THE ADVANCE TO TO KHARTOUM

Has now Begun in Earnest.

FRIENDLY NATIVES EXPRESS THEIR DELIGHT.

The Khalifa is Expected to Make a Determined Stand.

[SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER.]

WADY HAMED, Aug. 27.—The Anglo-Egyptian forces began their advance yesterday, moving in five parallel columns at deploying distance.

They were led by the Jaulin Guides and by bands of pipers who were playing. It was an imposing spectacle and friendly natives on the opposite bank of the Nile indulged in delighted war dances. The Dervish scouts are active, and it is rumored that there is a Dervish force on the right bank of the river. It is also reported that the Khalifa is preparing to make a stand at Kerreris seven miles north of Oudurma, and will defend Matid's tomb to the last.

A Reported Outrage.

OTTAWA, Aug. 26.—A high-handed action on the part of the United States Customs Officer Avery at Marshland, on St. Claire river, is reported. Thomas Meagher of Port Lambton, Ont., crossed to the American side in a steam launch, which the United States officer desired to search. Meagher, however, having nothing dutiable on board, instead of submitting to the search returned at once to the Canadian side. Thither Avery followed, arrested him on Canadian soil, took him prisoner to the American side, had him handcuffed, marched through the public streets and chained to a bed post for twenty-four hours. Should the report prove to be correct, Meagher's release will be promptly demanded, as well as a suitable reparation for the indignity offered to a Canadian citizen.

MOBILIZING THE WARSHIPS.

Strained Relations Between England and China

SIR CLAUDE McDONALD WARNS THE TSUNG-LI-YAMEN.

That Failure to Observe Great Britain's Wishes Will be Serious.

[SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER.]

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The Pekin correspondent of the Daily Mail, says that the situation has suddenly become acute.

Relations between the Tsing-Li-Yamen and Sir Claude McDonald, the British Ambassador, are strained to the point of rupture.

Sir Claude McDonald has intimated any failure by China to observe Great Britain's wishes will be accepted as a casus belli.

In support of Mr. Claude McDonald, the fleet has been concentrated at Wei-Hai-Wei and Hankow, and all warships under 5,000 tons have been mobilized in the Yang-tse river.

The naval demonstration is solely directed against China and it is semi-officially stated that existing relations with Russia are cordial.

Diplomatic conferences have been of constant occurrence within the past few days.

THE PEACE COMMISSION.

[SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Secretary Day, upon leaving the Cabinet yesterday announced that Whitelaw Reid had been selected as a Peace Commissioner. The commission is now complete and consists of: Secretary of State Day; Senator C K Davis, of Minnesota; Senator William P Frye, of Maine; Whitelaw Reid, of New York; and Justice White of Supreme Court.

German Discovery.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—A despatch to the Daily News from Berlin says that the German Arctic expedition has put into Hammerfest to make repairs to its vessel. It discovered no trace of Dr. Andree and his balloon. The expedition, after weathering many storms of Spitzbergen, steamed to King Charles Island, which consists of two large islands. A third island was discovered, which was christened August Scherl Island, in honor of promoter of the expedition.

FUTURE OF SAMOA.

A German Paper Advises that the Islands be Divided.

BERLIN, Aug. 24.—The Narine Politische Correspondenz, in an article on the consequences that will follow the establishment by the United States of a naval base at Pago Pago, in the Samoan Islands, says that the political and accompanying economical advantages of Germany, whose local interests are predominant in Samoa compared with those of other foreigners, can be adjusted only by dividing the islands between the three treaty powers. It proposes that the island of Savaii be given to England; Tutuila, on which Pago Pago is situated, to the United States, and Upolu to Germany.

The Neueste Nachrichten calls upon the Government to act energetically in connection with Samoa. It says it will gain nothing by being demure. If it requires a naval station there it will have to be taken, as was Kiaoo Chau in East China.

The Plain English of it.

Addressing a public meeting at Ross land, Hon. G. E. Foster was a few days ago speaking on the alleged broken promises of the Liberals and said: "When a man gives his promise to do thus and de liberately does what he promised not to do he is, in plain, Anglo-Saxon, a liar. What, then, shall we call the leader of a party who, giving his promise to five million Canadians, deliberately breaks his word?" A voice—"He's a liar."

THE HAWAIIANS SHED TEARS.

When Their Flags Was Replaced.

BY THE UNITED STATES STARS AND STRIPES.

The Formal Annexation of The Hawaiian Islands Described.

(From the Montreal Star's Special Correspondent Resident in New York.)

A letter from Honolulu shows that the ceremony of raising the American flag over the Hawaiian Islands on the 12th inst., was not as enthusiastic an affair as the people of the United States anticipated, or were led to believe it would be. The correspondent says: America has garnered the first fruits of the Spanish war. It was the echo of Dewey's guns that was heard in Honolulu on August 12th, when one flag went down amid a roar of saluting cannon, and another went up to take its place. The sight was most impressive, not because of the size of the crowd, for it was not large, not for tumult, for there was little noise, not for length of ceremonial, for the exercises were as simple as they should be when one Republic absorbs another, but because one nationality was snuffed out like a spent candle, and another, was set up in its place. It was but another roll of the juggernaut car in which the lordly Anglo-Saxon rides to his dream of universal empire. It was not as joyous an occasion as far off America may imagine. When it was over, women who wore the American emblem wiped their eyes, and men who have been strong for annexation said, with a throb in the throat, "How sad it was!"

HAWAIIANS STAYED AWAY.

As for Hawaiians, they were not there. It was self-denial, on their part, for the Kanaaka dearly loves a crowd and excitement; but on this day of days the Hawaiians were closely housed. They were not on the streets, they were not at the stores. They were shut up in their houses, and from the Queen's stately home to the meanest shed, the open windows and closed shutters were lonely and sombre as places of death. Those who were obliged to be abroad slipped by through back streets and narrow lanes. They wore on their hats the twisted golden ilima that tells of love of royalty, or on their breasts Hawaiian flags and badges. So few Hawaiians were in front of the Executive building that it might have been almost any capital except Honolulu. There were Americans, Portuguese, Japanese, Chinese in numbers, but no Hawaiians. About the ceremonies there was all the tension of an execution. It was more funeral than fete, more a solemn ceremony than a gay event. There was something fine and strong in the restraint the annexationists put upon themselves in the hour of their triumph. There was little of blowing horns, and tooting of whistles. Only one man drove about in a carriage groaning under a load of red, white and blue, and he was not an American, but a Greek.

NO SPREAD-EAGLEISM.

There was absolutely no speechmaking, except a few dignified words from Minister Sewall; no spread-eagleism, no procession and no cheering.

There were six Hawaiians on the platform reserved for distinguished folk, where diplomats and Cabinet ladies and Ministers' wives were seated in order of their husband's prominence. One of these native women is the wife of a prominent native lawyer and politician. He came for business reasons, and she came because he required her to. In facial characteristics she is not unlike the ex-Queen, and many people mistook her for Liliuokalani. She came in on her husband's arm, very proud and dignified and stately, in a floating noloku of black and violet, her hat plumed with royal yellow. She held her head very high among her lighter neighbors, and she bore up very well until the Hawaiian band began to play "Hawaii Ponoi" for the last time as the national anthem.

TEARS FLOW FREELY.

Then she covered her eyes with her fan and wept. She did not raise her eyes again and she did not see the Hawaiian flag as it floated and then sank for the last time. Other natives who were forced to be there covered their eyes, and an old woman who stood near never moved her eyes from the flag as it dropped, but a rain of tears fell on her cheeks. Hawaiians in the ranks of the National Guard covered their faces and fixed their eyes on the ground. When "Hawaii Ponoi," which means "Our very own Hawaii," came to be played it was a weakly strain, for all the natives had thrown away their instruments and fled round a corner, out of sight. Only ten

OUR ATLANTIC STEAMBOAT SERVICE

A Former Report Contradicted.

THE BEAVER LINE CONTRACT TO BE RENEWED.

An Effort to be Made to Secure 20 Knot Steamers.

OTTAWA, Aug. 27.—In official quarters the report that the Allan and Dominion lines will make an arrangement to place one or more vessels of the Teutonic class on the St. Lawrence next summer is scouted.

The two companies may have adopted such a course of their own, but not by any agreement with the Federal authorities.

The Government's line of action is decided upon. The contract with the Beaver expires in November. It will likely be renewed till the 30th of April next. In the meantime, tenders will be asked for a temporary service of two years or to May 1st, 1901, by which time it is hoped a strong syndicate will undertake the contract with the Dominion Government and have 20 knot vessels ready.

It is understood that the Government still adheres to its plan of asking for fast vessels of the turret type.
