

EISENHOWER HAS HEART ATTACK

Condition Of President Said Satisfactory

By Ernest B. Vaccaro
DENVER, Col. (AP)—President Eisenhower was stricken with a heart attack Saturday and taken to hospital where he was placed in an oxygen tent.

Physicians attending him issued a bulletin Sunday saying: "The president had a very satisfactory night. His blood pressure and pulse continued stable. There were no complications."

Col. Thomas W. Mattingly, U.S. Army heart specialist who was flown here from Washington, told newspaper men: "There is nothing at the time being to change our previous reports. He's getting on very, very well."

Eisenhower, on vacation here, had suffered what his aides described as a "digestive upset" Friday night. It wasn't until Saturday afternoon that it was announced he had suffered a "mild coronary thrombosis" and had been taken to Fitzsimmons Army Hospital. In later bulletins the word "mild" was dropped from the description of the heart attack.

HEALTH A FACTOR
The president's heart attack came at a time of prime political interest in his health. At a Washington press conference last Aug. 4 he declared his health next year will be a factor in making up his mind whether to seek a second term as president in the 1956 election.

Eisenhower, who will be 65 Oct. 13, has been urged repeatedly by Republican leaders to seek reelection.

The general political feeling in the United States is that the Republicans, with Eisenhower as can-

President Eisenhower

Expect Sinclair Recovery To Be Complete

VANCOUVER (CP)—Russian specialists believe Fisheries Minister Sinclair stands a good chance of complete recovery from injuries he suffered when a scaffold collapsed while he was touring Russian fisheries installations Aug. 4. The full extent of his injuries was disclosed here Sunday on the minister's return to Canada after an absence of 10 weeks.

Alistair Fraser, the minister's assistant, told a press conference Mr. Sinclair suffered a clean break of his left leg, a deep gash in his right calf and a spinal injury that left him partially paralyzed in (Continued on page 2, col. 6)

Republicans Fear Tough Presidential Campaign If Eisenhower Out Of Race

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice-President Richard Nixon appears to command today the greatest party organization of any potential Republican presidential candidate if President Eisenhower does not run again.

Within hours of the news of the president's heart attack, Republican leaders were beginning to accept the strong probability that Eisenhower will not consent to seek a second term.

They found themselves suddenly bereft of the only candidate with whom they felt certain of winning in November, 1956. They conceded privately they faced a tough, uncertain battle next year with suddenly revived Democrats.

These same Democrats gave every sign of a free-for-all scramble for a nomination most of them had regarded a few hours earlier as offering only a long chance for election.

NEEDS IKE'S SUPPORT
Some of the ablest Republican strategists said that, as of today, Nixon is second only to Eisenhower in popularity with the party's state chairmen, governors and others who will play a major role in the selection of delegates to the San Francisco nominating convention next year.

However, these same strategists do not believe Nixon would be able to make a major bid for the nomination without the active support of Eisenhower himself.

While the vice-president would have strong support within the party organization, the strategists recalled that even greater organizational strength failed to win the nomination for the late Sen. Robert A. Taft in 1952 when Eisenhower took the prize.

DEWEY MENTIONED
Despite all the political breaks Eisenhower has tossed to Nixon, party leaders do not rule out the possibility that the president eventually might choose a more mature colleague to receive his support for the nomination.

14 In Hospital After Collision
ST. ISIDORE, N. B. (CP)—A two-car collision near here Sunday sent 14 to hospital, three in serious condition.

Seriously injured are Ganien Lebouthillier, 72, and Mr. and Mrs. John McGrath. All the injured were from this northern New Brunswick district, 80 miles from Bathurst.

Mr. and Mrs. McGrath had nine of their children in the car while Lebouthillier and two others were riding in the other vehicle. All but two of the nine McGraths escaped without injury.

Four Federal By-elections Slated Today

OTTAWA (CP)—Voters in four federal constituencies in eastern Canada will choose new members of Parliament in by-elections today.

The contests are in three ridings in Quebec and one in New Brunswick, all of them Liberal strongholds in the past. Liberal have been elected in Temiscouata for 59 years, in Quebec South and Bellechasse for 38 years and New Brunswick's Restigouche-Madawaska for 22 years.

As in most by-elections where the government's fate is not at stake, local issues and the candidates' personalities have been the main campaign topics. That has been chiefly evident in Temiscouata where the prime minister's 43-year-old son, Jean-Paul St. Laurent, is making his first election try.

SUSPECT FIRE-BUG
SUDBURY, Ont. (CP)—Officials of the department of lands and forests said Saturday a fire bug is on the loose again in the vicinity of Fairbanks lake, 20 miles northwest of here. Five bush fires, spotted and extinguished Friday, evidently had been set deliberately, an official said. Some five weeks ago 11 similar incendiary fires were extinguished in the same township.

OTTAWA (CP)—U. S. State Secretary Dulles led a delegation of American ministers into Ottawa Sunday night for high-level trade talks with Canadian ministers.

Arriving at nearby Uplands airport he made a brief statement before television cameras in which he said it is always profitable to talk trade with Canadians because Canada and the U. S. do more trade between each other than any other two countries.

Mr. Dulles declined to answer questions concerning the talks which open today with External Affairs Minister Pearson presiding. The American group was met at the airport by Trade Minister Howe and U. S. Ambassador R. Douglas Stuart.

The one-day conference today will be the second meeting of the joint Canada-U. S. economic and trade committee set up in 1953 to iron out trade issues between the two countries.

Officials have said the major item to be discussed will be the U. S. wheat give-away program which Mr. Howe told the Commons last June is infringing on some Canadian wheat markets abroad.

Mr. Dulles and two other ministers—Agriculture Secretary Benson and Treasury Secretary Humphrey—arrived aboard a U. S. air force Convair. U. S. Commerce Secretary Weeks arrived about a half-hour earlier on a private plane from his home in New Hampshire.

Mr. Dulles said it was unfortunate that the conference will be only a brief one but added the two countries can look forward to another meeting in Washington next year.

A reporter asked Mr. Dulles whether he had any news about President Eisenhower's condition. "There is nothing new, but nothing alarming," he replied.

West Indies Island Of Grenada Left Shambles

ST. GEORGE'S, Grenada (Reuters)—Much of the mountainous palm-dotted West Indies island of Grenada was in a shambles Sunday and the island was without drinking water after a vicious battering by hurricane Janet.

Fifty persons are known to have died in the disaster and many more deaths are expected to be reported.

Janet first tore into Grenada, southernmost of the Windward Islands, from the southeast at nine o'clock Thursday evening. Near midnight, the damaging winds subsided, only to strike again with full force from the southwest.

Many houses were destroyed, many more were left without roofs, the balconies of government headquarters in St. George's were ripped off, and the capital's hospital and leading hotel were damaged.

Hundreds are homeless and great quantities of the island's crops were destroyed.

DIE IN BARBADOS
No piped water is available in St. George's because of damage to waterworks, and none is expected for another four days. The only other possible source of drinking water, the river, is polluted and people of Grenada are relying on rain water. Health precautions are being taken.

The crew of a U. S. naval reconnaissance plane which surveyed the island—21 miles by 14—estimated that 30 per cent of the buildings were seriously damaged on the west side and 10 per cent on the east.

In Barbados, holiday island northwest of Grenada, and about the same size, the death toll from Janet was given Sunday as 26. But here too the figure is expected to be revised as full reports come in.

BURIED ALIVE
Carriacou, the largest island in the Grenadines group north of Grenada, appears to have suffered most—with reports of 25 dead and 30 seriously injured. A relief motor vessel has already sailed for Carriacou with medical and food supplies.

Argentine Faces Tough Readjustment, Is Belief
By BEN F. MEYER
WASHINGTON (AP)—Argentina faces a hard period of readjustment following the revolution. Most of her sister nations in South America also are having troubles of their own.

Latin American experts agreed on that hemisphere appraisal is a checkup following the overthrow of dictator Peron in Argentina and his replacement by a military junta headed by Eduardo Lonardi.

Six other South American nations—Colombia, Brazil, Chile, Uruguay, Paraguay and Bolivia—have reported difficulties, either economic or political, or in some cases, both.

A tense and potentially explosive situation is reported in Colombia. Its strong man regime is said to be the toughest in the hemisphere, and recently it has imposed increasingly irksome restrictions.

PLAN ELECTIONS
Brazil, after months of political tension, plans to hold presidential elections Oct. 3. The heat of a four-man campaign became so intense that for a time it appeared the country might postpone the elections, but it now is expected the voting will take place normally.

There is such an accumulation of economic problems and political strife, however, that any new government will face great difficulties.

Chile has been in economic difficulties for years. This has created various periods of political tension.

Higher prices for copper, Chile's major export, have helped relieve economic strains there. But inflation has reached alarming proportions.

Colombia, on the threshold of an economic boom, is torn by political strife. It was accentuated recently by closing of the nation's leading newspaper, El Tiempo.

TROUBLES IN URUGUAY, PARAGUAY AND BOLIVIA are economic. Uruguay is in trouble on its three major products—wool, wheat and meat. In wool, a complex system of export exchange rates discouraged exports, cut down on dollar income. Wheat is subsidized by the government, and this has proven a costly venture. Meat production has not kept pace with both domestic and export demand.

A severe freeze last month damaged crops heavily in Paraguay and cut its major exports, bananas and other fruits. This will tend to weaken its foreign exchange holdings.

Bolivia, for years under economic strain due to its tin economy, is reported making progress but is not yet in good shape. Three other countries report no insuperable problems. Venezuela, rich in oil, is in a fantastic boom. Peru reports an era of extraordinary economic development after heroic measures eliminated an exchange system which was crippling the country.

Ecuador, in political turmoil for years, now tells the world its political stability is increasing, and its economy greatly improved.

Buying live poultry at start Tuesday, 8 until 11, R.L. Dickleson, New Glasgow.

Chicken supper, Graham's Road hall beginning at 5 p.m. standard time Sept. 29th.

See the "Irish Millionaire" in Vernon River Hall, Tuesday, Sept. 27. Dance after.

See "Smiling Bill" McCormack in St. Margaret's Hall, Tuesday, Sept. 27 at 8:30.

Argentine Faces Tough Readjustment, Is Belief

By BEN F. MEYER
WASHINGTON (AP)—Argentina faces a hard period of readjustment following the revolution. Most of her sister nations in South America also are having troubles of their own.

Latin American experts agreed on that hemisphere appraisal is a checkup following the overthrow of dictator Peron in Argentina and his replacement by a military junta headed by Eduardo Lonardi.

Six other South American nations—Colombia, Brazil, Chile, Uruguay, Paraguay and Bolivia—have reported difficulties, either economic or political, or in some cases, both.

A tense and potentially explosive situation is reported in Colombia. Its strong man regime is said to be the toughest in the hemisphere, and recently it has imposed increasingly irksome restrictions.

PLAN ELECTIONS
Brazil, after months of political tension, plans to hold presidential elections Oct. 3. The heat of a four-man campaign became so intense that for a time it appeared the country might postpone the elections, but it now is expected the voting will take place normally.

There is such an accumulation of economic problems and political strife, however, that any new government will face great difficulties.

Chile has been in economic difficulties for years. This has created various periods of political tension.

Higher prices for copper, Chile's major export, have helped relieve economic strains there. But inflation has reached alarming proportions.

Colombia, on the threshold of an economic boom, is torn by political strife. It was accentuated recently by closing of the nation's leading newspaper, El Tiempo.

TROUBLES IN URUGUAY, PARAGUAY AND BOLIVIA are economic. Uruguay is in trouble on its three major products—wool, wheat and meat. In wool, a complex system of export exchange rates discouraged exports, cut down on dollar income. Wheat is subsidized by the government, and this has proven a costly venture. Meat production has not kept pace with both domestic and export demand.

A severe freeze last month damaged crops heavily in Paraguay and cut its major exports, bananas and other fruits. This will tend to weaken its foreign exchange holdings.

Bolivia, for years under economic strain due to its tin economy, is reported making progress but is not yet in good shape. Three other countries report no insuperable problems. Venezuela, rich in oil, is in a fantastic boom. Peru reports an era of extraordinary economic development after heroic measures eliminated an exchange system which was crippling the country.

Ecuador, in political turmoil for years, now tells the world its political stability is increasing, and its economy greatly improved.

Buying live poultry at start Tuesday, 8 until 11, R.L. Dickleson, New Glasgow.

Argentine Faces Tough Readjustment, Is Belief

By BEN F. MEYER
WASHINGTON (AP)—Argentina faces a hard period of readjustment following the revolution. Most of her sister nations in South America also are having troubles of their own.

Latin American experts agreed on that hemisphere appraisal is a checkup following the overthrow of dictator Peron in Argentina and his replacement by a military junta headed by Eduardo Lonardi.

Six other South American nations—Colombia, Brazil, Chile, Uruguay, Paraguay and Bolivia—have reported difficulties, either economic or political, or in some cases, both.

A tense and potentially explosive situation is reported in Colombia. Its strong man regime is said to be the toughest in the hemisphere, and recently it has imposed increasingly irksome restrictions.

PLAN ELECTIONS
Brazil, after months of political tension, plans to hold presidential elections Oct. 3. The heat of a four-man campaign became so intense that for a time it appeared the country might postpone the elections, but it now is expected the voting will take place normally.

There is such an accumulation of economic problems and political strife, however, that any new government will face great difficulties.

Chile has been in economic difficulties for years. This has created various periods of political tension.

Higher prices for copper, Chile's major export, have helped relieve economic strains there. But inflation has reached alarming proportions.

Colombia, on the threshold of an economic boom, is torn by political strife. It was accentuated recently by closing of the nation's leading newspaper, El Tiempo.

TROUBLES IN URUGUAY, PARAGUAY AND BOLIVIA are economic. Uruguay is in trouble on its three major products—wool, wheat and meat. In wool, a complex system of export exchange rates discouraged exports, cut down on dollar income. Wheat is subsidized by the government, and this has proven a costly venture. Meat production has not kept pace with both domestic and export demand.

A severe freeze last month damaged crops heavily in Paraguay and cut its major exports, bananas and other fruits. This will tend to weaken its foreign exchange holdings.

Bolivia, for years under economic strain due to its tin economy, is reported making progress but is not yet in good shape. Three other countries report no insuperable problems. Venezuela, rich in oil, is in a fantastic boom. Peru reports an era of extraordinary economic development after heroic measures eliminated an exchange system which was crippling the country.

Ecuador, in political turmoil for years, now tells the world its political stability is increasing, and its economy greatly improved.

Buying live poultry at start Tuesday, 8 until 11, R.L. Dickleson, New Glasgow.

Canoeists End 700-Mile Trip; Leader Is Drowned

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—Five men who travelled down 700 miles of northern waterways in canoes reached safety Saturday, but reported their leader had drowned.

Arthur R. Moffatt, 36, lecturer and explorer from Norwich, Vt., lost his life Sept. 15 and while shooting the Marjorie lakes rapids on the Dubaut river in Northwest Territories.

The other members of the party reached Baker lake, N.W.T., at 3:15 p.m. CDT Saturday, completing a trip through the barren lands that started June 29 at Stony Rapids, Sask.

Fred Pressie, Jr., of Grosse Point, Mich., led the party after Moffatt's death less than 100 miles from the group's destination, 375 miles northwest of here. Other members of the party were Bruce LeFavore, 20, Amsterdam, N.Y.; Peter Franck, 18, San Mateo, Calif.; George Grinnel, New York; and Edward Lanouette, 21, Sao Paulo, Brazil.

SEARCH ALREADY STARTED
They said they recovered Moffatt's body but were unable to bring it out. The RCMP planned to form a party in a few days to undertake the task.

The party, which followed a route taken in 1893 by Dr. J.B. Tyrell, a Canadian government surveyor, reached Baker lake near the western shore of Hudson Bay 87 days after starting the trip in three canoes. The survivors, all in good condition, were flown here by a Churchill-based plane owned by Arctic Wings Ltd. of Winnipeg.

A search had been started for the party after it was reported seven days overdue. When they left Stony Rapids, about 400 miles north of Prince Albert, Sask., members left a note saying they had food for 80 days.

The note said the party was due at Baker lake Sept. 15 and if they did not arrive by then it would be a good idea for the RCMP to know their whereabouts. Moffatt had made several trips in the Canadian north and other members were experienced.

PLANE CALLED BACK
On the basis of this information, an RCMP Beaver aircraft flew along the proposed route. An RCAR aircraft was also sent north to join the search but was called back when word came that the (Continued on page 2, col. 8)

West Germany Gobbling Up Export Markets

LONDON (Reuters)—The treasury warned home industry Sunday that booming West Germany is gobbling up the European export market even though British sales are still on the increase in the export trade.

A treasury report drew a comparison between the exports of the two countries in April and May of this year compared with the corresponding months in 1954. The results showed Britain and West Germany expanded their sales to the rest of Europe more than all other countries put together.

But while Britain's increase was 12 per cent, West Germany showed a whopping 88-per-cent increase. The treasury said it would be dangerous to future British prospects if industry assumed that Europe was not its market but West Germany's. Britain must be flexible enough to move with expansion.

(Continued on page 2, col. 7)

Juan Peron Sails On First Leg Of Trip Into Exile

By FRED L. STROZIER
BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Argentina's revolutionary government Saturday granted Juan D. Peron permission to leave the country for asylum in Paraguay.

The Paraguayan gunboat Paraguay steamed away from a Buenos Aires late Sunday, presumably carrying Peron on the first leg of his trip into exile.

Meanwhile, Provisional President Eduardo Lonardi picked an 11-man cabinet including Rear Admiral Isaac Rojas, the man who led the Argentine navy in the rebellion which overthrew Peron last Monday, as vice-president.

The United States and Britain Sunday became the 10th and 11th countries to recognize the new government. The Vatican announced recognition Saturday.

FRIEND OF PARAGUAY
Lonardi, whose regime has begun a systematic hunt for hidden wealth of members of the Peron government, cleared the way for a naval escort to ensure his safe arrival in Asuncion.

Peron's choice of Asuncion as his exile and even promised place to live in exile was to be expected. He had included Paraguay in his program of economic union of Argentina with various Latin-American nations. He visited Paraguay last year as an official guest of President Alfredo Stroessner. He was made an honorary citizen of Paraguay and an honorary officer of her armed forces.

Peron fled to the Paraguayan embassy when he was tipped his arrest was planned by the three-man military junta to which he relinquished his powers under the threat of a rebel bombardment of his capital.

ASSOCIATES JAILED
Although Peron and some of his chief associates found asylum in foreign embassies, many of his closest collaborators were jailed. An army source said retired Maj. Carlos Aloe and his brother Valentin Armando Aloe were captured trying to flee Argentina with satchels filled with 15,000,000 pesos in cash (more than $1,000,000).

HALIFAX, (CP)—The weather office says temperatures are dropping rapidly in all regions and there is a risk of frost in New Brunswick early this morning. A large high pressure area over the Great Lakes is moving eastward, and promises fine weather in the Maritimes for the next two days.

Halifax and immediate vicinity, northern Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island: Clear with a few cloudy intervals; cooler; northwest wind 15. Low early morning and high in the afternoon at Halifax 45 and 62. New Glasgow 46 and 60, Charlottetown 45 and 58.

New Brunswick: Risk of frost early morning; sunny today with a few cloudy intervals; cooler; northwest wind 15. Low-high at Moncton and Fredericton 35 and 53. Saint John 40 and 58. Edmundston and Campbellton 35 and 55.

DONATES MILLION DOLLARS TO EDUCATION, CHARITY

Leon Koerner, lumber industrialist who retired Vancouver as his home 19 years ago when Hitler's army invaded his native Czechoslovakia, donated $1,000,000 to education and charity. The money will be administered by a foundation named after Mr. and Mrs. Koerner.

Governors of the new Koerner Foundation have bought the Rogers office building in downtown Vancouver for $1,250,000 for the purpose of income and security. (CP Photo)

