were killed and 72,884 injured. In 1950 there were 1,477 deaths and 50,031 injuries in Canada outside Quebec, for which figures are not available. (Quebec's toll last year was 893 dead, 17,163 injured.)

Insurance rates have soared correspondingly.

NEW CAMPAIGNS

Campaigns have been under way in most provinces to reduce the number of accidents.

One of the most effective is in Manitoba. Its key is a demerit system for motorists convicted of driving offences or involved in accidents. Driving licences of persistent offenders are suspended. There is a driver-improvement clinic.

R. B. Baillie, Manitoba motor vehicle commissioner, said he considers Manitoba's system is "something better" than compulsory insurance. Within compulsion, 98 per cent of drivers involved in accidents now are insured, he said.

Ontario this year increased to $6 from $1 the amount uninsured drivers must pay into its unsatisfied judgment fund. Insurance companies report an increase in applications for coverage. Transport Minister James Allan said "We feel the present plan is working well toward increasing the percentage of insured drivers."

Here is a province-by-province summary of steps taken to protect the public against the financially irresponsible driver

NEWFOUNDLAND

Motorists under 21 and over 65 and those convicted after accidents or for drunken or impaired driving must have insurance before driving permits are issued. An unsatisfied judgment fund costs each motorist $1 a year and pays claims up to $5,000 for injury to one person, $10,000 for two or more in one accident, $1,000 for property damage.

NOVA SCOTIA

Motorists involved in accidents causing bodily injury or property damage of $100 or more must prove financial responsibility or face suspension of licences. Minimum requirement is insurance providing $5,000 and $10,000 for injury and death and $1,000 for damage, or a posted bond of $11,000. To drive again, a motorist must pay all claims arising from the accident. The unsatisfied judgment fund costs each driver $1 a year and pays claims to a $5,000-$10,000-$1,000 maximum.

NEW BRUNSWICK

This province has regulations similar to Nova Scotia's.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND

Proof of financial responsibility is demanded when a court assesses damages against a motorist but not before. Until a driver shows he cannot meet a damage claim he may continue to drive. The unsatisfied judgment fund is similar to that in Nova Scotia.

QUEBEC

There is compulsory insurance for persons carrying paying passengers—taxis, buses and so on—but not for ordinary drivers. There is no unsatisfied judgment fund, but a driver unable to pay assessed damages loses his permit until he raises the money. A brief submitted to Premier Duplessis by the Quebec Chamber of Commerce, recommending such a fund, said only 30 per cent of the 800,000 motorists in the province carry liability insurance. The Quebec Automobile Club supports the idea of compulsory insurance through private companies.

ONTARIO

All drivers pay $1 into the unsatisfied judgment fund. Those who cannot show they carry "adequate" insurance — $10,000 for injury or death of one person, $20,000 for more than one, $5,000 for property damage—must pay an additional $5. The fund pays claims up to a $5,000-$10,000-$2,000 level. Drivers involved in highway offences resulting in injury, death or property damage or in certain other serious driving offences, must show proof of responsibility before permission to drive again is granted. No traffic judgment debtor may drive.

The $5 fee from uninsured motorists will this year give Ontario for the first time, information on what proportion of drivers carry no protection. On basis of this, it is believed, the government will decide whether further action is required to protect the public.

MANITOBA

Drivers involved in accidents causing injury or damage must show proof of financial responsibility—at least $30,000—or have their cars impounded. All motorists pay 50 cents annually into an unsatisfied judgment fund which pays up to a maximum of $10,000 to one person or $20,000 to more than one. The driver-improvement plan keeps tab on all drivers involved in traffic offences. If offences continue after a warning, suspension of driving permits is ordered.

SASKATCHEWAN

All drivers must carry the CCF government's compulsory insurance policy, the cost based on wheel-base and age of vehicle. In addition, all motorists pay a $2 fee when they take out their driving permits. The government policy provides a variety of benefits, paying up to $10,000 for injury to or death of one person, $20,000 for more than one in a single accident, and $5,000 for property damage. There is a $200-deductible clause within the province but none on accidents outside. Additional clauses cover damage from collision, fire, theft, flood, hail, upset, riot, and falling aircraft all with the $200-deductible limit. There is no unsatisfied judgment fund; the government insurance office pays claims for accidents involving uninsured out-of-province vehicles and hit-run motorists.

Motorists wanting more complete protection can buy a supplementary policy through the government office or a private company.

ALBERTA

Drivers involved in accidents causing injury, or property damage of $100, must show proof of insurance paying up to $10,000—$20,000—$2,000. Vehicles are impounded until proof is shown or all damage claims paid. All motorists pay $1 annually into an unsatisfied judgment fund which provides maximum payments of $5,000, $10,000 and $1,000. These amounts will be increased next July to $10,000, $20,000 and whom a judgment is made involving the fund must repay the fund in full before he may drive.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

This province has the same insurance requirements after accidents as Alberta. The unsatisfied judgment fund does not require an annual contribution from motorists. Insurance companies must contribute to it on a prorata basis, according to the volume of automobile insurance they write. There is no provision for payment from the fund to persons involved in accidents caused by motorists who leave the accident scene and are not identified.

Steel Output Continues Slide

CLEVELAND (AP)—Steel production fell another point last week to 54 per cent of rated capacity as the industry neared the midway point in the most sluggish first quarter the economy has experienced in four years, Steel magazine says.

"March promises to be a little better, but not enough to lift the first quarter above mediocrity at best," the weekly journal of metal-working reports.

"One steel company economist believes that the drastic changes in the last few months were caused by such a simple thing as a general cut in inventory policy," the magazine says.

Steelmaking scrap went up last week 1.83 a gross ton to 37.33 for No. 1 heavy melting scrap on the Steel magazine weekly composite price.

U. S. A. F. Fires Atlas Missile

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) The U.S. Air Force Friday launched an Atlas interncontintal ballistic missile.

The 100-ton weapon roared skyward at 337 p.m. AST.

It climbed straight upward from its launching stand, ponderously at first but gaining speed swiftly

From every indication this fifth launching of the "big A" was highly successful.

However, it was a test flight, designed to gain information about its performance capabilities from instruments stored within. For that reason it was not expected to go anywhere near the full 5,000-mile designed range.
