

AKLAVIK AT ITS NEW SITE

INUVIK, N.W.T. — The new Eskimo "the place of man." The site for the town of Aklavik has been named Inuvik, meaning in Inuktitut "the place of man" and is 70 miles by water. It will be the largest center in the western Arctic and is to be completed in three years.

are my friends. If you do what I command you. No longer do I call you servants, for the servant does not know what his master is doing; but I have called you friends, for all that I have heard from my Father. I have made known to you" (John 15:13-14).

Confidential companionship between Himself and His follower is Jesus' conception of man's life in God. The servant does what he is told and it may be a mechanical obedience; the friend puts himself into the service he offers and makes it the expression of love. He leads every step of the way.

To every heart open to Him, our living Lord declares His love and makes known His will. This divine fellowship must be experienced to be understood. No words can give an unbeliever any idea of what it actually means and involves.

NEVER ALONE

There is a sense of a presence; we are never alone. He turns us away from many things we want to do; He moves us to actions that we don't want to do. He stands at the crossroads pointing the way, and obedience proves His acquaintance with what lay ahead of us. He will stay with us to the end.

Back of every person's character and career is an eternal will. Your Creator brought you into being to work out that will. The glorious reality behind it is that he who does the will of the God in whom he trusts abides forever.

Rising Tide Of Orders For Steel Reported

CLEVELAND (AP)—Steel production of 25,000,000 tons during the next three months was forecast today by Steel magazine. The weekly based its prediction on the rising tide of orders at the mills. It said the outlook is for further gradual improvement in the weeks immediately ahead.

During the three months just ended, steel mills operated at 60 per cent of rated capacity and production totalled 21,000,000 tons. In each of the first two quarters this year, the operation rate averaged 54 per cent and the output was slightly under 19,000,000 tons.

Steel mill operations last week rose two points to 65.3 per cent of capacity, the highest level of the year. Production totalled about 1,850,000 net tons, the largest weekly output since the week ended Nov. 24, 1957.

September's output of 7,560,000 tons was the largest of any month this year, Steel said. Steel's quarterly survey of buyers of components shows that eight out of 10 will maintain or increase inventories in the next three months.

The rising steel-making operations brighten the prospects for demand for scrap, Steel said. Its

N.Y. Stocks In Series Of New Highs For Week

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market pushed on to a series of record highs last week. Trading was the heaviest in nearly a year. The market set all-time peaks on four of the five trading sessions.

Volume of 19,227,870 shares was the biggest for any week since the week ended Oct. 26, 1957, when 20,804,100 shares changed hands.

The market declined only on Wednesday, and then moderately, as profits were taken. Even on that day, the laggard oil section advanced against the trend.

Wildcat walkouts at Chrysler and the brief strike at General Motors did not throw the market off stride.

The week also brought news of top carloadings for 1958, steel production at a peak for the year, construction contract awards at high levels, and rising prices for copper, lead and zinc.

The boost in metal prices spurred the copper stocks especially to wide upward moves. Others of the base metals joined more conservatively in the rise.

The Associated Press average of 50 stocks rose $2.70, ending the week at $197.10.

The Dow-Jones industrial average continued its rise to record levels, closing at 533.73.

Standard and Poor's 500-stock index, a broad market barometer, set a record high of 50.37.

thing to have political parties based on class groups. I don't think trade unions should be organized for the purpose of telling their members how to vote."

Mr. Pearson met Saskatchewan Liberals and the public Saturday. He refused to commit himself on the matter of tolls for the St. Lawrence Seaway, but said "If there are to be any tolls they should be at the lowest possible rate so it won't be too expensive."

He said there was an arrangement between Canada and the United States on the seaway and that toll charges were part of this agreement.

"To make the seaway toll-free would require a change in that agreement," he said.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO CONSUMERS & SUPPLIERS

Despite the disastrous fire at our Charlottetown plant on Saturday evening, business has been resumed on a normal basis. Purchase of milk and cream is in no way curtailed, nor will it be...and there will be no interruption in our services or products because of the fire. In other words, business at Central Creameries Limited is "as usual".

A Very Special "Thank You"!
Without the splendid co-operation of the fire department, this fire could have been more disastrous...and for their splendid efforts on our behalf, we extend our sincere thanks and appreciation. Thanks, too, to the police department for their assistance. We also publicly acknowledge the tireless efforts of our staff without whose support and hard work over the weekend we could not have resumed production.

RELIGION AND LIFE
BY VERY REV. GEORGE C. PIDGEON, D.D., LL.D.
First Moderator of the United Church of Canada

HE DEPENDS ON US TO SHOW INITIATIVE
What does Christ think of Christians?

As a matter of fact Jesus never used that name. It appears first in Acts 11:26 where St. Luke writes:—"The disciples were called Christians first at Antioch."

Christ was on the lips of the disciples in their testimonies and appeals; His representatives were offering Him as Saviour and Lord; their hope for the world was in Christ and Christ alone; to call those who believed in Him by His name seemed to their hearers the only description that would fit.

So when we call people "Christians" now we classify them as members of Christ's family, who are possessed by His Spirit and who live by His laws. The call to all so classified is to live up to their classification.

The world has many names for Christians today, some of them quite uncomplimentary. Now if they call one "Christian" derisively the believer in Christ may answer contempt with contemptuous disregard, but that does not quite settle the matter; he should examine himself to make sure that there is no ground for their abuse. He bears His Master's name and thereby becomes a guardian of his Master's honor. On the other hand, if they call him "Christian" enviously, it means that they feel the need of what they see in him; and so offer him an opportunity to present Christ to them.

IN COMPARISON

All these things fade into insignificance in comparison with the names Christ calls His people. These show the place that they hold in His heart and in His plans for the world's salvation.

"Followers" is Christ's first title for His people. "Follow Me" was the sharp command with which He greeted Philip (John 1:43) and Matthew (Matthew 9:9). Both obeyed promptly and permanently.

He enlarged this a little when He said to Peter and Andrew, as He found them casting their nets into the sea: "Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men."

Some years ago Rev. Charles M. Sheldon published a story entitled:—"In His Steps or What Would Jesus Do?" He placed his characters in situations in which ordinary folk find themselves every day, and tried to show what Jesus would do in such situations.

The book had an enormous sale. Many called it unpractical; nevertheless, it influenced decisively thousands of people who are asking life's ultimate questions. The Bible requires each of us to find his own answers to the questions life raises. It does not give explicit directions as to what we should do here and there; Jesus' example is before us showing what He did in circumstances with which all are familiar and we must decide for ourselves what He wants us to do in our circumstances.

Besides, His Holy Spirit is with us always, and His guidance in the perplexities of every day is available to all who really want to obey His will.

THE LEARNERS

Jesus called His followers "disciples." This means learners. As He moved from place to place and dealt individually with all sorts of men and women, He taught the laws of the Kingdom of God.

He illustrated by concrete examples those principle of His which were universal and eternal. The conditions that we face are widely different from His, but His Spirit in those who love Him fits the action to every case. He depends on us for initiative and a sense of responsibility, and gives assurance of a purpose behind us and of a divine presence with us in everything.

Jesus laid special stress on the title "Friends" for the Twelve. He said (and every word is meaningful): "Greater love has no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends. You are my friends. If you do what I command you. No longer do I call you servants, for the servant does not know what his master is doing; but I have called you friends, for all that I have heard from my Father. I have made known to you" (John 15:13-14).

Confidential companionship between Himself and His follower is Jesus' conception of man's life in God. The servant does what he is told and it may be a mechanical obedience; the friend puts himself into the service he offers and makes it the expression of love. He leads every step of the way.

To every heart open to Him, our living Lord declares His love and makes known His will. This divine fellowship must be experienced to be understood. No words can give an unbeliever any idea of what it actually means and involves.
