

YMCA Campaign Nears Objective

Mr. B.E. Rogers, who is Chairman with James O. MacLean of the Charlottetown Y.M.C.A.'s campaign for funds, stated yesterday that the response to date has been "wonderful."

Mr. Rogers said that due to weather conditions, many canvassers, particularly those with house-to-house assignments—had been delayed in their work and so are continuing this week.

"We have heard of many people who are anxious to contribute but have not been called upon," he said, and we are trying to see to it that no one is overlooked because every cent is needed and we want all to share the responsibility. Given a few more days and reasonable weather we are confident that we shall reach our objective.

"The fine reception and response our canvassers are receiving is evidence of the fact that our citizens value the work of the 'Y' among our young people and wish to see it not only continued but fully developed."

Parishioners Honor Their Pastor At Saint Andrew's

On Thursday, February 14, Reverend Anthony A. Francis, Pastor of Saint Andrew's Parish, Eastern Passage, Nova Scotia, and a native of Charlottetown, celebrated the Twenty-Fifth Anniversary of his ordination to the Priesthood. At ten o'clock Father Francis offered a Solemn High Mass of Thanksgiving in his Parish Church. Assisting Father were Reverend Henry J. Neary as Deacon, and Reverend James Hayes as Sub-deacon. Reverend R.P. Ryan was Master of Ceremonies.

In the congregation were Father Francis' sister, Miss Margaret Francis, his brother Joseph, and Mrs. Joseph Francis, also a nephew, Emmett Francis. The children of the parish and many adults united in offering the Mass of Thanksgiving. The parish choir under the direction of Mrs. William J. Walsh sang the Mass "Salve Regina."

The sermon was preached by Reverend William V. McCarthy, Pastor of Saint Joseph's Parish, Halifax, a close associate of Father Francis during the years as a priest. Father McCarthy chose as his text the words: "My soul doth magnify the Lord. And my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Saviour. Because he that is mighty hath done great things to me: and holy is His name."

In a beautiful and sincere manner Father McCarthy unfolded the story of the sublime dignity of the priesthood to which Father Francis has been called by God and of his acceptance and use of the grace God had given him. In words which found an echo and assent in the hearts of all who knew Reverend Anthony A. Francis, he spoke of his devotion to his priestly work, and of that trait which must endear Father to Christ, since it is His, too, the love of little children.

At half-past twelve the priests honored Father Francis at a banquet sponsored by a group of la-

Guided Missiles For Canadian Army Planned

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Recent developments at home and abroad have enhanced the possibilities that the Canadian Army will acquire guided missiles before long.

The missiles, without atomic warheads, likely will go first to the Canadian Infantry Brigade Group in West Germany. The warheads probably would be supplied to the Canadians in event of emergency—a Russian ground attack on western Europe.

All western armies now are planning to substitute more firepower for a good part of their manpower. The British are reported to be preparing to cut their 80,000-man army in Germany to 50,000 men while maintaining four divisions.

MORE MOBILITY

In current Canadian Army plans for more mobility and flexibility, the 6,000-man brigade in Europe has almost reached the status of a division, which normally numbers some 18,000 men.

Until recently, defence planners did not intend that an army formation as small as a brigade would be equipped with weapons capable of firing nuclear shots. But these plans are changing as the firepower of formations is increased. Informants say these recent developments portend acquisition of guided missiles with atomic capability by the Canadian Army:

1. Arnold Heeny, Canadian ambassador to Washington, now is touring the White Sands proving grounds in New Mexico.
2. Thirty-five Canadian Army officers, including three generals and five brigadiers, have just completed a tour of Fort Bliss, Tex., to acquire themselves with United States guided missile equipment and witness missile firings. One of the generals was Quarter-master-General Maj. Gen. Geoffrey Walsh who buys the army's equipment.
3. Maj.-Gen. John Rockingham, commander of the 1st Canadian Infantry Division, has recently conducted staff exercises in which battlefield operations were planned around atomic weapons.

4. Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme Allied commander, said last week in Rome that "action is under way" to provide NATO forces with new types of weapons hitherto reserved for U.S. troops.

5. The U.S. is said to be stockpiling atomic warheads in France and selected Allied forces in NATO are being trained in use of equipment capable of carrying atomic warheads. Small groups of Canadian soldiers began training at Fort Bliss as long as two years ago.

6. The British Army of the Rhine is understood to be preparing to adopt U.S. guided missiles. The Canadian brigade functions as part of this army though it can operate independently.

As far as can be learned here, there is no immediate intention of bringing any army guided missiles into Canada.
