Thanksgiving

Following the grand tradition of an earlier age, Monday has been set apart by Parliament as a day of national thanksgiving. It is, perhaps, not inappropriate to note that such an occasion had a great deal more significance and solemnity for our forefathers than it has for us.

EDITORIAL NOTES

American and Soviet jet fighter planes in the Behring Sea, off Alaska, sometimes get as close as one inch apart on the radar screen, equivalent to about 25 air miles.

The Ideal Class-Room

For something like fifteen years a group of school engineers has been working on plans for an "ideal" classroom; and, at long last, they have completed their work—at least, they say they have.

The Potato Problem

Despite both a good crop and excellent weather for digging it, there is a shadow on New Brunswick's potato fields this fall.

The Age Old Story

God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. Therefore will not we fear, though the earth be removed, and though the mountains be carried into the midst of the sea.

in school illumination. Under the new arrangement there is to be no heat from the sun on hot days, and no glare; nothing but daylight and plenty of it.

One enthusiastic advocate of the new way is quoted as saying "it will create a home-like atmosphere." He adds that this has been "a long sought and elusive objective."

Fire Prevention Week

As will be noted elsewhere in today's issue, Fire Prevention Week starts October 9. Its purpose is well described by Fire Marshall T. A. Campbell, who cites convincing figures to show the importance of precautionary measures at all times.

During the week the City Firemen will make a careful inspection of stores, warehouses and places of assembly, and the co-operation of the public is solicited. This is the least we can do. Emphasis is also placed on individual responsibility in making a general cleanup in dwellings and other premises, to eliminate fire causes in every way possible.

Marine Nursery Grounds

Total mud flats, often reclaimed for building purposes or used as dumping sites, are proving to be among America's most valuable marine nursery grounds.

Picking Peron's Piggy Bank

According to some reports, the Argentine police have discovered cash and valuables totalling approximately 30,000,000 in the private apartments of the former president.

NOTES BY THE WAY

Wisely we think, the Board of Governors of the University of Western Ontario, declined to give a contract to two who applied for private rights to gather dew-worms inhabiting the campus. The applicants estimated that at a rate of half a dollar a thousand they could reap a harvest of $2,500 a year.

NOTES BY THE WAY

War they might now have been approaching the top rather than retiring from it. Normally they might have been waste of trained minds in keeping them down for 10 years. Men as able as Admiral Mainguy, General Simonds and Air Marshal Curtis are more likely to be inadequately used if they are kept in middle ranks during their fifties and given the highest responsibility only as they approach 65. They have been fortunate — and so has Canada — in serving as Chiefs of Staff at an early age. They retire with a great deal still to give — and this ability will find worthy outlets. — Kingston Whig-Standard

The American Automobile Association urges car manufacturers to ease up on speed and horsepower and to put more emphasis on safety. The automotive industry, in the competitive race for more horsepower and speed, has outstripped the country's ability to provide safer highways. Only recently, the Washington state highway director made a plea to reduce the speed limit from 60 to 50 miles per hour. And the B. C. government has wisely reserved here to 60. We are not suggesting a return to the time-worn phrase at the turn of the century—"get a horse." But we join the AAA in suggesting a little less horsepower. — Vancouver Herald.
