Happenings of The Week

Paris! There is magic in the very name. Now from the Capital City of France, first to Quebec the cradle of French Culture in Canada come visiting our land two more international visitors. From the Mende-France and Madame Mende-France are captivated everyone with the charm for which the people of "La Belle France" are traditionally famed. Madame Mende-France as well as having such charm has great beauty. She is Egyptian born. Despite the trip and a heavy schedule, friends and Madame Mende-France seem to be enjoying every moment of their visit.

The highlight of the week was the beautifully arranged supper at Trinity Church on Thursday evening. Numerous friends from all organizations gathered with the Trinity people on this happy occasion at this church, which is one of the landmarks of our Province and one of the most impressive Churches in Canada.

Mrs. A. W. Matheson and Mrs. F. C. Hutchinson entertained at Luncheon on Monday at the Charlottetown Hotel in honour of Mrs. Newman McLeellan.

Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Jones are returning the first of the week from Toronto where they have been attending the Royal Winter Fair.

Senator and Mrs. J. P. MacIntyre and Senator and Mrs. G. H. Harbour arrived home Monday from Ottawa, where they had been attending social functions in connection with the Queen Mother's visit.

Mrs. Mark MacGugan was among the hostesses entertaining at Bridge this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Likely have as their guest this week Mr. Likely's mother, Mrs. E. J. Likely of Saint John, New Brunswick.

Mrs. G. C. Webster, Miss Margaret Webster, Mrs. G. G. Granger and Mrs. T. H. Jebb are in Charlottetown for the unveiling of the Memorial Window in Zion Church Sunday morning to the memory of the late Rev. G. Carlisle Webster. While in the city Mrs. Webster and Miss Margaret Webster are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Parent at the Dominion Experimental Station and Mrs. Granger and Mrs. Jebb, sisters of the late Mr. Webster, are the guests of Mrs. William MacMillan at the Lennox.

Longfellow has used the expression "Hospitality sitting with Gladness." Truly this can be said of the welcome that is being extended to Mrs. G. C. Webster, Miss Margaret Webster, Mrs. G. G. Granger and Mrs. T. H. Jebb. Among those entertaining for these visitors have been Mr. and Mrs. Murdoch Nicholson at the Charlottetown Hotel, on Tuesday noon. Miss Irma Boswell had a luncheon Wednesday noon at the Hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tunney had a dinner at their home Wednesday and later that evening Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Cudmore had friends to their home. Mr. and Mrs. Preston McLaine entertained Thursday evening at their residence. Mrs. William MacMillan had a luncheon Friday at the Lennox.

Mrs. Robert Parent and Mrs. Arthur Roper entertained at a reception on Friday afternoon in honour of Mrs. G. C. Webster, Miss Margaret Webster, Mrs. G. G. Granger and Mrs. T. H. Jebb at Mrs. Parent's residence "Ravenwood." This fine old period house, in its beautiful setting, lends itself beautifully to such an occasion. In the living-room where a cheerful wood fire was burning the color scheme was yellow and white chrysanthemums with green candles, against the modern decorated interior of this old residence. In the dining-room the festive spirit was again enhanced by the most attractive and well appointed table. The cloth used on this occasion was a large fine hand-crocheted piece of work made by one of the hostesses, Mrs. Robert Parent. The same color motif was used in the dining-room as in the living-room. Of the most interesting were the antique wrought-iron candelabra with green candles used on the buffet. Pouring tea were Mrs. Harold Brown, wife of the Reverend Mr. Harold Brown, and Mrs. J. G. Dennis, President of the Women's Auxiliary. The assistants were: Mrs. B. Eric MacDonald, Mrs. Elmer Sutherland, Mrs. Reginald MacNutt, Mrs. Garnet Bull, Miss Irma Boswell, Mrs. Warren Burns, Mrs. J. H. Hill and Mrs. Preston McLaine. Ushering the guests was Mrs. W. G. Bruce and Miss Carol Anne Farquharson welcomed them charmingly at the door.

Mrs. H. L. Palmer entertained Monday at a small tea at her residence in honour of Mrs. Bryenton and Mrs. Pomeroy.

Mrs. T. Roy Cudmore and Mrs. A. M. Howatt entertained this week at a charmingly arranged series of Bridges at Mrs. Cudmore's residence.

Mrs. Harry Miller entertained at Bridge on Friday at her residence.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. LaPage entertained Sunday evening at their residence, North River Road, in honour of Mr. and Mrs. Newman McLeellan.

Teen-Age Seamstresses Like Simple Patterns

By ELEANOR ROSS

The limited clothing allowance of a teen doesn't permit the pretty extras that are so important to a young girl. To supplement the basic and often dull necessities such as a winter coat, a good suit, a classic dress, girls everywhere are taking to the sewing machine to turn out gay and wonderfully imaginative outfits.

Teens are always on the lookout for items that are easy to sew. For youngsters lack patience for complicated, time-consuming projects. Easiest of course, is a simple gathered skirt. Many girls make several in gay colors or bold plaids, usually of strong yet inexpensive fabrics such as denim or corduroy. A pattern is not necessary for this skirt, since it requires only stitching together three 36-inch widths of fabric, gathering to fit the waist, hemming and putting on a waistband. It's an encouraging project for a beginner seamstress, too, for the results are quick, easy and satisfying.

Most popular silhouette of the season is the fitted jumper, and home seamstresses of all ages are finding it a quick and easy sewing task, even though it does require a pattern and takes a little longer than the skirt job. However, the long, smooth seams, the elimination of sleeve problems, and the easy fitting, make a jumper an ideal teen project. The extra effort will pay off in endless versatility.

With a sweater or blouse it goes to school, and it can be transformed into a grown-up sleeveless dress for special evenings. With jumpers dominating the fashion picture, no teen will want to be without one.

Teen-agers recognize the importance of felt for skirts and jumpers. The 72-inch width makes it easy to sew, and it needs no hemming. Bright felt skirts are decorated with every imaginable theme, and girls often try to outdo each other in original and striking motifs.

Smart teens know, too, that a

LET'S EAT Nutmeats in Menus

By IDA BAILEY ALLEN

This time of year is the season for the new crop of nuts. They can do much to glamorize simple dishes.

Toast nutmeats, chop and stew over winter squash, or string beans, onions or parsnips, and people can't get enough. No problem, then, to get the family to eat vegetables; stir into plain muffin batter; stew atop the batter for a quick 1-egg cake.

All this, at very little cost, too, for a few nutmeats go a long way. Right now, there's a big variety of tree nuts from which to choose; walnuts of all kinds, hickory nuts, butternuts, almonds, almonds, brazil nuts, pecans, pine nuts, pistachios, cashews and others.

"What is their nutritive value, Madame?" asked the Chef.

"In general, tree nuts contain 10 to 20 per cent protein, and up to 73 per cent fat, with the balance carbohydrate," I told him. They are high in phosphorus, a good source of calcium and iron, rich in thiamin and niacin, and a fair source of riboflavin.

"Is it true that nuts are a real meat substitute, Madame?"

"Only in part. Their protein is termed 'secondary.' Therefore, to make the protein value complete, some form of animal protein must be provided, such as eggs, cheese, milk, fish or meat, either in the dish containing nuts or elsewhere in the menu."

ELLEN'S DIARY

by an Island Farmer's Wife

At the moment, the glow of tranquility on my morning face indicates that the anxiety that has been at the bottom of my mind for a long time is passing away. I am feeling better than I have for some time. I am feeling better than I have for some time. I am feeling better than I have for some time.

And we remember that in bygone quiet years that we knew, the graying of the twilight or at the dawn, the sun moon fitting herself over a hilltop served to bring James home from the day's plowing. How these dusks come back to us, when from a veranda or yard we listened in the hush of the hour for a sound of his coming! Good it was to catch the beat of hoofs, the clank of harness in the lane which brought man and horses from the fields to the yard.

Pleasant too it was to see him in a gesture as familiar to him as a handshake, loose when the driving and coupling reins from the bridge while the animals fidgeted, anxious to be off to quench thirst at the trough by the pump. How thirstily—and gratefully it appeared, they drank before turning away to hurry off to the stable.

And then, good it was to follow to the stable, perhaps with a pair of lads such as these we now best know, who had seen to it that hay was already in the mangers and stalls clean and bedded, to attend the unharnessing there—to help hang to the old wooden pegs on a wall, the respective fittings of harness, last of all the bridle. And closing the stable-door turn steps then toward the lamp, which spread a welcome from the small parlour where the house and called us in as family to supper and the warmth and delight of the hearth-fires of Home.

To the question: "What is Home?" a great and wise woman of the long ago replied: "A roof to keep out the rain? Four walls to keep out the wind? Floors to keep out the cold? Yes, but Home is more than that. It is the laugh of a baby, the song of a mother, the strength of a father, the light of happy eyes, kindness, loyalty, comradeship. Home is the first school, and first church for the young ones, where they learn what is right, what is good, and what is kind; where they go for comfort when they are hurt or sick; where joy is shared and sorrow eased; where fathers and mothers are respected and loved. Where children are wanted; where the simplest food is good enough for guests because it is earned, where money is not so important as loving kindness, where even the teakettle sings for happiness. That is Home. God bless it!"

If solid happiness, we prize, Within our breast the jewel lies. And they are fools who roam; The world hath nothing to bestow. From our own selves our bliss must flow. And all I need dear, our Home." Until Monday ——— Diary

Household Hint

When you buy children's clothes, look for tags that guarantee safe washability. There's no need to buy clothes that are difficult and expensive to keep clean. Many winter fabrics now being made may be washed in the machine or by hand as easily as summer cottons.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
H. J.: I have a small sore, like a pimple, on the back of my scalp. What causes this, and what can be done for it?
Answer: It is likely that the swelling is due to some type of infection. However, it might be due to a small tumor or a cyst.

Bridal Party at Vernon

Pictured above at the wedding reception are the members of the Drake-Martin bridal party. From left to right are: Mr. Everett MacPhee, usher; Mrs. Perley Drake, bridesmaid; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Drake, groom and bride; Mr. Perley Drake, groomsmen; Mr. Lorne Drake, usher; back row: Mr. Douglas Martin.

Fall flowers in many beautiful shades formed the background for an afternoon wedding in the Orwell Head United Church at 4 o'clock on October 27, 1934, when the Rev. A. C. Fraser united in marriage Mary Noreen, youngest daughter of Mrs. Hugh Martin and the late Mr. Martin of Uigs, P. E. I., and Donald Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Drake Vernon.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Douglas Martin, Toronto, wore a gown of midnight blue chiffon velvet, fashioned in ballerina-length, with fitted bodice, large pointed sleeves, standing collar and sweetheart neckline. Her head-dress was of matching velvet with forehead veil trimmed with sequins. She wore a rhinestone necklace and carried a bouquet of Queen Elizabeth roses.

The bride was attended by her sister Joyce, Mrs. Perley Drake, whose dress of wine chiffon velvet was fashioned on similar lines. She carried a nosegay of pink roses.

Mrs. Perley Drake was groomsmen for her brother. The guests were ushered into the church by Mr. Lorne Drake the groom's brother, and Mr. Everett MacPhee, cousin of the bride.

Mr. Lloyd Martin sang "I'll walk beside you," accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Stanton Jenkins, sister of the groom, who also provided the wedding music.

Mrs. Martin chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of navy blue crepe with navy hat and shoes, which Mrs. Drake was dressed in Grey taffeta with matching accessories.

Following the marriage a reception was held at the home of Mrs. Gault Murray, Vernon. The guests were received by Mrs. Sam Martin.

The bridal table was decorated with candelabra and cut flowers, and centred with two three-tier wedding cakes.

A delicious buffet supper was served to 90 guests. Assisting in serving were Mrs. Everett MacDougall, Mrs. Lloyd Martin and Mrs. Clifford Lea. Rev. Fraser, proposed the toast to the bride which was responded to by the groom.

Following the reception the young couple left for a honeymoon trip through the Maritimes. For her going away costume, the bride chose a suit of grey gabardine with navy and pink accessories and matching top coat.

Previous to her marriage the bride was given two miscellaneous showers, one in Quincy, Mass., at the home of Mrs. W. W. Inman.

The bride's mother chose a dress of navy crepe and lace, charcoal colored hat, fur neck piece and a corsage of pink roses.

A reception was held at the Orient Hotel for over 60 guests. The three-tier wedding cake which centred the bride's table was flanked on either side by tall pink tapers in crystal holders, and was cut in the traditional manner by the bride and groom. After congratulations and best wishes had been extended to the newlyweds, they left amid showers of confetti on a honeymoon trip to points of interest in New Brunswick and the State of Maine.

For going away the bride wore a tailored suit of Glacier Blue with American Beauty veLOUR hat, brown lapin jacket. Her corsage was of American Beauty roses. Upon their return they will reside at Malbecque, where the groom is engaged in a general merchandise business.
