Shipping Accident Blamed For Illness Of Two Boys

TORONTO (CP)—The near-fatal illness of two Vancouver youngsters sparked an international investigation by public health sleuths that eventually indicated an accident at sea and prompted destruction of cargo in widely-separated communities.

A report on two cases of parathion (nerve gas) poisoning in the current issue of the Canadian Medical Association Journal reads like a detective drama in the best Conan Doyle tradition, with doctor, public health authorities, laboratory technicians and diplomats all playing Sherlock Holmesian roles.

Authorities in Belgium, California, Ottawa, Edmonton, Vancouver and Burnaby, B.C., became involved after two boys, one five years old, the other 12, were admitted to Lions Gate Hospital in North Vancouver nine days apart a year ago.

R. F., the five-year-old, was admitted the morning of March 29, 1964, with breathing difficulty, in semi-coma after a few days of illness and vision trouble. He soon lapsed into coma, framed at the mouth and required artificial respiration to breathe.

British Industry Is Urged To Cut Foreign Investment

By HAROLD MORRISON
LONDON (CP)—The government has called on British industry to shelve or eliminate foreign investment projects which produce a quick and substantial profit and to bring home all funds not immediately required overseas.

Seeking to plug the drain on Britain's diminishing gold and dollar reserves, Economics Minister George Brown has written some 300 leading companies urging them to push exports, reduce reliance on imports and curb the outward flow of capital to the full extent that they are able.

In a copy of the letters, made public Monday, Brown said the companies could also make their contribution to Britain's balance-of-payments struggle by careful scrutinizing of overseas investment projects and by reducing, postponing or eliminating those which will not yield quick and substantial returns to the balance of payments.

CALLS FOR EARNINGS
He urged the companies also to remit to Britain "more of your earnings from any overseas subsidiaries or branches and to ensure that all funds that are not immediately required abroad are brought back to this country even on a temporary basis."

"This applies not only to earnings generally but also to funds in temporary surplus."

The bidding:
West North East South
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ 3 ♠
Pass 4 ♠

Opening lead—queen of clubs: "Defend me from my friends; I can defend myself from my enemies." So cried a famous French general to Louis XIV long before bridge was even invented. After trying unsuccessfully to defeat four hearts, East knew exactly how the general felt.

West led the queen of clubs and South could see that he was practically certain to make the contract unless he lost both the diamond and heart finesses. When he won the club and took the diamond finesse, he lost the ten to the king.

East now went into a huddle in an effort to pinpoint South's hand and try to find the best line of defense. He knew from the opening lead that South had the A-K of clubs, and he knew from the bidding that South had at least six hearts for his overcall.

There seemed to be no hope of defeating the contract unless South had a spade loser and West had a trump trick. Accordingly, East led the king of spades, planning to shift next to a club and hoping thus to obtain a trick in each suit.

The spade, however, South was vital; otherwise, South would have proved disastrous, since there was a danger that West, not knowing the exact situation, would continue with a spade.

East's well-conceived defense would have proved successful and South would have gone down one if West, alas, had not seen fit to interfere with it.

The French General was right—East's defense would have succeeded in overcoming his enemy, South, but he could not cope with his friend, West.

West was so delighted to see his spades solidified when East led the king that he overtook it with the ace and continued with the queen. South ruffed, played the ace and another heart, and later discarded two club losers on the diamonds to make the contract.

homes in the neighborhood of the sick boys, 40 in a Vancouver Island rest home and about 140 were found to have been contaminated to two Vancouver retail stores. Most were recovered and burned.

Some of the undamaged sheets in the shipment were traced to another store and tested to prove they were uncontaminated.

Working through shipping agents and federal government authorities, it was determined that a German freighter that carried the sheets also had loaded 72 drums of parathion at Antwerp and delivered the insecticide at a California port on the way to Vancouver. Apparently one or more of the 55-gallon drums had leaked parathion into the hold in transit.

Checking further, public health officials found that a quantity of silk sent to Edmonton and 165 pairs of baby blankets consigned to Burnaby had also been in the hold. Alberta health authorities were warned. Some of the baby blankets were found to be contaminated and all were recovered and destroyed.

Arrangements were made to clean out the ship's hold and for tracing any other material shipped in that hold.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
