

Pitch tent anywhere, tourists invitation

CAMPGROUNDS ARE OPERATED BOTH BY GOVERNMENT AND NATIONAL PARK

Camgrounds overlooking the broad, sandy beaches of the Gulf of Saint Lawrence are an extra premium Prince Edward Island has to offer those seeking a camp style holiday. Spacious camp areas with excellent facilities in the National Park, right at the beachside can accommodate hundreds of tent families. Special sections of the Park have been developed exclusively for campers. Tests, nestled among the trees, are only a few steps from pink, sandy beaches which stretch for miles on either side. Prince Edward Island provides camp life unequalled in eastern Canada. You can pitch a tent almost anywhere with perfect ease. In addition to the camgrounds and picnic areas set aside in the National Park, the camper has his choice of a growing list of provincial camgrounds which have been carefully chosen for their surroundings and adaptability to tent life. Most of the campsites provide electricity, all include adequate supplies of drinking water, some have beach houses, and all have tables or kitchen shelters and facilities for cooking. Well supervised camgrounds are located in various sections of the province. Many of the picnic sites are large enough to accommodate campers for short stays. Good facilities are available for trailers in both the National Park and provincial campsites. Full hook-ups are available in trailer parks in the National Park. Normal weather conditions in Prince Edward Island are conducive in summer months to tent life. Hot sunny days and cool, refreshing evenings add to the enjoyment of a vacation spent close to nature. You can set up a tent under the trees on lawlille grass in the various parks and camgrounds and enjoy good swimming right at your doorstep.
