Mrs. Harley Mattinson, of Springhill, N.S., gets prize-winning results from a famous yeast.

TURNS OUT PRIZE BAKING FOR OXFORD COUNTY FAIR

Around her home on Heriott Road, Springhill, N.S., Mrs. Harley Mattinson rates as a swell cook. The judges at Oxford County Fair seem to be of the same opinion, for each year she brings home prizes for her yeast-raised baking!

For folks who aspire to prize-winning baking, Mrs. Mattinson has some good commonsense advice. "Good ingredients are the basis of good baking," she says. "You have to use a yeast with lots of pep and go—or else your results won't be up to scratch. I've used Fleischmann's Yeast for years—it's one yeast you can depend on for fast rising and fine results."

Sound advice! Clever Maritime cooks everywhere get tip-top baking results with Fleischmann's Yeast.

Ellen's Diary

"I don't like the dark!"

Today, furthering the cause to which our farmers have devoted their years, bedding-straw was hauled in from "the other farm." Not that there is a scarcity of it in these barns but that a convenient season had appeared for the chore. There was the sun about, and in the pale gold of the straw . . . for us too, fragments of crickets' tunes, the glad sound of the binder, and the gold and blue of a season now past.

Listen, heart! What sound now thrusts itself into our pleasant silence? The dog rises and turns toward the door; the cat leaps from her rest. Aye, the witching hour is almost upon us! What does it hold? The porch-door is being opened stealthily . . . footfalls near. Friend or specter of night? Our little-girl courage shrinks; but with adult sense we resign ourself to meet, with outward equanimity, the minutes ahead . . . And "Why, Ellen" James entering exclaims, "what has kept you so late from your rest?"

"It's not, I should say, 'What?' but rather, 'Who?' " Rob smiles at his elbow.

Until tomorrow - - - Diary - - Good-night . . . . .

is to be patient and continue your wooing in hope that it will eventually effect a change. In the meantime, the value of a good mother, cook and housekeeper cannot be entirely deprecated, either. Be grateful for what you have, but keep hoping and trying for more. Good luck!

DEAR MISS DIX: Four months ago I married, and two weeks ago discovered that my husband was not divorced from his first wife. He says a divorce isn't necessary since she remarried two years ago without the formality of divorce. Consequently, she isn't likely to cause him any trouble. I want to know, am I a married woman or not? Can his first wife claim anything from him and will my child, due in the spring, be legitimate?

MRS. R.

ANSWER: Your husband has certainly solved the complex problem of divorce and remarriage with amazing facility. However, in spite of his glib explanations, neither his or his "first" wife's second marriage is valid. If you want your baby to be legitimate, your so-called husband had better get a divorce and marry you. His wife certainly can put in a claim for anything she wants; whether she'll get it or not is a different matter.

DEAR MISS DIX: What questions should be settled between an engaged couple before they marry?

C. A.

ANSWER: What a vast field you open up; discussion on this topic could go on for pages. However, as concisely as possible, I'd say questions of religion, finance, in-laws, and a reasonable arrangement of mutual duties should be worked out. You are wise to give thought to this matter now rather than after marriage; your common sense augurs well for a good marriage.

Miss Nissen cannot reply personally to readers but will answer problems of general interest through this column.
