QUIZ

You are the dealer, neither side vulnerable. What would you bid with each of the following five hands?

1. ♠A9652 ♥A ♦AQ ♣K8763
2. ♠QJ6 ♥AK4 ♦AJ73 ♣AJ5
3. ♠87643 ♥AKQ4 ♦8 ♣AKJ
4. ♠Q8 ♥KQ94 ♦QJ2 ♣KQ63
5. ♠Q ♥Q763 ♦AQ84 ♣AQ92

1. One club. Obviously, the choice lies between a spade and a club, but, in the long run, the winning bid is one club. This is chiefly because the opening club bid permits the maximum exchange of information at a low level.

Thus, if you open with a club and partner responds a diamond or a heart, it becomes possible to show the second suit at the one level. But if you open with a spade and partner responds two diamonds or hearts, it would become necessary to go into the three level to show the second suit. This conservation of bidding space is frequently important in arriving at the best contract, whether at a high or low level.

2. One diamond. Even though this is clearly a notrump type of hand, it is better to open with a diamond, our only four-card suit. It would be wrong to bid one notrump, showing 16 to 18 points when we actually have 20, and it would be equally wrong to bid two notrump, showing 22 to 24 points, which we don't have.

The plan is to jump to three notrump if partner's response to the diamond opening is a heart, a spade or a notrump. In this way our high-card strength and balanced distribution would become identified almost exactly.

3. One spade. Despite the poor quality of the suit, the proper opening bid is one spade. If partner has any three spades, the suit becomes playable as trump. The intention is to bid hearts next and then abide by partner's preference for one of the two suits. The hand lends itself primarily to suit play, and every effort should be expended in that direction.

4. One club. The choice is between one club and one heart. The club bid is preferred because no rebid problem will arise if partner's response is one of any suit. An opening heart bid would, however, present a difficult rebid problem if partner responded two diamonds.

5. One diamond. Generally, with 4-4-4-1 distribution, you start with the suit immediately beneath the singleton, but in this case you don't because the suit, hearts, is not regarded as bidable because of its very poor texture. That being the case, you go to the next eligible suit, diamonds. The intention is to bid two clubs if partner's response to the diamond bid is one spade.

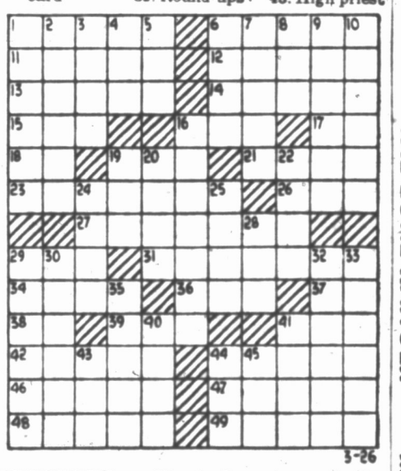
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
