Ask For Ayer's

Sarsaparilla, and be sure you get it, when you want the best blood-purifier.

With its forty years of unexampled success in the cure of Blood Diseases, you can make no mistake in preferring Ayer's

Sarsaparilla to any other. The fore-runner of modern blood medicines, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is still the most popular, being in greater demand than all others combined.

"Ayer's Sarsaparilla is selling faster than ever before. I never hesitate to recommend it."—George W. Whitman, Druggist, Albany, Ind.

"I am safe in saying that my sales of Ayer's Sarsaparilla far exceed those of any other, and it gives thorough satisfaction."—L. H. Bush, Des Moines, Iowa.

"Ayer's Sarsaparilla and Ayer's Pills are the best selling medicines in my store. I can recommend them conscientiously."—C. Bickhaus, Pharmacist, Roseland, Ill.

"We have sold Ayer's Sarsaparilla here for over thirty years and always recommend it when asked to name the best blood-purifier."—W. T. McLean, Druggist, Augusta, Ohio.

"I have sold your medicines for the last seventeen years, and always keep them in stock, as they are staples. 'There is nothing so good for the youthful blood' as Ayer's Sarsaparilla."—E. L. Parker, Fox Lake, Wis.

"Ayer's Sarsaparilla gives the best satisfaction of any medicine I have in stock. I recommend it, or, as the Doctors say, 'I prescribe it over the counter.' It never fails to meet the cases for which I recommend it, even where the doctors' prescriptions have been of no avail."—C. P. Calhoun, Monmouth, Kansas.

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

OCTOBER 15, 1889.

Notes and Clippings.

—The manufacture of cheese is still a very important industry in Great Britain. According to an estimate made by Professor Sheldon, London, alone pays £2,432,500 a year for cheese made on English farms. Of this the great bulk is made on the Cheddar system.

—"Party honesty is party expediency." This saying is epigrammatic and true. It is by Grover Cleveland and is justified by its author's experience. Cleveland—when he was trying to catch votes—followed a very crooked and dishonest course, and he treated honest Sackville with the scantest courtesy. And he was not elected!

—Minneapolis says the real estate bubble in Kansas City is destined to the last degree of thinness; that the whole town is sunk beneath the weight of eastern mortgages, and that it is full of empty storehouses and dwellings. Kansas City retorts that for every empty house covered by an eastern mortgage in Kansas City, there is one to match it and more, too, in Minneapolis. Meantime,—emigrants go to Canada.

—An English statistician, Sir Robert Herbert, has been giving some figures relating to the disproportionate growth of city and country population in Great Britain. More than two-thirds of the population are now in the urban districts. In 1871 the proportion was 192 to 100. It rose in 1881 to 212 in 100. The town population is increasing at the rate of nearly 20 per cent. per decade. The country population is increasing only at the rate of 7 per cent. The tendency to give up agricultural for other pursuits, when so marked as these figures would seem to show it to be in Britain, is not a healthy or satisfactory kind of a growth.

—New Zealand papers, lately received, convey intelligence of the somewhat sudden death of Mr. Daniel Oxley, a native of Prince Edward Island, and formerly a member of the firm of J. & D. Oxley, of Auckland. The Herald, of Auckland, refers to the sad event in terms which show that Mr. Oxley was an esteemed citizen, and says: "Mr. Oxley has been in delicate health for some time past. He was well-known in shipping circles, the firm of which he was a member having owned the Fleetwing and Reward. Mr. Oxley leaves a widow and two sons and a daughter to mourn their loss. Deceased was a native of Prince Edward Island, from that Island, with other special settlers."

—A rather interesting appointment has just been made in the educational world. The trustees of Columbia College, New York, have filled the Presidency of that institution with ex-Mayor Seth Low, a young man for such a position, being under forty, and not noted for scholarship or culture. The ground for choosing Mr. Low, who has had a successful experience as a man of affairs, is that he will make a good administrator which is the principal duty for the President of a College like Columbia. The appointment is received with great favor, and the comments go to show that a new departure has been made in assigning men of executive ability rather than of scholarship to posts of this kind.

—Systematic home study with definite objects and under the patronage of the highest authorities has become a marked feature of Scottish educational life. What is known as the University Extension Scheme is being promoted. A gathering was lately held in Edinburgh to encourage those who had not received a university education to study at home and form reading centres, where organized efforts could be made to prosecute the plan. During the Edinburgh Convention lectures were given by some of the leading professors of the day, Masson, Crum, Brown, Geikie and others on literature, science and art. Young women appear to have taken advantage most freely of the opportunities afforded them, while the poorer classes, for whom the scheme it was hoped would prove beneficial, have not as yet been able to lend their assistance.

—When the Minister of Customs was in the Northwest he paid a visit to the Mormon settlement near the Rocky Mountains, and called by the settlers themselves Cardston. The forty or fifty families of Mormons form a thriving and industrious community, raising plenty of produce and supplying the neighboring markets. The Mormons declare that they will observe the laws of Canada, and those who have been watching them closely have failed to discover anything suspicious. From the scare which some people have sought to create over the immigration of these people, who are admitted to be excellent settlers, a different idea of the Mormon colony from the one presented by the Minister has got abroad. The Mormons understand that they must obey the laws. They have come here with that understanding, and are not able to elude the law; and as long as they continue industrious, law-abiding citizens the authorities cannot, and do not want to, interfere with them. The theory that they should be remorselessly persecuted for their opinions finds favor with very few people.

For Delicate, Sickly Children

Scott's Emulsion is unequalled. See what Dr. C. A. Black, of Amherst, N. S., says: "I have been acquainted with Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, with Hyphospites, for years, and consider it one of the best preparations now before the public. Its pleasant flavor makes it the great favorite for children, and I do highly recommend it for all wasting diseases of children and adults." Sold by druggists, 50 cts. and $1.00.

To An Unknown Friend.

BY J. B. D.

'Tis sweet to linger in the birth of even,
On ocean's brink, and see the sun go down
Serene and peaceful, as the veil of Heaven
Uplifts to show the jewels in her crown;
But sweeter still, whilst watching on the billows
Tired and worn with toiling, to be blest
With the first gleam of dawn that bids the water
Seek his rude berth and fold his arms to rest.

'Tis sweet, whilst plodding o'er a dusty highway,
Tired and thirsty from long wandering,
To turn our steps towards some pleasant by-way
And chance to come upon some friendly spring;
But sweeter still, amid fair nature's wildness,
To revel in her bounties for a while,
And to partake with thankfulness and gladness
And witness her approval, and her smile.

But sweeter far than rest unto the weary
Or springs refreshing to the thirsty one
Is the warm hand of friendship, as the dreary
And uneventful days their journey run:
When pride and envy, clothed in garbs of coldness,
Seeks but to serve their baser, ruder end,
Then oh! how sweet it is, from out the darkness,
To clasp the sympathizing hand of friend.

'Tis sweet to know that if we are but striving,
Whatever be the enemy's contriving,
The right will banish every evil spell;
But sweeter still to know that though we wander
In pathways similar though far apart,
Those paths shall reach a happy point up yonder,
Where hand clasps hand and heart is joined to heart.

Then let us never be ashamed to cherish
The sacred friendship of the gentle muse;
Sing on in measures sweet which never perish;
Let others claim the scoffer's task who choose.
A garland brighter far than time can weave
Be thine to wear when time shall have an end;
Sing on, though here unknown, still I may greet thee
Where friend shall hold sweet fellowship with friend.

Southport, P. E. I., Oct. 14, 1889.

Let Us have an Historical Society in P. E. Island.

For some time I have been interested in looking up incidents of the early history of some of the settlements in King's County; and I find that this fascinating study is one well worth attending to, and will well repay any time devoted to it. It has occurred to me that what is the case with respect to King's County, is also, no doubt, equally a fact with regard to other sections of the Province.

The difficulty now experienced in obtaining reliable information relating to the early settlers, will annually become greater, for the pioneers are rapidly passing beyond the "line that divides the seen from the unseen"; and in a few short years, none of those who saw the opening decades of the present century will be alive to tell their story.

It seems to me, therefore, that an effort should be made to organize a society that would systematically take up this most interesting branch of literature.

Some years ago an Historical Society was organized in Charlottetown, and a quantity of valuable material was obtained; but, unfortunately, the Society had lasted only a short time, when it met an untimely end at the hands of its own members. This may be cited against the formation of another such Association; but if a different plan is adopted with respect to the custody of the documents, manuscripts and other data that may be collected, no doubt a more satisfactory and beneficial result will be obtained.

An association for the collection of historical data respecting this Island, might be formed in connection with the Natural History Society, now in working order in Charlottetown, and in that way add interest to the meetings of that association. But if that proposition would not be agreeable to the members of the Natural History Society, we surely can form, support and carry on an association devoted exclusively to historical research.

In order to guard against the loss of valuable documents that might be presented to the society or obtained by its members, and to prevent their dispersion to private persons—as I am told was the case when the former association became defunct—I would suggest that all valuable documents and other materials forming historical data that are collected by the society should be deposited in the Provincial Library, from whence they could not be taken except by permission of the Legislature.

I trust that this matter will be taken up vigorously by our leading educationists, especially those connected with our public schools. By getting the co-operation of the school teachers in every district, interesting incidents that otherwise would be lost, will be obtained, history will be preserved that future generations will count more valuable than untold gold, and a work will be begun, that, like wine, will increase in merit as it grows older in years.
