Mr. and Mrs. George Howatt entertained at their charming home at French River on Friday evening, April 25, at a surprise party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Foster Dunning, who were about to leave the church and community to reside elsewhere, and Mrs. Murdoch MacLeod, as organist of Long River United Church. The honored guests were joined to the Howatt home under pretext of choir practice, only to find a good representation of church people present in addition to members of the choir. The mystery was explained to the satisfaction of the Dunning's when they were asked to present Mrs. MacLeod with a coffee table in recognition of her faithful and efficient service as church organist. Mrs. MacLeod, on the other hand, was taken aside and asked to present the Dunning's with a trillight floor lamp in appreciation of their valued assistance in the church choir. The minister, the Rev. Mr. Haslam, called the company to order and with suitable remarks, presided over the presentations. Needless to say the utter amazement registered by the respective recipients was greatly enjoyed by the other guests and especially by the host and hostess and others who were originators of the novel idea. Musical numbers and lunch completed an evening to be remembered.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Foster Dunning, Summerside, for the holiday weekend were their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dunning, French River, and their daughter, Carol, who is remaining in French River until the end of the school year.

In an item in Friday's Guardian entitled "Irishtown Group Presents Comedy", one number, impromptu, it is true, but all the more appreciated, was omitted. The number referred to was an impersonation by the talented adjudicator, Mr. H. Barry Bugden, which delighted the audience, who insisted by repeated applause, on a second appearance, which he very graciously responded to by telling a story, again with the professional touch.

The Irishtown players were very ably assisted in this entertainment by talented vocalists, Mrs. MacKay and Mr. Campbell of Long River, and the Rev. Samuel Haslam of Kensington, who accompanied at the piano. Spring Valley also contributed in the person of Mr. Gallant who gave accordion and dancing numbers. Two of the players, Mrs. Proffitt and Lloyd Proffitt are also from Long River, and Miss Curley, at present teaching in Irishtown is from Clermont. Eleven-year-old Beryl MacLeod performed very acceptably in a piano solo, making her first appearance in this role, although quite at home on the stage. Irene Simmons, Willie Proffitt, Eleanor Mann and Mary Campbell although all of school age are also already "old-timers", and always popular entertainers. Always earning hearty applause too, is the musical Brown family, including 11-year-old Charles, who plays the piano.
