

THE DAILY EXAMINER. SEPTEMBER 1, 1882. THE WAR.

The special despatches to THE EXAMINER to-day give our readers the news that Arabi demands an armistice of eight days. This space of time was peremptorily refused by General Wolseley. The Kassassin affair seems to have been a serious one to both parties. The Egyptians suffered terribly in the engagement, and the British themselves fought a doubtful fight during the whole day. The fact that the enemy retired to Tel-el-Kebir in good order and that they are now entrenching themselves near Kassassin, shows that they performed no despicable part in the day's struggle. Tel-el-Kebir is still viewed as invincible by the British, and Arabi is concentrating an immense force of Egyptians in that vicinity. The item of news from the Turkish papers will be received with the same degree of credulity as the ordinary Eastern tales of imagination are received. The Turk is undoubtedly the foremost man in the world in the art of lying. He generally means the exact opposite of what he says, and remembers well that as naughts are nothing, there can be no harm in placing them to the right of numerals. But the game is now played out. The Arabian nights, the Eastern tales, and the annals of the Kadi have hardened us against the marvels of Eastern imagination. Poor Turk! It is too hard to snatch away even this little crumb of comfort from his disconsolate board. At the same time, it is possible that the English casualties are heavier than we have been apprised of. An Egyptian army holding its own in various fights, and making good its retreats, must necessarily inflict no small degree of damage upon an attacking army.

A Blood-thirsty Corea.

The slaughter of the Japanese, and of nearly all the inmates of the palace, at Corea, adds another blot to the already infamous records of the Coreans. No less than three times within the last twenty years has Corea figured before the world as a blood-thirsty monster. Once in the year 1865 the French Missionaries there succeeded in arousing bitter strife, which resulted in an unprecedented massacre of over one hundred thousand persons. Then, in the year 1878, thousands of Coreans professing Christianity showed the continuity of history by suffering for the faith like the martyrs of old. In 1882, the barbarities are as cruel as any exercised by the pioneer Spaniards on this side of the Atlantic. It seems that any country extricating itself from the gloom of barbarity to the light of civilization, is obliged to pass through the same ancient barbarities and old fashioned massacres.

Hobbies.

Was it not Sterne who said that a man's character was best known from his "hobby horse"? The author himself makes two of the most lovable men in fiction absorb themselves in the hobby of building fortifications in the garden of the house, and daily follow the army of the allies step by step. Just fancy the delightful hours that Uncle Toby and Corporal Trim spent in this diversion, and what an amount of light it throws upon their characters! Nearly every human being possesses surplus energy which must have scope. This very energy gives the possessor the idea that he is, perhaps, a little superior to anyone else, the expression of which gives a touch of piquancy to the character, and marks out more distinctly the individual from the mass. Every man is proud of his hobby, and often our dearest friends are made dearer to us when they mount the hobby-horse. One rider thinks that the human race can only be benefited by every one receiving a collegiate education, and that classics form the staff of the intellectual life. This rider trots too fast when he sees nothing but ignorance in all around him, unless all have been to college. Age and wider experience generally destroy that hobby. Another sees the salvation of mankind in nothing else but a glass of water, and is incessantly quoting scripture to prove his hobby. Then there is the horticultural hobbyist, who knows the latin names for plants, and can give you the history of flowers that you care nothing about, and can even make a rose bore you. The hobby of the young man who laughs at everything, and smiles benignly at his bitterest enemy is a strange one. If the remark "How do you do?" is made, the young man laughs, and whatever the conversation, the young man will always be laughing. Then there is the writer, who instead of attacking adverse views with wit, satire, or direct refutation, begins to empty shops, metaphorically, and direct's whirlywinds of prurient smells upon his opponents. The collector is a noted hobbyist. Old stamps, broken cups, autographs, pieces of stone from foreign shores, and even old extracted teeth are sometimes trotted out to the great discomfort of the audience. There is a little hobby that is ridden to death every night on the Post Office steps. Young men congregate there, smoke their pipes, talk over the gossip of the town, and quiz the passer-by. Such a hobby is a strange one, and there is very little to be said in its favor, while volumes could be written against it. The hobby-horse that has the hardest time of it in this world is the one ridden by the reformer. Strange to say, mankind's greatest benefactors and greatest bores have been of the same class. But who would give up the hobbies? No small amount of the variety and amusement of life will have been swept away when the nursery steeds of superfluous energy have ceased to exist.

A Scandal.

—ONE of the most scandalous events in connection with the assassination of the late President Garfield is the struggle that is now taking place concerning the financial claims of the medical attendants. The latest phase of the contest is that claims have been filed against the late President's estate for immoderate amounts. Drs. Hamilton and Agnew claim the modest sum of fifteen thousand dollars each, and Dr. Reyburn wants no less than eight or nine thousand. That Mrs. Garfield should be obliged to submit to the annoyance of a law suit is a stigma on the Republic which all true friends of the same would gladly see wiped out.

Telegraphic from the Seat of War. FULLER PARTICULARS.

LONDON, Aug. 30. A correspondent of the News telegraphs from Ismailia:—I rode over the scene of the cavalry charge at Kassassin Lock. I found two acres thickly strewn with corpses of the enemy. Some of our cavalry were still seeking our dead and wounded. Two dead Life Guards men were so mutilated that they were quite unrecognizable. The enemy's loss must have been at least 400. A despatch from Alexandria says that 250 marines from the Invincible and Inconstant will land there on Tuesday to assist the garrison.

Mahmoud Femy will arrive at Alexandria on Thursday, and will be handed over to the Khedive's Government, to be dealt with as the ministry may decide. A despatch from Ismailia to Reuter's Telegram Co. says the British are advancing in full force towards Kassassin.

The News has the following from Ismailia:—

The British did not anticipate the recent attack. The result shows we are ready for anything. It is reported that the enemy fled to Tel-el-Kebir. Our positions remain much as they were, but the cavalry advanced a few miles on the extreme right. The steamer Siam with 10 officers, and 475 men, for Egypt, sailed from London to-day.

The Telegraph's despatch from Alexandria says:—Considerable fears are expressed as to the possible result of the departure of the Highlanders. Reinforcements are anxiously looked for.

An electric light has been placed in Fort Meks.

Arabi Pasha appears to have finished his trenches on our right and seems to be making a third battery nearer the centre. The correspondent of the London Telegraph says: The men who took part in the Kassassin gallant achievement had worked for nearly 24 hours on empty stomachs but never dreamt of grumbling. The British cavalry charged straight at the guns, sabring gunners and flying infantry beyond them. The battle was ended at a stroke. A scene of wild confusion ensued. Some of the guns were still firing and bodies of infantry kept up a fusillade. Our infantry at Kassassin had a hot time. Hundreds of shells burst into the confined space. The shelter trenches afforded but insufficient protection. The Egyptians came on, and in spite of the heavy fire of our men, rapidly gained ground, and would soon have rushed on our entrenchments, when the roar of our guns on their left, followed by the rush of our cavalry, proved too much for them, and from that moment they thought only of flight.

Police Trouble in Dublin.

DUBLIN, Aug. 28.—The discontent of the constabulary has extended to the Metropolitan police. Four hundred of the latter met to complain that they were not compensated for extra work. While the meeting was proceeding the Chief Commissioner appeared and ordered the Chairman to quit the chair. The Chairman refused. The Commissioner threatened to make an example of the Chairman. The meeting dispersed shortly after. At a subsequent meeting the men pledge themselves to compensate the Chairman for any loss he might sustain. The agitation among the Metropolitan police has subsided, they being satisfied by the assurances of the Chief Commissioner and of Lord Spencer, who promised that an inquiry should be made into their grievances.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS. ARABI AT BAY

Enemy Withdrawing to Tel-el-Kebir! SOMETHING LIKE A TURKISH LIE.

Special to the Examiner.

ALEXANDRIA, Aug. 31. Great excitement prevailed in the camp when the news spread, and was officially confirmed, that Arabi had sent in a requisition asking for an armistice covering eight days. General Wolseley replied at once that the time required was out of the question, but that the armistice might last for one day. It is thought that Arabi is anxious to gain time, in order that the False Prophet, who is said to be marching towards Cairo, may soon join forces with Arabi's own. The Egyptian garrison from Fort Gheneh has withdrawn to Tel-el-Kebir, where Arabi is making a decided stand, and is covered in all directions with heavy guns. The movements of the garrison confirm the idea that the decisive battle will take place between Tel-el-Kebir and Zagazig. The forces of Arabi, in this direction, are growing stronger every day. The Turkish papers announce that the British forces suffered a severe defeat in the engagements at Ramleh. They give a glaring description of the imaginative battle-field, and wind up by describing the ground as being covered with the dead bodies of four thousand British soldiers.

Dufferin's Ultimatum.

Special to the Examiner.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 31. Lord Dufferin has informed the Porte that he cannot any longer continue the discussion concerning the terms of the military convention. Lord Dufferin stated that Turkey must accept the English terms at once, and that England could bear no longer the shifting policy of the Porte.

Turk and Greek Again.

Special Dispatch to the Examiner.

ATHENS, Aug. 31. Hostilities between the Greek and Turkish soldiers on the Turkish frontier have recommenced. The authorities are about to send a stronger force from here to aid the men at the frontier.

The Dissatisfied Police.

Special Dispatch to the Examiner.

DUBLIN, Aug. 31. The Dublin police have expressed themselves dissatisfied with the committee appointed by the authorities to investigate the grievances of the police. The men are growing almost riotous, and have arranged a meeting in spite of the prohibition of the commissioners.

VICE-REGAL MOVEMENTS.

Special Dispatch to the Examiner.

QUEBEC, Sept. 1. The Governor General and Princess Louise left Quebec to-day for British Columbia.

GENERAL CABLE NEWS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 30. The text of the military convention was drawn up and agreed upon to-day, by Lord Dufferin and the Ottoman plenipotentiaries. It will probably be signed within a few days.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 30. M. Comandouriotis, Greek Minister, has had another conference with Said Pasha, Turkish Minister of Foreign Affairs. It is understood that orders will be sent by the Porte to the commander of the Turkish troops on the Greek frontier to cease hostilities. A detachment of Turkish troops has left Salomica for the Greek frontier to restore order.

ATHENS, Aug. 30. Additional troops have been ordered to the frontier where the Government has determined to concentrate 4,000 men immediately. The Hora (newspaper) says that this number will be sufficient if a movement of Turks is only instigated by the Turkish local commander, but if the impulse emanates from Constantinople the struggle will prove serious.

Despatches from the frontier claim that the Turkish troops were repulsed on Monday and Tuesday with considerable loss. The Greeks occupy a strong position at Vigla, which is exactly on the new frontier, to the north of Serbois. The Bishop of Datamona, with eighty peasants, has joined the Greeks.

LIVERPOOL, N. S., Aug. 30. Fires in the woods near this town, Milton and Brooklyn, to-day, assumed a threatening appearance. The atmosphere is thick with smoke, and objects distant a quarter of a mile are not visible. Milton is in a most dangerous proximity to the fires, and if the wind should increase without immediate rain the destruction of many dwellings seems certain. The inhabitants are all on the lookout and trying to head off the flames. Fortunately, the wind is light. The drought in this district is severely felt and field crops and gardens have a desolate look.

The following about Ocean Grove is from the Philadelphia Times:—"Flirtation is everywhere. On the board walk in the evening it is amusing. Every other girl you pass turns her head and smiles. If you lift your hat she bows to you. If you walk up to her and say 'Good evening,' she says 'Good evening,' too, and commences to chat with you as if she had known you all her life. And yet there are few really bad girls here. They are only a little wild; they throw off restraint when they come down and they put it on when they go home. For the young man who enjoys this sort of thing Ocean Grove is a paradise."

P. E. Island Railway. NOTICE.

To Whom it May Concern.

PARTICULAR ATTENTION is called to the following Clauses of "The Government Railway Act, 1881":—

Section 58.—If any person rides, leads or drives any horse or any other animal, or suffers any such horse or other animal to enter upon such Railway, and within the fences and guards, without the consent of some officer or employee of the Department, he shall for every such offence forfeit a sum not exceeding forty dollars, and shall also pay to the party aggrieved all damages sustained thereby. Provided always that no person shall be liable to the said penalty where he rides, leads or drives any horse or other animal over a farm crossing, unless he allows such horse or other animal to enter the appurtenances of such crossing.

Section 59.—If any person other than those connected with or employed by the Department walks, drives, or leads any horse or other animal over any such crossing, he shall be liable to the same penalty as if he were the owner of such horse or other animal, unless he can prove that he was acting in obedience to the order of some person or persons to prevent their loitering or stopping on such highway at such intersection.

Section 60.—All cattle found at large in contravention of the last preceding section may, by any person finding the same at large, be impounded in the nearest pound to the place where the same are so found, and the pound-keeper with whom the same are so impounded shall detain the same in the like manner, and subject to the like regulations as to the care and disposal thereof, as in the case of cattle impounded for trespass on private property.

Section 62.—If the cattle of any person, being at large contrary to the provisions of section sixty, are killed or injured by any train at such point of intersection, he shall not have any action or be entitled to compensation in respect of the same, unless the same are killed or injured through the negligence or willfulness of some officer, employee or servant of the Department.
