—MAGISTRATE'S COURT.—In County Magistrate's Court in Summerside yesterday before Magistrate R. S. Hinton, Q.C., a female resident of Roseville was convicted of being intoxicated in a public place, and also causing a disturbance. This being her fifth offence, she was fined $100 and costs or two months in jail. Two youths from Wellington charged with assault in connection with an incident in which they molested a Wellington girl, were fined $20 and costs, which was the maximum penalty under the section of law under which the charge was laid. Residents of Borden and Howan were each fined $100 and costs for driving while impaired. Their licenses were cancelled for three months. A speeder from Summerside was fined $10, and another from the same area had his case adjourned for sentence.

—OBTAIN CONFESSION.—Summerside police have obtained a confession from a prisoner in Queen's County jail to three breaks that occurred in Summerside this fall. The identification of fingerprints belonging to an airman from R.C.A.F. Station, Summerside now serving seven months in Queen's County jail for theft of tools and an attempted break at the K and R Store in Charlottetown, led Summerside police to the recovery of a clock stolen in a break at the feed division of the Prince Edward Island Fur Pool. Further investigation led to the recovery of a radio stolen from the War Surplus Store in a break in which a large quantity of clothing was stolen, none of which has yet been recovered. A number of keys stolen from Willard MacDonald's auto showroom were also recovered. A companion of the airman is not now believed to have been implicated in the Summerside breaks.

Nova Scotia Bishop Confers Rites

—Twenty-five candidates received the holy rites of Confirmation at the hands of the Most Rev. R. H. Waterman, B.A., D.D., Bishop of Nova Scotia, at St. Mark's Church, Kensington, on October 19. With the exception of two, who were presented by the Venerable Archdeacon G. R. Harrison, M. A., B.D. of Summerside, the candidates were presented by the Rev. W. Eric Ingraham, M.A., rector of New London Parish.

Addressing the candidates, the Bishop spoke of the importance of the occasion, both to them and to their rector who was ordained to the priesthood earlier this year and was presenting his first class of candidates for confirmation. He recalled his own happiness in presenting his first class as a youthful deacon, 33 years ago. He charged the choir and congregation to pray for the candidates, thus having a part in the confirmation, which he said must be thought of as being administered by Jesus Christ, through the "very unworthy" offices of the Bishop.

His joy in going about among his people on this Fall visitation was expressed by His Lordship, and his pleasure in his association with Archdeacon Harrison, as he visits the various parishes in this vicinity.

The Bishop and the Archdeacon were warmly welcomed by the rector on behalf of the people of New London Parish.

Immediately after the service, a reception was held in St. Mark's Rectory, when Mr. Ingraham's mother, Mrs. Roy Ingraham as hostess was assisted by the women of the church. A delicious lunch was served and a happy hour of fellowship enjoyed.

You would not find many seamen who don't believe it bad luck to harm an albatross. But John Slipp, research assistant at the University of Washington, said the legend was pure nonsense. So last summer while aboard the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service vessel John N. Cobb, he asked permission from the captain to shoot an albatross which was seen flying near the ship. The captain reluctantly granted Slipp's request and forthwith the bird was shot. According to the A. P. this is what happened afterward:

The net caught on the bottom of the sea and was torn to shreds. The net cables fouled up three times.

The shaft of the main winch parted. (It took the crew 5 1/2 hours to reel in the cable).

Ted Maellendorf, a scientific aid aboard the vessel fell through a hatch and broke a rib. Although the sea was calm Slipp became violently seasick for the first time in his life.

The ship had to return back to Seattle because of these disasters, and when they docked the cook quit his job.

Something is confusing homing pigeons and that something may be radar or T. V. Keepers of homing pigeons claim that the birds have a beam of their own and that all the electronic signals pouring over the air waves in recent years have been leading the birds off their course. In the past few years hundreds of birds have vanished, and in a Texas race held

Strange But True

It is interesting to note the part stones have played in human life down through the ages. Our forefathers always put stones in their wheat bins to absorb moisture and keep the wheat grains from becoming mildewed or rusty. This practice was common in the neighborhood where this scribe was brought up; and I well remember helping my grandpa place the dried stones in the wheat bin after threshing had been completed.

The Indians of Peru used certain stones for the increase of their maize, others for the increase of potatoes and other root crops.

In some parts of Melanesia the natives used what they called "sacred stones" which were supposed to be endowed with miraculous powers which corresponded in their nature to the shape of the stone.

The ancients set great store on the magical qualities of precious stones; such stones being used as amulets long before they were worn as mere ornaments. The Greeks gave the name of tree-agate to a stone with tree-like markings. They believed that if a couple of these gems were tied to the horns of working oxen, the crop was sure to be plentiful. Then there was the milk-stone which they fancied produced a good flow of milk in nursing mothers if they drank it, dissolved in honey.

Milkstones are used for the same purpose by Crete and Melos. The men of the present day. Then too, the Greeks had stones to cure snake-bites and stones for curing drunkenness.

At present there are two credit unions operating in Summerside, the St. Paul's and the Trinity Unions. It was felt by many, however, that there exists a need for separate community group to which persons may join who do not belong to either of these churches.

The meeting was addressed by Mr. Don Smith, Hamilton, Ontario, field representative of the National Association of Credit Unions, who outlined the purposes of a credit union, the method of operation and how to organize a credit union.

He pointed out that a union is generally made up of a church group, a club, a business organization, or any group of people who

A superstition among the Breton peasants, is that if a farmer sows his clover when the tide is rising it will be a bumper crop, but if the seeds are sown at low tide or when it is ebbing, it will be a poor crop, and that the animals that feed on it will not thrive. Sounds silly, doesn't it? Yet I know a farmer's wife who vows that she can't make good butter unless the tide is flowing. I know of another family who believe that oels eaten at the ebb of the tide will equirm in their stomachs. The belief that most deaths occur at ebb tide is held by many persons living along the sea-coasts.

Take Preliminary Steps To Form Credit Union

—A group of nine men last evening, after hearing the purposes for which a credit union exists in a community, formed a temporary committee to make application for a credit union in Summerside to be known as the Community Credit Union.

The nine charter members were Messrs Norman Macdonald, Russell Hunter, Rod MacNeven, John E. MacDonald, Elwood Campbell, Layton Profit, Harold MacLennan, Roy Lidstone, and George Wotton.

These members will do whatever work is necessary in the meantime, and on Monday, November 2, the official organization meeting will be held.
