Campus Comment

What happened to the hill in front of the library?

Mary Beth Nickerson, 1st year Science: "They made meatballs out of it for the cafeteria."

Erin Wall, 3rd year History: "They're going to make a wall out of it to divide the residences."

Brian MacDonald, 2nd year Science: "It was eradicated during a test firing of Dreyfuss's Doomsday Machine."

Todd Smith, 4th year Science: "It was an ant hill, but the ants decided to move it to a warmer climate."

Paul Keough, 2nd year: "It was a protest of the fifth dentist -- four out of five dentists recommend Colgate, so the fifth dentist put the dirt in the other dentists' bathrooms. He had shares in Crest and was perturbed because he was losing money. The fact that it was red dirt really p---ed the other dentists off."

Pierre Martin, 2nd year Science: "It was really windy and the wind blew it away."
