Malpeque Road Farm Forum Meets
 The Malpeque Road Farm Forum held its closing meeting on Monday, March 23rd, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Pendergast, after a most successful season. During the current year the attendance improved and an increased interest was noted. At Monday night's meeting a collection was taken to pay for Farm Forum guides and arrangements for next year were discussed. Mr. Maurice Clark was appointed Secretary for next year.
 Joint meetings with two other Farm Forums and the showing of educational films on farm topics were highlights of the years programs.—K.

M. Perry were recent visitors to Summerside on business.
 Miss Mary Ellsworth was a passenger to Charlottetown on Monday, March 30th where she plans to remain for some time.

Former Islander Vacationing in Phoenix, Arizona
 —Word has been received that Frank E. Woodside, formerly of Hamilton, P. E. I., is vacationing in the beautiful and modern city of Phoenix, Ariz.
 Mr. Woodside was for many years chairman of the Board of Aldermen of Vancouver, B. C. and is now manager of B. C. and Yukon Chamber of Mines.
 He has had long and successful experience in promoting the search for minerals in British Columbia and the Yukon, and in his long career has familiarized himself with all the famous old time trails. Woodside Mountain in Central B. C., is an immortal monument to his name.
 His aplomb, general knowledge and forthright speech in many crises have proclaimed him a champion of the people's rights. He may be justly rated a great Islander abroad, possessing the ability "to sup with Kings and never lose the common touch."—K.

IN MEMORIAM
MRS. JOHN L. ARSENAULT
 —Following a short illness death came peacefully to Mrs. John L. Arsenault of Egmont Bay on Thursday, January 29th, at the age of seventy years. A week previous to her death Mrs. Arsenault suffered a slight stroke and despite tender care and best medical skill she passed away.
 Although death came unexpectedly it did not find her unprepared. Her whole life was a preparation for eternity. Her pastor, Rev. Charles Gallant, administered the last Sacraments of the Catholic Church a short time previous to her death.
 Truly it may be said of Mrs. Arsenault that although she has departed, nevertheless her example of fidelity to duty, the memory of her thoughtfulness in deeds of charity, will be treasured by many and remain an inspiration to all who knew her, especially her own dear ones.
 Besides a bereaved husband she leaves to mourn five sons and eight daughters, Arthur in Pennsylvania, Antoine and Alphonse in Egmont Bay, Cyrus in Summerside and Alyre on the homestead. BURGESS BEDTIME
 "I can't fly," said Little Lone Chick.
 Sammy Jay looked down at her, his head cocked on one side, and his bright eyes twinkling. "What are those wings of yours for?" he asked.
 "I don't know," confessed the wee Grouse. "I never have thought anything of them. I never have found any use for them."
 "They are rather small," admitted Sammy, as he looked at them critically. "Still, they have feathered out pretty well. I think you might be able to fly if you try."
 The small Bird down below him shook her head. "I don't know how to fly," said she. "Perhaps I'll learn when I get bigger."
 Suddenly Sammy Jay leaned forward. "Look out!" he screamed. "There's some one behind you!" Little Lone Chick looked over her shoulder. Her heart seemed to leap right up in her throat. There right behind her was another awful fellow. His coat was black and white. He was so near that he was ready to spring. The small Grouse didn't wait. She didn't run either. She flew right up in the very tree in which Sammy Jay was sitting. She hadn't known she could fly, but there she was up in that tree. In fact she was on the very branch on which Sammy Jay was sitting. "I thought you couldn't fly," chuckled Sammy.
