Victoria Notes.

Passing through Victoria on Monday last, I was agreeably surprised by the accounts I received of the amount of shipping done this spring by the enterprising merchants, Messrs. Wright, Strong, Palmer, Brien and Hudson & McQuary.

Victoria is a thriving place. The merchants appear to be very enterprising men, and appear to sell their goods at very reasonable prices. I saw no drinking—people seem to be all employed loading and fishing lobsters.

A new lobster factory has been established on Sandy Point by some enterprising young men whose names I have forgotten. For new beginners I am informed that they have been very successful, and all seem to wish them success.

Mr. Penpraise has erected quite an addition to his establishment, and Mr. Charles Rogers is putting up a new house at the head of the Main Street. I should not forget to mention that Mr. George Palmer has erected quite a nice flag staff at the head of the Main Street, which must have cost some money. The flag of old England was flying as we passed through in honor of Her Majesty's birthday.

I think if the Government erects a storm signal in that harbor, which is much required, that Mr. Palmer would be the right and proper person to have charge of it, as it appears he takes much pride in anything of the kind, and I understand he has never yet sought any office under any government, and has done considerable to advance Victoria.

Statistics of Suicide.

The insurance statisticians have tabulated a great array of facts in regard to all the means by which losses of life, or of property by fire, occur. Among the means by which life is terminable is suicide. Though the companies do not, if they can avoid it, pay policies on the lives of persons who thus cut short the term of their existence, the statisticians have nevertheless gathered numerous facts and figures on the subject of suicide, which we find discussed at much length and with much particularity in a late issue of the Insurance Chronicle.

The article before us deals with the suicides of four years in the United States only. In that period over six thousand cases of self destruction are reported. This is an alarming aggregate, but there is no reason to believe that the number is increasing in proportion to population.

A few facts from the sombre category may be of interest. The tables show that of the four seasons the summer is the most productive of suicides, and that the month of June is pre-eminent among the twelve as furnishing the largest number. Why this should be so it would be difficult to explain, but the fact is attested by the record of every year. The ages of the victims, too, furnish some surprising facts. They range from the boy of only five years to the old man of ninety-six. The very largest number at any given age is located at 35 years, when life should be at its best.

Sex has an important bearing upon the question. Taking the whole list it would appear that there is but the proportion of three women to ten men suicides. In the four years the list included but 471 maids as against 1,315 bachelors; but 598 wives, compared with 2,053 husbands, and but 128 widows against 283 widowers. It would appear from this that the cares, burdens and disappointments of life bear most heavily upon the sterner sex, whether married or unmarried.

Next to sex nationality has a remarkable place as a factor in producing or preventing suicide. Thus, for instance, the number of suicides per million of the different populations is given as follows:—

	Per million
French born	400
German	280
Scotch	180
English	83
Irish	43
African	3

Occupation seems to be an important element in the question whether a man will permit himself to live out his allotted time. Here are the proportions of self-murders among many different callings:—Farmers, one in thirty-eight thousand; actors, one in five thousand; bakers, one in five thousand; blacksmiths, one in twenty-five thousand; butchers, one in eight thousand; bookbinders, one in four thousand; brewers, one in eight thousand; commercial travellers, one in two thousand; carpenters, one in twenty-five thousand; cigar-makers, one in eight thousand; clergymen, one in nine thousand; journalists, one in two thousand; lawyers, one in four thousand; physicians, one in four thousand; printers, one in six thousand; painters, one in fourteen thousand; saloonkeepers, one in two thousand; shoemakers, one in two thousand.

But not only have nationality and occupation much to do as predisposing causes to suicide; the place of residence has much also. Thus in Europe there is a well defined centre on the border of France and Germany which is fatal in this respect, the ratio of suicide diminishing in every direction therefrom. In the States the centre of greatest inclination to suicide is in Indiana, one of the richest sections of the republic. Possibly the monotony of a level country, and doubtless the influences of malaria tend to produce the strange result.—St. John Telegraph.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites

Possesses the remedial power of these two valuable specifics in their fullest degree. Is prepared in a palatable form, easily taken by the stomach, and for delicate, sickly children, emaciation, consumption and all impoverished conditions of the blood is unqualifiedly by any other remedy.

Successful Surgical Operation.

A successful and delicate operation on the eye was recently performed at the County Hospital, Chicago, which will command the attention of men of science and the medical fraternity of the world. A fireman was brought to the institution to receive treatment for an eye which had been wounded by a splinter. The little piece of wood had entered the right eye and tore out the inner canthus, so that the patient always bore the appearance of looking at his nose with the injured eye. The disease was called internal strabismus. Dr. Smith, of the hospital staff, cut the contraction and dissected it out, leaving the space of the mucus membrane of the eye about the size of a nickel bar. He then took a piece of the mucus membrane from the eye of a rabbit and placed it where the dissection had occurred. The wound healed and the membrane from the eye of the rabbit grew to the muscle where it was placed. The man now has full control of his eye and perfect sight.

Furnish Pure Water.

Prof. Law, of Cornell University, caused some cows to drink for several days from a stagnant pool of water that existed in a swale, and then examined the milk and found it full of living organisms. Then the water from the pool was examined, and the same little living germs were found. Next the cows were examined, and they were found to be in a feverish condition, the result of their blood being charged with this living animalcule. Then some pure milk was taken and some of this pond water put with it, and these same germs multiplied within a few hours so as to take full possession of the milk. After this test no one can dispute that living organisms may be introduced into milk by the using of improper foods and drinks. It also shows that there is a close relation between good, pure water, and fine and good-keeping dairy products. From a sanitary standpoint, the lives and health of consumers are to a certain extent dependent upon the character of butter and milk. Radical cleanliness can only be tolerated in the dairy of 1886, and will be in the near future imperative.

Canadian Oat Shipments.

It is estimated that 500,000 bushels of oats have been shipped to Great Britain from Canada this year. The exports via the St. Lawrence River up to the 15th of May were 581,000 bushels, against 160,000 bushels for the corresponding period of last year. The Canadian forwarding companies have handled more grain to date than they did last year up to the middle of August. The fullest capacity of the ocean tonnage is running at Montreal, and Chicago grain has been refused repeatedly during the past week.

Horsford's Acid Phosphate.

IN CONSTIPATION.
Dr. J. N. Robinson, Medina, O., says: "In cases of indigestion, constipation of nervous prostration, its results are happy."

CURRENT NOTES.

Wild currant bushes are in bloom at Birthe, Man.

Mr. Matthew Arnold has written a long letter to the London "Times," in which he ably contends against granting a separate Parliament to Ireland.

The New York State legislature has passed a bill providing for the election of the Board of Aldermen of New York city on a general ticket, thus doing away with the present district representation.

The "baby monarch" of Spain can't escape the infantile stomach aches any more than the most democratic baby in the world, nor avoid the period when he will be "pleased with a rattle and tickled with a straw."

An exchange remarks that one interesting fact about the arrest of Stevens, the bicyclist, on the Afghan frontier, is the intimation that it has at last been found out where the frontier is. It is to be hoped Stevens will make a note of the spot in case of further disputes.

Two little boys, the eldest 15, robbed the safe of their employers, Caldwell & Hardy, 165 East One hundred and Twenty-fifth Street, New York. They unscrewed the lock, found the combination, made a wax impression of the inside lock and robbed the safe one day of $432.

A blushing young woman entered the clerk's office over in Potter County, Penn., the other day, and asked if a certain young man had taken out a license to marry a certain young woman. She looked much relieved when the clerk said "No." "Well, don't give him one," she said. "I've got the first claim on him."

The total value of the imports into the Dominion during April, exclusive of British Columbia, was $6,704,832, on which the Customs duties amounted to $1,207,483. The total value of the exports for the same month was $3,648,042. Both exports and imports, with the exception of a few items, show an increase over those of April, 1885.

Journalism in China has its perils. One writer was recently sentenced to be quartered, because in one of his scientific works he enumerated the names of several of the departed Chinese emperors, which is strictly against Chinese court etiquette. His punishment was mitigated to decapitation, and his children will be executed next autumn.

The daughter of a Belleville, Ont., boarding house keeper bought a pair of $3 shoes a few days ago, and invited one of the firm to call at the house for payment. He did so, and was given a chair which immediately collapsed beneath his weight. The lady assessed the value of the chair at $2, and asked to make it an offset against the boots.
