

CHURCHES TOMORROW

CHURCH OF ENGLAND

S. PETER'S CATHEDRAL Anglican Rochford Square. The Reverend Canon E. M. Malone M.A., D.D., Incumbent. Miss Susanne Brenton, Lic. Music. Organist and Choir Director.

S. PAUL'S ANGLICAN CHURCH

THE PARISH CHURCH Established 1769 by Royal Foundation. The Reverend J. T. Abbott, Rector. Dr. Royston F. Magford, A.R.C.O., Organist and Choir Master.

PRESBYTERIAN

THE KIRK OF S. JAMES The Reverend T. H. B. Somers, M.A., S.T.M., Minister. Miss E. Lillian McKenzie, M.B. Bac. Organist and Director of the Choir.

ZION PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Prince and Grafton Streets Reverend G. Carley Webster, Minister. Mr. Frank Johnston, A.T.C.L. Organist and Choir Director

MORNING WORSHIP

11 a.m.—The Rev. Edwin White, B.A., First Presbyterian Church, Edmonton, will conduct the service.

EVENING WORSHIP

7 p.m.—The Rev. Edwin White, B.A. Soprano solo: "The Lord is My Shepherd" (Liddle)—Miss June Foster.

SALVATION ARMY

GREAT GEORGE STREET Major and Mrs. E. Hutchinson Corps Officers.

11 a.m.—Holiness Divine Services.

7 p.m.—Open Air, Grafton St. 7 p.m.—Publ. Divine Service conducted by Major and Mrs. White, who with their family will lead and bring special Gospel Messages and song in all services.

A Warm Welcome awaits you at the Army. Come and bring a friend.

BEQUESTS

Someone has said that it is not a good WILL which does not remember Christ's work with a gift. There is no better way of remembering His work, than by making a bequest to the Bible Society. The Bible Society seeks to give every man of every language God's Word in his own tongue without note or comment. Your gift will speak to the hearts of men through the Word of God and by your influence will go on for generations. In making a bequest, kindly do so through the P. E. I. Auxiliary or Branch. The Bible House is at 100 Fitzroy Street, Charlottetown, P.E.I.

WHY HAVE SORE FEET? JUST RUB IN MINARD'S LINIMENT

THE CENTRAL GUARDIAN

This column is reserved for news of local interest, but advertising of a new or new nature may be inserted at five cents a word, strictly payable in advance.

JIMMY'S TAXI—Phone 425. OBASWELL for Better Photographs. COOK'S STUDIO for perfect pictures.

MILK is good for you and must for the Kiddies. FALL SUITS for women, sizes 16 1/2 to 24 1/2, arrived at The Fashion Shoppe.

FLIGHTS DAILY except Sunday to New Glasgow and Halifax. Phone Maritime Central Airline.

MARITIME RACING. Strawbery Race Track, New Glasgow, Wednesday, August 22nd.

STEWART Bakeries Ltd. Special for Saturday. "Coconut Layer Cake" with fluffy white icing. For Delivery phone 211.

MACDONALD RADIO SERVICE 180 Kept Street. Radio repair, sound equipment, Disc Recording, Rogers Majestic and Stewart Warner Radios.

MAKE A DATE to attend Red Cross Blood Donor Clinics between August 27th and September 5th. Watch papers for times and places.

CHURCH OF SCOTLAND—Services August 19th. Coleman 11 A. M. Cape Traverse 3 P. M. DeSable 7:30 P. M. Monday, Argyle Shore, 8 P. M. Rev. J. H. Bishop.

MILTON-RUSTICO PARISH—Services for Sunday, August 19th have been cancelled. Services for Sunday, August 26th, will be announced as usual.

TRY ON COCONUT Cup Cakes, Cheese Tarts, Chocolate Snowballs, Lemon eclairs and Cream Puffs. Fresh and delicious at Stewart Bakeries Ltd.

TRYON PASTORAL CHARGE—United Church Services will be held Sunday, August 19th, as follows: 11 A. M. Tryon. 3 P. M. Cape Traverse. 7:30 P. M. Crapaud. All welcome. Rev. R. L. Bacon, Minister.

THE OFFICE OF THE RIFEWAY CLEANERS will be open Monday and Tuesday, Friday and Saturday between the hours of 9 A. M. and 5 P. M. On Wednesday and Thursday this hours will be from 9 A. M. to 12 noon. Next Saturday drivers will be on the rounds as per usual, and pick-up service.

VISITOR FROM BRITISH GUIANA—Mr. Hugh A. Cameron, managing director of Messrs. Brookers Rum Co. Ltd., of Georgetown, British Guiana, was a visitor here yesterday as part of a tour of Canada from Vancouver to the Maritimes in the interest of better tariff terms between his colony and Ottawa.

HAMPTON UNITED CHURCH PASTORAL CHARGE.—Services Sunday, August 19th. Services 10 A. M. B. M. Shaw 11 A. M. Victoria 11 A. M. Services cancelled at Bonshaw and Hampton. Service at Victoria at 7:30 P. M. Rev. T. G. Head will be the guest preacher. Rev. L. S. Woolfrey, Minister.

TO ATTEND CONVENTION—A group of Charlottetown Kinmen and their wives left by car this morning to attend the Kinmen National Convention which is to be held in Halifax from Aug. 19 to 22. Those attending are Mr. A. W. Gaudet, Governor of District No. 7, and Mrs. Gaudet; Mr. A. F. Archer, President Elect of the Charlottetown Club, and Mrs. Archer; Mr. D. R. Rankin, District Bulletin Editor and Mrs. Rankin; Mr. Ivan Sinclair, president of the Charlottetown Club, and Mrs. Sinclair, and Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Johnston.

CITY POLICE COURT—At the Stipendiary Magistrate's Court yesterday a man convicted of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated was fined $100 and costs or one month in jail. A man charged with mischief was fined $20 and costs or 20 days in jail plus $9.50 damages or a further 10 days in jail, while a man convicted of vagrancy was sentenced to 60 days in jail. Eight men charged with being drunk and incapable appeared. One was sentenced to 20 days in jail, one was fined $10 and costs or 10 days, one $15 and costs or 15 days, four fined $5 and costs or five days each and one committed to hospital for examination. A drunk and disorderly was fined $20 and costs or 20 days in jail.

Card Of Thanks We wish to extend our thanks and appreciation to all those who gave help and assistance after our recent fire. Signed Mr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Cullen.

FINAL CLEARANCE SALE 1-3 TO 50% OFF BALANCE OF CHILDREN'S AND MISSES' SUMMER STOCK SEE THESE VALUES TODAY AND MAKE YOUR DOLLARS BUY MORE THE MISSES HOLMES & BRADLEY 159 Queen St. Phone 92

OBAY ACTS 2:38 God's Plan of Salvation

Card Of Thanks I wish to thank the doctors and nurses who attended my sister, Margaret A. Stewart while a patient in the P. E. I. Hospital last winter and also the kind friends and neighbors who helped in every way while my sister was sick at home, and those who sent cards of sympathy and flowers. Mrs. Wesley Matthew.

Card Of Thanks I wish to thank the doctors and nurses who attended my sister, Margaret A. Stewart while a patient in the P. E. I. Hospital last winter and also the kind friends and neighbors who helped in every way while my sister was sick at home, and those who sent cards of sympathy and flowers. Mrs. Wesley Matthew.

Card Of Thanks I wish to thank the doctors and nurses who attended my sister, Margaret A. Stewart while a patient in the P. E. I. Hospital last winter and also the kind friends and neighbors who helped in every way while my sister was sick at home, and those who sent cards of sympathy and flowers. Mrs. Wesley Matthew.

Card Of Thanks I wish to thank the doctors and nurses who attended my sister, Margaret A. Stewart while a patient in the P. E. I. Hospital last winter and also the kind friends and neighbors who helped in every way while my sister was sick at home, and those who sent cards of sympathy and flowers. Mrs. Wesley Matthew.

Card Of Thanks I wish to thank the doctors and nurses who attended my sister, Margaret A. Stewart while a patient in the P. E. I. Hospital last winter and also the kind friends and neighbors who helped in every way while my sister was sick at home, and those who sent cards of sympathy and flowers. Mrs. Wesley Matthew.

Card Of Thanks I wish to thank the doctors and nurses who attended my sister, Margaret A. Stewart while a patient in the P. E. I. Hospital last winter and also the kind friends and neighbors who helped in every way while my sister was sick at home, and those who sent cards of sympathy and flowers. Mrs. Wesley Matthew.

Card Of Thanks I wish to thank the doctors and nurses who attended my sister, Margaret A. Stewart while a patient in the P. E. I. Hospital last winter and also the kind friends and neighbors who helped in every way while my sister was sick at home, and those who sent cards of sympathy and flowers. Mrs. Wesley Matthew.

Card Of Thanks I wish to thank the doctors and nurses who attended my sister, Margaret A. Stewart while a patient in the P. E. I. Hospital last winter and also the kind friends and neighbors who helped in every way while my sister was sick at home, and those who sent cards of sympathy and flowers. Mrs. Wesley Matthew.

Card Of Thanks I wish to thank the doctors and nurses who attended my sister, Margaret A. Stewart while a patient in the P. E. I. Hospital last winter and also the kind friends and neighbors who helped in every way while my sister was sick at home, and those who sent cards of sympathy and flowers. Mrs. Wesley Matthew.

Card Of Thanks I wish to thank the doctors and nurses who attended my sister, Margaret A. Stewart while a patient in the P. E. I. Hospital last winter and also the kind friends and neighbors who helped in every way while my sister was sick at home, and those who sent cards of sympathy and flowers. Mrs. Wesley Matthew.

Card Of Thanks I wish to thank the doctors and nurses who attended my sister, Margaret A. Stewart while a patient in the P. E. I. Hospital last winter and also the kind friends and neighbors who helped in every way while my sister was sick at home, and those who sent cards of sympathy and flowers. Mrs. Wesley Matthew.

Card Of Thanks I wish to thank the doctors and nurses who attended my sister, Margaret A. Stewart while a patient in the P. E. I. Hospital last winter and also the kind friends and neighbors who helped in every way while my sister was sick at home, and those who sent cards of sympathy and flowers. Mrs. Wesley Matthew.

Card Of Thanks I wish to thank the doctors and nurses who attended my sister, Margaret A. Stewart while a patient in the P. E. I. Hospital last winter and also the kind friends and neighbors who helped in every way while my sister was sick at home, and those who sent cards of sympathy and flowers. Mrs. Wesley Matthew.

Card Of Thanks I wish to thank the doctors and nurses who attended my sister, Margaret A. Stewart while a patient in the P. E. I. Hospital last winter and also the kind friends and neighbors who helped in every way while my sister was sick at home, and those who sent cards of sympathy and flowers. Mrs. Wesley Matthew.

Card Of Thanks I wish to thank the doctors and nurses who attended my sister, Margaret A. Stewart while a patient in the P. E. I. Hospital last winter and also the kind friends and neighbors who helped in every way while my sister was sick at home, and those who sent cards of sympathy and flowers. Mrs. Wesley Matthew.

Card Of Thanks I wish to thank the doctors and nurses who attended my sister, Margaret A. Stewart while a patient in the P. E. I. Hospital last winter and also the kind friends and neighbors who helped in every way while my sister was sick at home, and those who sent cards of sympathy and flowers. Mrs. Wesley Matthew.

Card Of Thanks I wish to thank the doctors and nurses who attended my sister, Margaret A. Stewart while a patient in the P. E. I. Hospital last winter and also the kind friends and neighbors who helped in every way while my sister was sick at home, and those who sent cards of sympathy and flowers. Mrs. Wesley Matthew.

Card Of Thanks I wish to thank the doctors and nurses who attended my sister, Margaret A. Stewart while a patient in the P. E. I. Hospital last winter and also the kind friends and neighbors who helped in every way while my sister was sick at home, and those who sent cards of sympathy and flowers. Mrs. Wesley Matthew.

Card Of Thanks I wish to thank the doctors and nurses who attended my sister, Margaret A. Stewart while a patient in the P. E. I. Hospital last winter and also the kind friends and neighbors who helped in every way while my sister was sick at home, and those who sent cards of sympathy and flowers. Mrs. Wesley Matthew.

Card Of Thanks I wish to thank the doctors and nurses who attended my sister, Margaret A. Stewart while a patient in the P. E. I. Hospital last winter and also the kind friends and neighbors who helped in every way while my sister was sick at home, and those who sent cards of sympathy and flowers. Mrs. Wesley Matthew.

Card Of Thanks I wish to thank the doctors and nurses who attended my sister, Margaret A. Stewart while a patient in the P. E. I. Hospital last winter and also the kind friends and neighbors who helped in every way while my sister was sick at home, and those who sent cards of sympathy and flowers. Mrs. Wesley Matthew.

Card Of Thanks I wish to thank the doctors and nurses who attended my sister, Margaret A. Stewart while a patient in the P. E. I. Hospital last winter and also the kind friends and neighbors who helped in every way while my sister was sick at home, and those who sent cards of sympathy and flowers. Mrs. Wesley Matthew.

Card Of Thanks I wish to thank the doctors and nurses who attended my sister, Margaret A. Stewart while a patient in the P. E. I. Hospital last winter and also the kind friends and neighbors who helped in every way while my sister was sick at home, and those who sent cards of sympathy and flowers. Mrs. Wesley Matthew.

Card Of Thanks I wish to thank the doctors and nurses who attended my sister, Margaret A. Stewart while a patient in the P. E. I. Hospital last winter and also the kind friends and neighbors who helped in every way while my sister was sick at home, and those who sent cards of sympathy and flowers. Mrs. Wesley Matthew.

Card Of Thanks I wish to thank the doctors and nurses who attended my sister, Margaret A. Stewart while a patient in the P. E. I. Hospital last winter and also the kind friends and neighbors who helped in every way while my sister was sick at home, and those who sent cards of sympathy and flowers. Mrs. Wesley Matthew.

Literature And Life

By BOOKMAN

The Rubaiyat Of Omar Khayyam The Rubaiyat is a poem composed by Omar Khayyam, who lived about the middle of the eleventh century. It owes its modern appeal to a translation by Edward Fitzgerald who did it about 1856, and his translation is almost a new poem by itself. In it is treated by Fitzgerald there are 73 quatrains rhyming as follows: Lines 1, 2, 4 all have the same rhyme, but the 3rd is different.

Omar was not only a poet but a scientist, a mathematician, and a philosopher to boot. He wrote works on Algebra and Geometry. He also knew a great deal about astronomy.

In his thinking about life he is akin to the author of the book of Job and also like Koheleth, or the preacher who wrote Ecclesiastes. They were seekers after God and more or less skeptics, but there is often more faith in honest doubt than half the breeds. When Job on his rubbish heap and Omar in his rose garden speak, they denounce not God but current theories about Him—what was learned from traditional orthodox.

Job believed in a Vindicator and Omar believed in a Potter. The Rubaiyat is an interesting production in which we hear a great deal about wine, a rose garden and nightingales.

The author is pessimistic about the world in which he lives, but some kind of a potter is at work. He gives vent to his feelings at least as represented by Fitzgerald in his appealing words. The translator in one of his letters (and he was a famous letter-writer) says the philosophy of Omar is one that which never fails in the world, to wit—"today is ours, etc. There is much about wine, and we are bidden fill the cup that clears". One occasion he seems to imply that you may learn something in the tavern:

"And this I know: whether the King be in a Potter, the Rubaiyat is an interesting production in which we hear a great deal about wine, a rose garden and nightingales.

The author is pessimistic about the world in which he lives, but some kind of a potter is at work. He gives vent to his feelings at least as represented by Fitzgerald in his appealing words. The translator in one of his letters (and he was a famous letter-writer) says the philosophy of Omar is one that which never fails in the world, to wit—"today is ours, etc. There is much about wine, and we are bidden fill the cup that clears". One occasion he seems to imply that you may learn something in the tavern:

"And this I know: whether the King be in a Potter, the Rubaiyat is an interesting production in which we hear a great deal about wine, a rose garden and nightingales.

The author is pessimistic about the world in which he lives, but some kind of a potter is at work. He gives vent to his feelings at least as represented by Fitzgerald in his appealing words. The translator in one of his letters (and he was a famous letter-writer) says the philosophy of Omar is one that which never fails in the world, to wit—"today is ours, etc. There is much about wine, and we are bidden fill the cup that clears". One occasion he seems to imply that you may learn something in the tavern:

"And this I know: whether the King be in a Potter, the Rubaiyat is an interesting production in which we hear a great deal about wine, a rose garden and nightingales.

The author is pessimistic about the world in which he lives, but some kind of a potter is at work. He gives vent to his feelings at least as represented by Fitzgerald in his appealing words. The translator in one of his letters (and he was a famous letter-writer) says the philosophy of Omar is one that which never fails in the world, to wit—"today is ours, etc. There is much about wine, and we are bidden fill the cup that clears". One occasion he seems to imply that you may learn something in the tavern:

"And this I know: whether the King be in a Potter, the Rubaiyat is an interesting production in which we hear a great deal about wine, a rose garden and nightingales.

The author is pessimistic about the world in which he lives, but some kind of a potter is at work. He gives vent to his feelings at least as represented by Fitzgerald in his appealing words. The translator in one of his letters (and he was a famous letter-writer) says the philosophy of Omar is one that which never fails in the world, to wit—"today is ours, etc. There is much about wine, and we are bidden fill the cup that clears". One occasion he seems to imply that you may learn something in the tavern:

"And this I know: whether the King be in a Potter, the Rubaiyat is an interesting production in which we hear a great deal about wine, a rose garden and nightingales.

The author is pessimistic about the world in which he lives, but some kind of a potter is at work. He gives vent to his feelings at least as represented by Fitzgerald in his appealing words. The translator in one of his letters (and he was a famous letter-writer) says the philosophy of Omar is one that which never fails in the world, to wit—"today is ours, etc. There is much about wine, and we are bidden fill the cup that clears". One occasion he seems to imply that you may learn something in the tavern:

"And this I know: whether the King be in a Potter, the Rubaiyat is an interesting production in which we hear a great deal about wine, a rose garden and nightingales.

The author is pessimistic about the world in which he lives, but some kind of a potter is at work. He gives vent to his feelings at least as represented by Fitzgerald in his appealing words. The translator in one of his letters (and he was a famous letter-writer) says the philosophy of Omar is one that which never fails in the world, to wit—"today is ours, etc. There is much about wine, and we are bidden fill the cup that clears". One occasion he seems to imply that you may learn something in the tavern:

"And this I know: whether the King be in a Potter, the Rubaiyat is an interesting production in which we hear a great deal about wine, a rose garden and nightingales.

The author is pessimistic about the world in which he lives, but some kind of a potter is at work. He gives vent to his feelings at least as represented by Fitzgerald in his appealing words. The translator in one of his letters (and he was a famous letter-writer) says the philosophy of Omar is one that which never fails in the world, to wit—"today is ours, etc. There is much about wine, and we are bidden fill the cup that clears". One occasion he seems to imply that you may learn something in the tavern:

"And this I know: whether the King be in a Potter, the Rubaiyat is an interesting production in which we hear a great deal about wine, a rose garden and nightingales.

The author is pessimistic about the world in which he lives, but some kind of a potter is at work. He gives vent to his feelings at least as represented by Fitzgerald in his appealing words. The translator in one of his letters (and he was a famous letter-writer) says the philosophy of Omar is one that which never fails in the world, to wit—"today is ours, etc. There is much about wine, and we are bidden fill the cup that clears". One occasion he seems to imply that you may learn something in the tavern:

"And this I know: whether the King be in a Potter, the Rubaiyat is an interesting production in which we hear a great deal about wine, a rose garden and nightingales.

The author is pessimistic about the world in which he lives, but some kind of a potter is at work. He gives vent to his feelings at least as represented by Fitzgerald in his appealing words. The translator in one of his letters (and he was a famous letter-writer) says the philosophy of Omar is one that which never fails in the world, to wit—"today is ours, etc. There is much about wine, and we are bidden fill the cup that clears". One occasion he seems to imply that you may learn something in the tavern:

"And this I know: whether the King be in a Potter, the Rubaiyat is an interesting production in which we hear a great deal about wine, a rose garden and nightingales.

The author is pessimistic about the world in which he lives, but some kind of a potter is at work. He gives vent to his feelings at least as represented by Fitzgerald in his appealing words. The translator in one of his letters (and he was a famous letter-writer) says the philosophy of Omar is one that which never fails in the world, to wit—"today is ours, etc. There is much about wine, and we are bidden fill the cup that clears". One occasion he seems to imply that you may learn something in the tavern:

"And this I know: whether the King be in a Potter, the Rubaiyat is an interesting production in which we hear a great deal about wine, a rose garden and nightingales.

The author is pessimistic about the world in which he lives, but some kind of a potter is at work. He gives vent to his feelings at least as represented by Fitzgerald in his appealing words. The translator in one of his letters (and he was a famous letter-writer) says the philosophy of Omar is one that which never fails in the world, to wit—"today is ours, etc. There is much about wine, and we are bidden fill the cup that clears". One occasion he seems to imply that you may learn something in the tavern:

"And this I know: whether the King be in a Potter, the Rubaiyat is an interesting production in which we hear a great deal about wine, a rose garden and nightingales.

The author is pessimistic about the world in which he lives, but some kind of a potter is at work. He gives vent to his feelings at least as represented by Fitzgerald in his appealing words. The translator in one of his letters (and he was a famous letter-writer) says the philosophy of Omar is one that which never fails in the world, to wit—"today is ours, etc. There is much about wine, and we are bidden fill the cup that clears". One occasion he seems to imply that you may learn something in the tavern:

"And this I know: whether the King be in a Potter, the Rubaiyat is an interesting production in which we hear a great deal about wine, a rose garden and nightingales.

The author is pessimistic about the world in which he lives, but some kind of a potter is at work. He gives vent to his feelings at least as represented by Fitzgerald in his appealing words. The translator in one of his letters (and he was a famous letter-writer) says the philosophy of Omar is one that which never fails in the world, to wit—"today is ours, etc. There is much about wine, and we are bidden fill the cup that clears". One occasion he seems to imply that you may learn something in the tavern:

"And this I know: whether the King be in a Potter, the Rubaiyat is an interesting production in which we hear a great deal about wine, a rose garden and nightingales.

The author is pessimistic about the world in which he lives, but some kind of a potter is at work. He gives vent to his feelings at least as represented by Fitzgerald in his appealing words. The translator in one of his letters (and he was a famous letter-writer) says the philosophy of Omar is one that which never fails in the world, to wit—"today is ours, etc. There is much about wine, and we are bidden fill the cup that clears". One occasion he seems to imply that you may learn something in the tavern:

"And this I know: whether the King be in a Potter, the Rubaiyat is an interesting production in which we hear a great deal about wine, a rose garden and nightingales.

The author is pessimistic about the world in which he lives, but some kind of a potter is at work. He gives vent to his feelings at least as represented by Fitzgerald in his appealing words. The translator in one of his letters (and he was a famous letter-writer) says the philosophy of Omar is one that which never fails in the world, to wit—"today is ours, etc. There is much about wine, and we are bidden fill the cup that clears". One occasion he seems to imply that you may learn something in the tavern:

"And this I know: whether the King be in a Potter, the Rubaiyat is an interesting production in which we hear a great deal about wine, a rose garden and nightingales.

The author is pessimistic about the world in which he lives, but some kind of a potter is at work. He gives vent to his feelings at least as represented by Fitzgerald in his appealing words. The translator in one of his letters (and he was a famous letter-writer) says the philosophy of Omar is one that which never fails in the world, to wit—"today is ours, etc. There is much about wine, and we are bidden fill the cup that clears". One occasion he seems to imply that you may learn something in the tavern:

"And this I know: whether the King be in a Potter, the Rubaiyat is an interesting production in which we hear a great deal about wine, a rose garden and nightingales.

The author is pessimistic about the world in which he lives, but some kind of a potter is at work. He gives vent to his feelings at least as represented by Fitzgerald in his appealing words. The translator in one of his letters (and he was a famous letter-writer) says the philosophy of Omar is one that which never fails in the world, to wit—"today is ours, etc. There is much about wine, and we are bidden fill the cup that clears". One occasion he seems to imply that you may learn something in the tavern:

"And this I know: whether the King be in a Potter, the Rubaiyat is an interesting production in which we hear a great deal about wine, a rose garden and nightingales.

The author is pessimistic about the world in which he lives, but some kind of a potter is at work. He gives vent to his feelings at least as represented by Fitzgerald in his appealing words. The translator in one of his letters (and he was a famous letter-writer) says the philosophy of Omar is one that which never fails in the world, to wit—"today is ours, etc. There is much about wine, and we are bidden fill the cup that clears". One occasion he seems to imply that you may learn something in the tavern:

"And this I know: whether the King be in a Potter, the Rubaiyat is an interesting production in which we hear a great deal about wine, a rose garden and nightingales.

The author is pessimistic about the world in which he lives, but some kind of a potter is at work. He gives vent to his feelings at least as represented by Fitzgerald in his appealing words. The translator in one of his letters (and he was a famous letter-writer) says the philosophy of Omar is one that which never fails in the world, to wit—"today is ours, etc. There is much about wine, and we are bidden fill the cup that clears". One occasion he seems to imply that you may learn something in the tavern:

"And this I know: whether the King be in a Potter, the Rubaiyat is an interesting production in which we hear a great deal about wine, a rose garden and nightingales.

The author is pessimistic about the world in which he lives, but some kind of a potter is at work. He gives vent to his feelings at least as represented by Fitzgerald in his appealing words. The translator in one of his letters (and he was a famous letter-writer) says the philosophy of Omar is one that which never fails in the world, to wit—"today is ours, etc. There is much about wine, and we are bidden fill the cup that clears". One occasion he seems to imply that you may learn something in the tavern:

Twenty-one Candles

Continued from page 2

future Council of State set up to act for the King during illness or absence from the country. She will also draw the Civil List allowance of £8,000 a year. Her position as fourth in the line of succession to the throne, after Princess Elizabeth and her two children, entitles her to no special privileges beyond her rightful order of precedence on ceremonial occasions. She is, for instance, subject to income tax, like the rest of her father's subjects, and when she first learned to drive the Royal cars she underwent the normal driving test.

One of the Princess's main interests is encouraging young people to play their part in the social work of their country. She is patron of the Union of Girls' Schools for Social Service and the Scottish Association of Girls' Clubs, and Commandant-in-Chief of the Ambulance and Nursing Cadets of the St. John Ambulance Brigade.

After some years as an enthusiastic Girl Guide she is now Commandant of the Sea Rangers. She is also President of the Victoria League Young Contingent which arranges hospitality and entertainment for young visitors from various parts of the Commonwealth. As the active President of the Dr. Barnardo's Homes, the Sunshine Homes for Blind Babies, and the Scottish Children's League she is helping to better the lot of those whose early experiences have been less fortunate than her own, and she is also patron of the Princess Margaret Hospital in Edinburgh.

Like most members of the Royal Family she has her "own" regiment of which she is Colonel-in-Chief—the Highland Light Infantry of her native Scotland, the Rand Light Infantry of the Union of South Africa, the first overseas country she ever visited, and the Highland Light Infantry of Canada.

Wide interests in Music, Theatre and Ballet Princess Margaret's own great artistic interests are music, the theatre and the ballet. She is an accomplished pianist, an enthusiastic dancer, and a keen player who has herself experienced the joys of taking part in amateur dramatic performances. She has therefore chosen to associate herself with the Sadler's Wells Foundation, as its president, and has become patron of the Scottish Community Drama Association, the English Folk Dance and Song Society and the University of London Musical Society. Her great love of horses and her skill as a horsewoman make her the ideal patron of the National Pony Society.

The Princess's work for these organizations is not confined to appearances at meetings and public functions, although her lively this section is very interesting, where he sets the vessels which are human lives on a shelf and listens to their story. This clay population speaks. One of them asked who is the potter and who is the pot? Another says that he who made it would not stamp it back into earth again. Still another said that even a peevish boy would break the bowl from which he drank with joy. There was one which had defects in shape. Did the hand of the artificer shake? Another who looked upon its creation said of its craftsman: "He's a good fellow and all will be well". The one at the end of the row said fill me with juice, my clay is gone dry. Thus we hear these creations show their reaction to the potter.

He surely felt the heavy and the weary weight of all this unintelligible world. He feels the transitoriness of things here. He will go where all his predecessors have gone and the moon with shining foot shall pass over his garden.

How oft hereafter rising shall she look Through this same garden after me—in vain.

personally, her friendly manner and her gift for making short, apt speeches make her a welcome guest of honour. She also receives and studies regular reports on their progress and often herself makes practical suggestions about their work.

Even when she has no outside engagements the Princess puts in a long working day at Buckingham Palace. Her second-floor sitting-room, overlooking the Mall, is also her work-room, where, each morning, she attends to her correspondence. She reads all letters addressed to her and indicates to her lady-in-waiting, Miss Jennifer Bevan, the reply which she wishes sent. She has, however, always consulted her mother before accepting invitations, whether of a public or private nature, and it is unlikely that she will make any departure from this well established practice.

Entertaining at Buckingham Palace Since her sister's marriage the younger Princess has become a great companion to her mother; they enjoy shopping expeditions and private visits to places of interest together. Princess Margaret helps the Queen to arrange parties, draw up invitation lists and entertain visitors, particularly those who join the Royal Family at luncheon at Buckingham Palace. She thus has many opportunities for informal conversation with people prominent in public life, not only in Britain but in the other Commonwealth and foreign countries.

The Princess accompanies the King and Queen on many of their public visits and, with her pet Sealyham dog, Johnny, she always joins them when in residence at their country homes, although she likes to spend an occasional week-end as a guest in a private house. She enjoys an evening at the theatre with a party of young friends, almost always choosing stalls in preference to a box, and often going on to have supper and dance in a restaurant. More often than not, however, when her day's work is done, she spends a quiet family evening alone with the King and Queen, listening to the radio, watching television, playing the piano or joining in the card game of canasta.

personally, her friendly manner and her gift for making short, apt speeches make her a welcome guest of honour. She also receives and studies regular reports on their progress and often herself makes practical suggestions about their work.

Even when she has no outside engagements the Princess puts in a long