SELF DENIAL.—A few days ago we announced that the Salvationists throughout Canada and Newfoundland are having their self-denial week from Nov. 30th to December 7th. Consequently, the most strenuous efforts are being made on the part of the Army generally throughout the Dominion and locally in the separate towns and villages where the Army operates. We conclude from the contents of their official gazette, the War Cry, as well as from some special pamphlets and appeals which are being distributed by the soldiers and officers, that they evidently intend this year's total abstinence to exceed last year's. It is surprising to us to find that the amount collected during past self-denial weeks in Canada has been continually increasing and there are many reasons for believing that this year's effort will exceed any former one. We learn that many of the officers and soldiers have actually determined to live on bread and water (others next to it) in order to raise more money and reach the goal aimed for. Soldiers have been told to visit from house to house and solicit contributions. In other places members of the Army's brass band have arranged to parade and by this means raise something towards the target.

"JOHN BOYLE O'REILLY." Stanislaus Blanchard, Esq., Vice-President of the Catholic Literary Institute, presided at the lecture given in the Lyceum last evening by Father O'Reilly, of St. Joseph's College, Monraco, N. B. Previous to introducing the lecturer, Mr. Blanchard explained the steps that had been taken towards the establishment of the new Catholic reading room, which, it is expected, will be ready for formal opening by Monday next. Already there is a membership of eighty-seven, and the hope that this number would be substantially increased in the near future. Ladies as well as gentlemen would be admitted to membership, the fee in the case of ladies being only one dollar.

Father O'Reilly, after being formally introduced to the audience, came forward and for about an hour and a half held the undivided attention of those present as he discoursed upon the life and life work of Ireland's greatest gift to the American people—John Boyle O'Reilly. Father O'Reilly was in splendid presence, and a speaker of exceptional ability. His lecture last evening was delivered with the aid of manuscript, and the manner in which it was given indicated a thorough knowledge of the subject, and a genuine sympathy and respect for the hero.

The lecturer traced O'Reilly's career from his birth in Ireland to the time of his lamented death some three or four years ago in the land of his adoption. O'Reilly's career as a printer's apprentice in the city of the Drogheda Argus, his departure for England where he became a British soldier, and soon joined the regiment to which he belonged with Fenianism, his arrest, trial by court martial, sentence, imprisonment and escape from Australia to America in the Gazelle, were each in turn referred to by the learned lecturer. Then O'Reilly's career as journalist, poet, novelist and orator was reviewed. The lecturer quoted several of those crisp epigrams which the clever editor of the Pilot was so much at home at writing, and also quoted largely from O'Reilly's poems. In connection with O'Reilly's career as editor of the Pilot the lecturer took occasion to speak in terms of the highest praise of the ability displayed in the editorial management of the Pilot by Mr. James Jeffrey Roche. In conclusion the lecturer referred to O'Reilly's kindly feeling towards all classes and creeds, and the esteem entertained for him by persons of high and low estate, to which he made a happy reference. The vote was moved by W. J. O'Reilly, seconded by R. McCourt, and supported by Edward Roche and Judge Reddin. The audience was large and keenly appreciative.

Big Winnings on the Turf. LONDON, Nov. 27.—The Sporting Life publishes a list of the winners of the owners of horses during the season of 1895. The total net worth of the winners is $2,301,131. Sir Bunford Maple, $12,777; and Lord Rosebery, $11,375. These four head the list. The Duke of Westminster, who is seventh on the list, won $19,403. Mr. Lewis won $22,212. M. F. Dwyer, $235; Richard Croker $32 and Lord Dunsraven, $185.

The Health of the Pope. LONDON, Nov. 27.—The Home correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette is informed by a prelate who is in intimate relations with the Pope that the recent illness of His Holiness was due to lack of vitality, which condition is increasing. There is no cause of immediate alarm, he says, but it is difficult to keep the Pope in good health owing to his habit of getting out of bed at night whenever some Latin comes to see him. Sacrist, bagpipers in drawers and closets give to clothes that delicate, distinct odor which is the stamp of refinement. The most popular powder now is that good kind we sell. It is fragrant and lasting. Five or ten cents will get enough for an ordinary piece of fancy work.

EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS. THURSDAY EVENING. The large congregation yet gathered here to listen to the evangelist, and a most impressive service was held. The ministers of the city were on the platform and the choir was in its place. Mr. Crossley put more pathos than ever into his prayer, and the organist did not draw the wires with too much instrument. Mr. Hunter announced that Mr. Sproule would tell again of his wonderful conversion before the meetings close. His talk on "What will I bring to God when I die?" was very fine. He spoke of the dark hearts of those rash in judgment and unfeeling in their conduct. His words on prayer—shown to be the key to a knowledge of God, ourselves, His word, to all the treasures of God and heaven itself, was very fine. The hindrances to prayer were wrong heart, wrong head, wrong life. Doubt, he said, was a great hindrance to prayer. There were people who could not shake hands with some other person, but who always got blind on one side when they met them on the street. Come straighten up these old difficulties or you will never have a revival. Shake hands, shake hands and let the old grudges die forever. Kill your enemy with kindness, for in that way you do not have to bury him. Worldliness, aimlessness and long prayers were shown to be hindrances to prayer. Many a prayer meeting had been killed dead by some old fellow praying for ten or fifteen minutes. Shorter prayers in public and longer in private is what is needed. Help to pray were faith, fervency, perseverance. Mr. Crossley sang "Eternity" very beautifully, and announced he would sing to-night "The Land of the Living." His address on Jer. xxiii—12 was a simple and interesting outlining of what constitutes a true seeking of the Lord—three things: 1st, to seek; 2nd, to seek the Lord; 3rd, to seek with all the heart. Some did not seek because they were afraid they could not get through, or because they could not stick to it, or because they were not sure there was anything in it, but the more because they were lazy and stubborn. This, he said, he would not dare to say if God had not in Isaiah, 1-7, said it. More stupid than the ox and more stubborn than the ass. Some would seek if they felt a little more, had more tears, and deeper conviction. What is wanted is not steam enough to carry the engine to the end of the journey, but only steam enough to start—the main generative as the train goes along. If you have feeling enough to hold up the hand go on and get saved. Don't seek to do better by turning over a new leaf, but seek the Lord and He will help you to do better. Don't seek some experience of which you have heard—some one else speak nor some imaginary feeling. Don't seek faith, nor assurance, but seek the Lord with all the heart, and have no mental reservations, don't allow pride and self-will to keep you away, but giving up your will to God, seek Him with all the heart and then shall be saved. Jesus loves poor sinners" was sung, and Mr. Hunter made a very earnest appeal, and many adjourned to the enquiry room and a large number sought the Saviour. LINKS OF GOLD FROM THE CHAIN OF DIS-COURSE. Don't judge a person by one act; if we were judged that way some of us would be in the penitentiary. Many a man would pray for ten minutes, thy kingdom come, Lord save the heathen, but when the subscription list is presented, Oh my! Oh my! he hasn't a dollar. We should be like a lot of spoiled children if we received everything we ask of God. God takes 20 years in answering some prayers; and some in a moment. I used to teach the Lord with my prayers at one time, and He had his hands full with me, but I have learned better now. Come shake hands, shake hands; if you knew you were going to the judgment bar in twenty-four hours, you would want all these difficulties squared up. You say, "let us bury the hatchet," and you do, but with the hatchet so far out that you pull it up at any moment to fight. "I'm afraid I wouldn't get through." You ought to be asked to be ashamed of yourself to say you wouldn't prove true to your best friend. No one will ever find faith by seeking for it. Seek the Lord, the object of faith, and you will find it. "I have not the assurance." Well, how can you be assured of what you have not got? Get the salvation of your soul, and you will get assurance also.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

MR. CUNDALL'S LETTER. Sir,—Mr. Cundall certainly has the courage of his convictions, and his letter in yesterday morning's Guardian conclusively shows that he is not afraid to say what he believes to be correct. Whether the construction placed on the Act by the Supreme Court judges or the one placed by Mr. Cundall is correct remains now to be decided by the Ottawa tribunal. But there is no doubt that Mr. Cundall puts his view of the case well, and for the present appears to have the best of the argument. Of course the judges are at a disadvantage in not having their reasons for their decision before the public, and this disadvantage will also follow them at Ottawa. Their position is very much weakened on this account. Indeed, the public are so strong on the question that it would require weightier reasons than some of the judges generally give for their decision to convince the citizens of the soundness of the judgment in the Park Roadway and not being hasty to accept the judges' decisions when they give their written reasons, it is not to be expected that a mere conclusion will be accepted without the grounds therefor. Mr. Cundall, on the contrary, not only gives his conclusion but he shows, to my mind at least, that he has valid grounds for reaching it.

LAYMAN.

J. BOYLE O'REILLY'S BIOGRAPHY. Sir,—In the very eloquent lecture on John Boyle O'Reilly, by the Rev. Father O'Reilly, delivered in the Lyceum last night, there was but one slight error. O'Reilly's biographer, James Jeffrey Roche, is not a Prince Edward Islander. He is an Irishman. He was born at Mount Mellick, Queen's County, Ireland. In the sixties when seated at his desk in St. Dunstan's College, he spoke with the greatest enthusiasm of the poets, orators, and statesmen of his native land. In patriotic language he longed for the day when his country should again be worthy of her ancient greatness. O'Reilly was fortunate in having a fellow-countryman as his biographer.

BORN. In Charlottetown, on the 29th inst, the wife of C. B. Vandenberg of a son.

A Mother's Devotion. BEAUFORT, Nov. 27.—Mrs. Shortis is remaining here waiting anxiously the decision of the Minister of Justice about her son. She has taken rooms at the goal to be nearer to him constantly with her as until his death, if he is to be hanged.

Forty Thousand Killed. CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 27.—Matters being comparatively quiet here, an estimate is being made with regard to the loss in the recent disturbances. A goodly loss in Antolia alone is put at $50,000,000, and the victims at 40,000.

Oscar Wilde Broken Down. LONDON, November 27.—There has been a serious collapse in Oscar Wilde's case. He is utterly broken, and it is regarded as improbable that he will live through the winter. His wife has been assiduous in nursing him at permitted intervals since his sentence.

A Baving of Five Hours. LONDON, Nov. 28.—The Chronicle says that the experiment inaugurated by the Hamburg-American line of steamships by Fuesler Bismark to stop at Plymouth last evening, instead of Southampton as heretofore, at the English port of clearance, resulted in the saving of five hours in the transit of American mails to London.

Depend on it. You will always find FIBRE CHAMOIS the same. It is made by a patented process from pure vegetable fibre, and never loses its stiffness. Its popularity has resulted in lots of trashy imitations made out of any old thing which will hardly hold together while being used. Avoid them if you desire any lasting style in your garments, and to protect you from them, the name Fibre Chamois is on every yard. It provides warmth as well as stiffening. PATENTED, JULY 1890, MARCH 1895.

Funny People and What They Say

It is amusing to read advertisements nowadays—best cutters in Canada—away ahead of any on P. E. Island—buying goods at less than manufacturers' prices—buying direct, and all such nonsense. What shrewd people!

We claim to hold that proud position to day of selling cheaper than any house in the city. You don't have to pay extra for cutter's salary and big rents and all such when buying from us. We are the only tailors in this city who make a specialty of custom tailoring. If we could hold before you in this paper to-day the style, fit and finish of one of our garments there would not be one person in Charlottetown but would join us in saying that we are the leading; fashionable tailors of P. E. Island!
