B, P Club Has Committee To Study Minimum Wage Law

The regular monthly meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club was held at the Charlottetown Hotel on November 12, 1962. The President, Madelyn Clarkin presided and the Secretary, Vera Darrach read the minutes of the last meeting which were approved.

A letter was read from Miss Elsie Gregory MacGill, National President, about National night. The Corresponding Secretary, Ethel Sutherland, read several letters.

Mrs. Marjorie Champion, Provincial President, plans to visit the Charlottetown Club in December.

The following Committee to study Minimum Wage Law as follows:

Effects women was appointed: Mrs. Ireta Sutherland, Chairman; Miss Ethel Sutherland, Mrs. Isabel MacDonald, Mrs. Margaret Holmes, Mrs. Arthur Bruce.

The Committee, Mrs. Ethel Connolly, Chairman, Ethel Taylor, Bessie Beer, Ann W. I. s. Helen Crosby and Patricia Williams arranged the following programme.

Mrs. Patricia Williams read a paper on Canadian Federation. Mrs. Florence Simmons played two Selections and was told her work was very much appreciated by all the members as she is the pianist at the meetings.

A former member of the club, Miss Rosa Bell was introduced by Miss Ethel Taylor. She is the immediate Past-President of the Prince Edward Island Pharmaceutical Society and a member of the Council for the last six years and she is thought to be the first woman in Canada to hold the office of President in any such Association.

She told about the importance of drugs and the careful research that goes into their preparation. The motion picture which followed clearly illustrated the points brought out by the speaker and showed the steps followed before different drugs are ready for general distribution.

She was thanked by Miss Bessie Beer for her address.

St. Joseph's Has Centennial Plans

At a recent meeting of St. Joseph's Alumnae centennial committee plans and arrangements were discussed for the celebration of the 100th anniversary to place in Charlottetown on Saturday, June 23, 1963.

Several committees were formed and are already working on the various projects. A number of the Alumnae met in June. The Sisters of the Congregation of Notre Dame began teaching at St. Joseph's in 1853. Earlier this year the name "St. Joseph's Sodality" was changed to St. Joseph's Alumnae with the approval of the chaplain, the Mother Superior and the members.

An invitation and letter will be sent to all former pupils of the convent, one of the publicity conveners for the centennial said. Former students who may not be on the list due to a change of name or address are asked to contact Sister St. Clair at the convent if they wish to attend.

Further news on the progress of the centennial plans will be given from time to time.

MR. AND MRS. WALTER HOUSTON Marriage Vows are Pledged in Pretty Autumn Ceremony

A wedding of local interest took place at the Charlottetown Bible Chapel, when Mr. James A. Stahl united in marriage Marie Gertrude, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Moore of Charlottetown, and John Walter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Houston, North Rustic.

Mrs. William Warren was organist, accompanied Mr. Ronald Harris as he sang "The Voice That Breathed Our Eden" before the ceremony and "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

Attractive arrangements of red and white gladioli formed a lovely setting for the ceremony and the pews were marked with red snapdragons on white satin bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked lovely in a floor length gown of chantilly lace over imported satin featuring a fitted bodice, lily-point sleeves, a scooped neckline and advanced with pearls. Her shoulder length veil of tulle illusion was worn with tulle of pearls and she carried a cascade of red roses.

Miss Adelaide Moore was her sister's maid of honor and wore a street length dress of red pearly-sole with headpiece of matching satin and carried a nosegay of red and white mums.

Dale Moore, brother of the bride, performed the duties of best man and the ushers were John Phillips and Theodore Sabino.

The bride's grandmother was

ELLEN'S DIARY

Scotch Mist Falls As the Day Breaks Over The Hill

James beside us in the old bed, in the room above the hill, raised himself on the elbow this morning, and surveyed the new day then breaking over the hills.

He sighed and settled back on his pillow — "A sweet time of rest this is. The night's refreshing sleep is behind, and one may now enjoy those carefree moments, which do their part to bolster spirits, before one rises to shoulder presently the responsibilities of the day."

There was a companionable silence.

"Then 'this won't do, Ellen" he offered throwing back the covers and getting his feet to the floor, he came to a window.

"It's misting now — a Scotch mist, no matter. Rain or shine we must clean those stove pipes and the chimney — now there is no fire in the stove."

"But" we suggested "let's wait to hear the weather report. We may get a fine morning for it tomorrow."

"And risk the chance of a fire from sooty pipes and chimneys, Ellen in the meantime. No more of the time — Come, he said stopping at the door on his way to the stairs — "I'm smelly" he smiled "there'll be a trail of soot from the chimney, to the orchard!"

So, as he reminded us "Not with the same step as that which takes you excruciating Ellen" and yet at heart grateful for such responsibilities in the life of the home — "Come, he said stopping at the door on his way to the stairs — "I'm smelly" he smiled "there'll be a trail of soot from the chimney, to the orchard!"
