

Excitement at Murray Bay.

A SEA SERPENT IN THE ST. LAWRENCE—THE MONSTER ONE HUNDRED FEET LONG.

The residents of Murray Bay, were thrown into a state of more than usual excitement on the 23d inst., by the news that a horrible sea monster had made its appearance just outside the Bay. The shore above the wharf was soon crowded with the curious, each hotel and cottage contributing its quota. The facts, as now ascertained, are as follows:—Dr. Dawson, of Toronto, C. W. McKnight and another, guests at the Duberger Hotel, were crossing from Kamouraska in a small schooner, the Alouette, of Quebec, chartered by them, and owned by Mr. Warren. About mid-channel, Dr. Dawson, who was on deck and standing beside the helm, noticed a dark line in the water directly ahead. It had, he said, the appearance of a long line of seaweed. Upon a nearer approach it was seen by all three gentlemen and the boatmen then on deck, and discovered to be an enormous sea snake, lying on the water, moving up and down with the swell of the waves. The body had a reddish tinge, and the head was exactly that of a snake. The lowest estimate of its length is given by Dr. Dawson as 100 feet, with a thickness of two men's bodies. The schooner was put about, a nearer acquaintance not being desirable. At the moment of putting about, the monster, aroused probably by the noise of the flapping of the sails, reared its head into the air. Large black strokes were then seen upon the head and neck, while the mouth opened, and a sharp hissing sound, as of escaping steam, followed. The elevation was about 15 feet, the head turned toward the boat. The monster then plunged, and the body disappeared under the water with great rapidity. The three gentlemen above mentioned, have made a declaration under oath to the above effect, before George du Berger, Esq., the Prothonotary of this district. The French boatman has not yet done so, but his story agrees substantially with that of the others.

One Road to Ruin.

The New York police inspector was asked "Why people steal," and he responded:—"Some because they cannot help it, others because they find the chance. Most because bad company drive them to it. There are families in which crime runs like insanity. I know of five brothers born and bred in New York who are now in prison for theft. Such people, you may fairly assume, are born to steal. Bank cashiers and collectors are tempted by their opportunities. Drink helps to drown the voice of conscience and the gambling table finishes the job. The man turns thief. According to his ability he ranks in that as in all other trades. Some steal great sums, others small; very few keep anything. A common fate awaits them all. All thieves gambles and waste the money they steal. Plenty of them never 'work,' unless they are two-thirds drunk; along with almost every report of burglary comes the story of whisky bottles left behind—evidence that the thieves required stimulants to give them courage. When their money is drunk up or gambled away they have no alternative but to steal. They rarely attempt it till driven. The tools and money are furnished by a class of men who, without participating in the actual crime, find the funds and get a percentage if the 'trick' is successful. What the thief himself gets, be it much or little, goes always the same way. "Do none get rich and retire from business?" "Very few. Most of them die in misery, or paupers, or in their boots; many at the hands of their comrades. Fear and guilt are the passions that sway them. There is no such thing as honor among thieves. I could easily count on my fingers those who have amassed wealth, and to how many of them has it been of use?" Adam Worth, a noted bank sneak, is one of them, and he is a fair specimen. He is an American and a very skilful mechanic. He devised several improvements in burglars' tools that proved very useful. His last job was to rob a Boston bank. With the instinct of an Israelite he saved what he got. Now he lives in luxury in London, where his house is the resort of all great American thieves who go abroad. He drives around in his dog-cart every day, and has all he wants. Yet he would give all his wealth if he could come back to America. But he can't, and he knows it. He is wanted here. Oh, yes; a few of them have money, but the great mass are poorer than Job's turkey."

The Great French Remedy, Dr. LeDuc's Periodical Pills.

For the cure of Leucorrhoea or White's Effluvia or painful Menstruation, Green Stitches, Falling of the Womb, Catarrh of the Uterus or Vagina, Hysteria, Pain in the Back, or Piles, or for the purpose of invigorating and giving tone to the Generative Organs, two pills should be taken twice daily, or in very obstinate conditions, one pill three times a day. To effect cures in chronic cases it will be necessary to continue the use of the remedy for some months. A reasonable trial will create sufficient confidence in the remedy to insure its being taken until a permanent cure is effected.
