

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

JULY 11, 1894.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Advices from Kensington state that the cheese factory there is being enlarged by four vats. The quantity of milk offered is more than can be handled at present.

Montreal Gazette: It is quite certain that no British officer can retain his usefulness in this country who allows himself to forget that the Canadian militia is a citizen soldiery, that the sacrifices are all on the part of the volunteers, and that sympathy and encouragement with their work is absolutely essential to the successful discharge of his duties.

We are informed that Mr. Hyman Gittelson, of Montreal, who is here collecting money for Silverman, was approached by an officer yesterday and somewhat rudely asked to hand over the commercial travellers' license fee. As Mr. Gittelson is not here in the capacity of a commercial traveller, he refused to obey, and words followed which were more forcible than elegant. It must be admitted that the liability of a stranger to be accosted and worried by an officer of the law who knows nothing about him, does not reflect credit upon this community.

In the course of a recent interview the Vice President of the Pullman Company said: "There is a principle involved in this matter," "which the Pullman company will not surrender. It is that employers must be permitted to run their business in their own way, without interference from employes or any body else. We will not allow any one to tell us how our business shall be conducted. We will not consent to arbitration. Our business is our own private affair. We want no interference from federal, state or any other government." It will be admitted that this is a principle worth fighting for. It is the root of enterprise without which the tree of prosperity cannot grow. If employes cannot run their own business there will soon be no business to run.

The Patriot has the hardihood to return to the bad butter matter. It says: "The utter complained of was agreed to be withdrawn on his (Mr. McPhail's) report, and not on that of the Grand Jury, and was only awaiting removal and did not belong to the Hospital stores at all when the Jury's inspection was made."

The latter part of this statement is a little too thin. If the bad butter had not belonged to the hospital stores, why did the Grand Jury report against it? The Grand Jury clearly implied that the bad butter was placed there for use by the patients, and the Government contractor and the Patriot perceived the implication to stand unanswered for over a week! What other inference could be drawn than that drawn by THE EXAMINER and the people? We may add that the people have no sympathy with those who supply inferior food to the Hospital for the Insane and the Poor House. Some of the strongest Grits in town have privately directed THE EXAMINER's attention to corrupt beef and other things supplied to the unfortunate inmates of these institutions. The supervisors of these institutions will do well if they hold all the contractors to the terms of their agreements.

KINKORA'S BIG TEA.

The tea at Kinkora yesterday proved highly successful. The trains from east and west were crowded, and at an early hour the passengers were loaded onto the tea grounds, which were tastefully arranged with flags, bunting, etc. Carriages continued to roll in from all points until the afternoon, when it was estimated that about two thousand people were present. Promptly on time the tea tables were in readiness, and the crowds were equally prompt in patronizing them. There were nine tables, the good ladies in charge being most attentive and thoughtful in dispensing the delicacies prepared. To say that they were first-class would be but scant praise. We heard of many complimentary remarks to the good ladies, and many of the guests studied the different tables, and were afterwards disposed of by Mr. Manson, of Summerside, at snug prices. Mr. Stewart, of St. John's, and Stewart, Summerside, leading the van of diners in the purchase of the confectionery. Lotteries for the other cakes also realized handsome sums, and the dancing and refreshment saloons were liberally patronized. To the credit of Father John and his parishioners be it said not one drop of intoxicating liquor was sold, and the day, therefore, passed without an angry word either on trains or fields. The American ice cream lemonade tent, which was gaily decorated with Stars and Stripes, and efficiently presided over by Mrs. Davis and Miss Gault, of New York, drew a visit here, proving a great success. The train from this city, in charge of the always popular Conductor Kelly, arrived back at 8.40 p. m. We have not heard the total vote of the polling for the most popular public man, but when our reporter left Hunt was away ahead of Messrs. Bell, Campbell and Laird. The excellent music furnished by St. Dunstan's College Band was very much appreciated, and altogether the tea was a most enjoyable and successful affair.

Wheat-cutting has commenced in Ontario.

A young medical gentleman of Toronto, who figured prominently in the last provincial elections on the Conservative side has been forbidden to enter the precincts of the House of Commons by instructions of Mr. Speaker White. His offence consisted in throwing paper pellets from one of the galleries at members of the House.

Dress goods may have intrinsic merit, and yet lack the possibility of perfect draping. Without perfect draping it is in vain that the goods are costly, or the modiste Parisian. The draping is the charm which gives grace to a woman. There is one particular in which Priestley's famous dress fabrics stand unrivalled. It is universally known that they wear better than other fabrics, but they drape with a grace which endears them to the aesthetic sense of every fastidious woman. Ladies should remember the trade mark "The Vanished Board" on which each piece of Priestley's dress goods is placed.

A REMARKABLE MAN.

Dr. George Leslie Mackay, the apostle of Northern Formosa, who is to address the missionary meeting in St. John's church on Thursday, is one of the most remarkable men among the noble land of modern missionaries. Born in the township of Zarra, Oxford county, Ontario, of Scotch parents, Mackay studied at Knox College Toronto, and Princeton, New Jersey, afterwards attending lectures at the Free College, Edinburgh, where he was privileged to sit at the feet of such men as Duff Candlish and Guthrie. Offering himself for foreign mission work, he was ordained in September 1871, and sailed from San Francisco in November for Hong Kong. In December he went to Formosa, and, as he firmly believes, and certainly as results indicate, under special Divine guidance, he chose Northern Formosa as his field. At the time the northern part of this lovely island is thus described: "An unbroken field where gross darkness prevailed and horrid cruelty reigned." Mackay rented a small house, intended for a stable, and in two months he had collected money to tell the story of the Cross. Obstacles were only incentives to such a man. He joined himself to the boys who herded the water buffaloes, the common beasts of burden, and the speech of the lower classes, believing that, like his master, the "common people would hear him gladly." Leaving the capital, Tamsui, he preached in every village for 12 miles around. At first the teachers and literati gathered in large numbers to dispute with him; but the indefatigable missionary, preaching all day and studying the greater part of the night, became so fluent, and was able to present such "reasons for the faith that was in him," that after a few months no man in North Formosa dared to stand up and oppose him. Soldiers dogged his steps everywhere, and placards were posted up concerning him, boys hooted him through the streets, as he travelled, often barefooted, preaching the gospel. It was no wonder that such labors, united to Mackay's simple faith, proved successful, and, in 1873, not quite a year after his arrival, he dispensed the Lord's Supper to five converts. From this humble beginning, the work went on year by year, till, in the last report submitted to the General Assembly in St. John's this year, we find in North Formosa two hundred ordained ministers, 60 preachers, 60 chapters, 2,719 members, a college for training native pastors, a hospital and some hundreds of native workers.

Two facts will illustrate the influence which Dr. Mackay has gained in Formosa. During the war between France and China in 1882, Formosa was blockaded and Tamsui bombarded. Riots occurred and several of Mackay's churches were destroyed or injured. At the close of the war he presented the Chinese Government with a bill for $10,000 damages, and so thoroughly was he trusted that the full amount was paid without a question. When he left Formosa last year, on furlough, his progress through the island was like a grand triumphal march. Heathen and Christian vied with each other in doing honor to the simple servant of Jesus Christ. The highest officials, as well as the humblest natives, brought their gifts of loving remembrance to the missionary and his wife. Of his trials and difficulties he himself tells the story. Of his successes, the facts speak. His method of training his students and preachers is modelled as closely as may be, upon the method in which the apostles were trained. The result in this direction has been marked. They are men of exceptional ability, who command the respect and affection of their countrymen, so that during Dr. Mackay's absence from the island the work has not only thoroughly held its own, but has gone on steadily increasing.

LORD'S DAY OBSERVANCE.

In the Anglican Synod of New Brunswick a few days ago, Archbishop Brigstocke moved his resolution, in regard to Sabbath observance. He made some very strong points in reference to the general unrest on the Sabbath, and maintained that there should be a protest against practices in regard to the Lord's Day which could not fail to bring down upon the people God's wrath if they continue to profane His day. He spoke of some of the difficulties which the clergyman encountered in carrying out their services by reason of the public attractions in the way of amusements, excursions, and the like, now so common on the Sabbath in Scotland, particularly in illustration in his address to what was doing in other countries in regard to Sabbath observance. And he closed his subject by quoting Sir Mathew Hale's golden maxim: "A Sabbath well spent brings a week of content. And a health for the joys of the morrow; but a Sabbath profaned, whatever may be gained, is a sure forerunner of sorrow."

Rev. Mr. Davenport, who supported the resolution, said that we were, no doubt, suffering now from a strictness in the past in England and in Scotland, particularly in Scotland, in regard to Sabbath observance, and while he did not think it was intended that the Sabbath should be so strictly observed as to confine people all day within the walls of their churches, he offered to send ten thousand copies of it among the churches for circulation.

PERSONAL.

Rev. A. E. Burke has returned from a visit to Montreal and Ottawa. Hon. Benj. Davies and Mrs. Davies have returned from their trips to the Old Country. Mrs. Holder, mother of Mrs. Geo. Younger, arrived home yesterday from P. E. I., where she has been visiting at the home of Rev. W. J. Kirby, Bellevue—Moncton Times.

Mr. Frank Crowther, of Boston, and Mrs. Crowther are visiting the Province. Mrs. Crowther is a daughter of the late E. L. Lydard, for many years a resident of Charlottetown.

Rev. Mr. Campbell, who is to succeed Rev. Mr. Brewer as pastor of the first Methodist Church at Charlottetown, preached his farewell sermon in Emmanuel Street Church, St. John, on Sunday evening last. After the sermon the congregation presented the rev. gentleman with an address and a beautiful pastor chair. Mrs. Campbell was also appreciatively remembered by the lady members of the church.

Mr. W. H. Shelton, a young teacher of East West Hill, has taken his departure for the West. The loss of such an enterprising young man will no doubt be keenly felt by all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance. He has gone to South Dakota, the former residence of his uncle, the late Wm. Howard, for the purpose of looking after the property, which the latter has left him in charge of.

The Newfoundland Methodist conference has passed a resolution deprecating the political disturbances and advising the people to fear God, honor the Queen and respect constituted authority.

NOTES FROM OTTAWA.

An Interesting Talk with Father Burke—The House Rises on Friday, the Conference Earlier—Eloquent Irishmen—Curran and Woods—To Speak in Alberton—The Crops—The Senatorship.

"Yes, my trip was necessarily a hurried one," said Father Burke to the enquiry, "I went straight through to Ottawa in 30 hours from Summerside; but if close connections were given I could have been there in 24 easily. Over two hours was lost at the point going four in St. John, where you take the C. P. R., and there are other delays. Returning it is worse and worse."

The House was in its last hours. Prorogation will be reached on Friday, Sir John thought. They were passing the estimates, and the attendance was thin, and for the most part inattentive. Carrivwright, McMillan and Patterson were on hand to wait every flying hour, and of course Tarte and Martin. The Prince County members were doing their duty to their country manfully in the back benches. Lanier and Sir John are in all most constant attendance, too, but the former amused himself cracking jokes with the few French members in the middle rows. The laughter was long and loud, but as Conservatism is in vogue in back benches and enjoyed themselves in a like manner, the Chairman of the Committee never objected, but kept on monotonously reading the estimates. Now and again Carrivwright, Patterson, McMillan or O'Brien would speak, and Sir John reply, but all in tones indistinct in the galleries. Indeed the House was anything but a scene of brilliant address, and people imagine. Twelve hundred farmers from the country along the C. P. R. were visiting the Experimental Farm, and that over ran into the House. They were anything but edified. "Anybody could be a member now!" said an old stager quite near me, and this seemed to be the prevailing opinion. But they failed to understand how deep and estimates were incommensurable.

Ottawa was all a blaze of light as the train drew in on Thursday night. There was a "hat home" to the Colonial office on the Parliament grounds. From Hull, as we approached, the scene was surpassingly grand; and on the hill thousands were congregated. Fifteen hundred ladies passed on the platform in evening dress. The recollection of some of those old lights would haunt you forever.

The Conference is supposed to close this week, but they seem to expect any very definite result from it. The delegates are a fine body of men, but all agreed that our own leaders compared favorably with them. Fitzgerald, from Tasmania—an Irishman with a beautiful brogue—is the orator of the strangers. But they said that Sir John Thompson made the great speech of the many fine speeches at the Convention. For further mention ever held in Ottawa. This would be, perhaps, surprising to some who consider Sir John cold and judicial always. It takes something to throw him out, in the manner in which he has done. For another scene as that and such a subject—the Empire—had the effect, and the speech he delivered was a masterpiece of eloquence and power. The Earl of Jersey told me freely that he had seldom heard it equalled in Great Britain—never surpassed. Mr. Laurier spoke eloquently after Sir John, too, but although eloquent and pleasing, he was a trifle flat, and after that men as prelied him. His friends felt it, too, keenly. It is pleasing to us men of Irish descent that the three first orators of the gathering were Irishmen.

"Are they feeling the effects of the strike up there yet?" we asked. "Oh, no, nor do they expect to, although it may be a little of the town, and the railways are doing all they can for the time being. C. P. R. is finding work again for its recently discharged hands. I was in conversation with a great railway president, and he assured me that the railways would fight this to the death. 'They may as well get to the end of it at once,' he said. 'If a Delis can order out employes and destroy property and business in this country, they can do the same in any other country, and the roads will rest the thing to the latter.'"

"How do the crops look?" "Splendidly. The hay crop is more than usually good, and in many places it is cut and saved. The grain crops look well. In fact, a red up on the blades of the growing grain, however, through Quebec, which looked to me as if the aphid, plant house, were on it. A good crop is expected all over the country."

"Did you see the wrecked train as you passed Evansville, Me.?" "Yes, and a sad looking sight it was. The train was off at the approach to a bridge, the first spring of the train away and carried with the engine and the three forward cars into the ravine beneath. They say it was the work of wreckers. There was a great variety of information of them. Five men were killed. Ours was the first westward bound train to pass over the broken bridge."

"Did you see Sir John's visit, Father?" "Sir John regrets very much indeed that he shall be unable to come to the Island for the 18th, as he intended, and of course I regret it too. He would like to come. On account of the late prorogation cannot possibly leave Ottawa this month. He will come in September, though, he says. He promised to send Solicitor-General Curran and Consul-General Curran to Alberton on the 18th if at all possible. You know Mr. Curran is probably the most eloquent member of the House and Mr. Wood is a good speaker. They will make interesting addresses. And we will hear the other side."

"How is colonization this year? I was up to Montreal and Ottawa on that business. It is slow work. Low prices for wheat and the commercial depression is the cause. Most people fear this depression will be greater still this year. In Europe and America is confounded with the United States in its troubles."

"Anything else of interest to give us?" "Well, no; and what I have said is not worth mentioning. Ottawa was very gay and very bright when I was here. Indeed the whole country is beautiful now; but no part of it is so charming as the island."

Debs and Others Arrested. A Bigger Strike Imminent.

Chicago, July 11. Eugene V. Debs, President of the American Railway Union, George E. Howard, Sylvester Keifer, M. W. Rogers and J. S. Marwin have been indicted by the Federal Grand Jury for conspiracy to interfere with the United States' mail. Debs and Keifer were arrested. The other three are believed to be under arrest. The penalty is a fine of from $1,000 to $5,000. Bail was fixed at $10,000 in each case. The committee appointed by a mass meeting of the trade unions on Sunday night to arrange for arbitration in the Pullman boycott, failing to do which by four yesterday a general strike was to be ordered, reported yesterday that their efforts had failed. The trade unions were left to carry out the decision of the meeting, and declare a general strike. It is believed a strike will be declared involving no less than 250,000 men. President Debs said that the industries of Chicago would be completely tied up to-day. Debs added that the trouble was beyond his control, and completely out of the control of the Railway Union.

The French Treaty.

Ottawa, July 11. Hon. Mr. Foster was cheered when he rose in the House of Commons yesterday, to move the second reading of the bill to ratify the French treaty. An amendment was moved by Col. O'Brien and seconded by Dalton McCarthy, opposing the ratification of the treaty. After discussion the amendment was defeated.
