"Secret Service Of The Air" Brings Thrills To The Capitol

The United States Secret Service made its debut as the subject of a new motion picture series being produced by Warner Bros., with the opening of "Secret Service of the Air" yesterday at the Capitol Theatre.

Much of the success of the initial film must be attributed to the selection of Ronald Reagan to play the central character.

As a type, he is ideal for the part, for he is, both in appearance and personality, the representative of all that is admirable in young American manhood.

The rest of the cast of the first picture is fully up to the standard set by the young star. John Littel gives his usual dependable performance as a Secret Service official; James Stephenson as the most prominent of the several villains of the piece, gives another demonstration of why his studio considers him an ideal "heavy"; Eddie Foy, Jr., in a humorous role, steals several of the scenes in which he appears; and it is difficult to make a choice

Rotary Ideals And Democracy Theme Of Address

Kennedy-Rodd Nuptials

Rotary has a great work to perform in international peace, said Mr. George Harris, of Montreal, Sun Life Public Relations Counsel at Rotary Luncheon yesterday.

The development of social services by governments and business is the most remarkable manifestation of our times, said the speaker. It is many other groups, Rotary started its existence as a self contained unit, a gathering together of men of different trades with the object of assisting each other. Their sole object was to get as much as possible for themselves out of their association with each other. It was not very long before the newly formed club found its membership dwindling and at a meeting of the members, they decided to change the service of mankind. With this new conception of Rotary, it is with a generation it had swept the entire world. The first three objects of Rotary, said Mr. Harris, dealt with the efforts of the club, the fourth object transcends all political boundaries.

Great movements can only spring from freedom-loving people who are at liberty to think and act. Great Britain founded the Boy Scouts and Salvation Army, called for the increased unity of their members. The speaker said he had met and become friendly with a great many German, Italian, and Spanish people and found that their countries cannot accept the fourth object of Rotary, international goodwill, a philosophy reaching only to free minds and not possible where men are not permitted their God-given judgment.

Those who believed the international trouble was not due to any particular animosity on the part of the common people, but rather the leaders of these nations. When the people are given an opportunity to express themselves there seems to be some difference from the official announcements.

Mr. Harris gave as an example the visit of Mr. Chamberlain to Munich and Rome where he mingled freely with the common people, with more protective equipment than an umbrella. Could Hitler or Mussolini duplicate this in a visit to London or New York?

American democracy as expressed in the Constitution of the United States had its beginning on the frontier. Immigrants came by the thousands to escape conditions in their own countries. They opened the land to farming, cut down the forests, built roads and created industries. Early justice was swift. All had equal chances in founding homes. The new found freedom was shared to all. The immigrants and peoples everywhere hailed the new democracy and flocked to its shores.

The democracy of Great Britain is different. Freedom was already established in England. It was being taken out to her colonies, each of which was given the right of self government. Races, creeds and customs were preserved and no subordination practiced. The extension of democracy in British countries was accelerated following the separation of the United States for the infringement of these very principles.

In closing the speaker said that no one knows what may follow during the next few months, but it was possible that the difficulties might be settled on this continent. It is of the hundreds of thousands of Rotarians would seriously investigate the fourth object and spread the ideas contained therein to the people of communities in all parts of Canada and the United States we may yet do our share in the cause of world peace.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Allan Walsh M.P. of Ottawa on request of the chairman for the day, Hon. B. W. LePage.

The visitors included D. L. Matheson, City W. E. Colton, City, Don Campbell, G.S.D., and sister, Halifax, Stewart Inkletter, Boulder, Colo., Wm. Steves, St. Ann's, Que., W. L. Bailey, North West University, Evanston, Ill., Dr. Percival, Quebec City, Rotarian Robertson, of Iowa, Dr. Lourie, Montreal, Dr. Bell, Halifax, Peter McDonald and young son, Ronald, Allen McDonald of Rumford Falls, Maine.

One of the loveliest weddings of the summer season was solemnized Friday evening at 7:15 o'clock in St. John's Anglican Church when Doris, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira L. Rodd, became the bride of Mr. Guy Edgar Kennedy youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Edgar Kennedy.

The twilight ceremony took place amid lovely floral decorations artistically arranged by girl friends of the bride.

The officiating clergyman was Rev. W. J. Phillips, and the bridal attendants were Mrs. Lincoln Kennedy, Charlottetown, Mrs. John Kennedy, Charlottetown, Mrs. Beers as flower girl, and Mr. Alton Rodd brother of the bride as groomsmen.

The bride looking very charming entered the church with her father who gave her in marriage while Longhenrich's Bridal Chorus was played by Miss Rena Wood of the groom's party.

The bride's gown was a floor length princess style with short

It is understood they intend to redecorate the interior in the near future. Nothing gives such an insight into the sort of people that comprise a community as the condition in which a school is maintained. See a well kept school and you can rest assured it has progressive and public spirited citizens.

It is pleasing to announce that the sawmill started by Mr. Geo. Phelan and Joseph O'Brien is doing quite a business. These two young men are to be praised for their efforts and everyone wishes them success.

train made of white Point D'Espirit Net, with inset panels of Chantilly Lace. With this she wore a three strand neck lace of pearls the gift of the groom. Her fingertip veil was of silk tulle caught with a cluster of anemones, and she carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses.

The matron of honor chose a rose creole floor length gown of silk lace, with which she wore a picture hat of matching shade. Her corsage was snap-dragon. The little flower girl looked very dainty in a sky blue dress trimmed with rose petal pink, wearing a poke bonnet to match. She carried a tiny nose-gay of mixed flowers.

The bride's mother was gowned in turquoise blue Moroccan chiffon, with navy accessories and silver fox neck piece. Her corsage was of chrysanthemum.

The guests were ushered by Mr. Gordon MacEwen and Mr. Clifford Rodd.

"Until was sweetly sung by Miss Berna Heustis while the register was being signed.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, with Mrs. Rodd and Mrs. Kennedy receiving the guests.

a general audience, both numbers being heartily enjoyed. Mrs. Charles Kelly rendered the piano accompaniment and was also the accompanist for several violin selections throughout the evening by J. D. MacAdam.

Mrs. R. C. MacPhee, St. Margaret's contributed a vocal solo in that cultured voice that always makes such an appeal to an appreciative audience, and was accorded an enthusiastic encore Mrs. Chester McCaugh of Bear River, who her accompanist on the piano and the same accomplished musician also supplied the music for a vocal solo by Leonard Peters, leader of St. Margaret's choir, who sang in splendid voice, and whose comic number in response to a request simply "brought down the house."

The final number was a step-dance by the Maritime champion, Mrs. Leonard (Albina) Peters, to violin music by J. D. MacAdam and Ernest McKinnon. Even after a second appearance, the audience was demanding a recall by hearty and continued applause, but as the hour was growing late it was necessary to proceed with the play. At the conclusion of the final act, the cast and audience joined in the hearty singing of "God Save the King". A few hours were then spent in dancing, with perfect order, and to the evident enjoyment of all concerned.

The players and other performers were most hospitably entertained, both before and after the play, at the home of A. A. McPhee, C. N. R. Foreman, and Mrs. McPhee, both formerly of Selkirk. They were also treated generously to ice-cream and cake, immediately on conclusion of the play by the ladies of Cardigan Unit of the C. W. L. under whose auspices the entertainment was held.

The venerable Doctor Allen, owner of the hall, and members of his family, accorded the visitors every possible courtesy the Hon. Senator J. A. Macdonald, P. C., personally placed at the disposal of their "coach", A. J. MacAdam, "anything and everything" in his extensive mercantile establishment that might be required as fittings for the stage, and so all along the line, to the two little boys who, all unsolicited, contributed the two magnificent bouquets that lent a finishing touch to the scenic setting, this trip will long be remembered by the performers for that unsolicited courtesy and kindness which seem to be in the very air of the beautifully-situated village of Cardigan.
