Judge Rules Blood Test Is Admissable At Trial

SUMMERSIDE BUREAU OF THE GUARDIAN

Ten Crown witnesses were heard yesterday during the trial of Delmar Joseph Gallant, of Howlan, before Mr. Justice R. R. Bell of the Supreme Court, on a charge of being criminally negligent in the operation of a motor vehicle, resulting in the death of Wayne Heber Andrews, 15, of Unionvale.

The court adjourned late in the afternoon after the controversial evidence of Dr. Charles Dewar had been completed. There are four more witnesses to be called by Crown Prosecutor, George R. McMahon.

During Dr. Dewar's evidence, defence counsel, J. Watson MacNaught, QC, moved that his testimony be disallowed, because of his association with the accused in his capacity as coroner at the inquest into Andrews' death, held earlier.

Mr. McMahon argued that the evidence they wished to introduce at this time had nothing to do with the doctor's duties as coroner.

His Lordship ruled that the part of his testimony dealing with the taking of a blood sample was admissable, and later ruled that evidence on the condition of the accused, when the doctor took the test, could also be heard.

Attorney-General Melvin McQuaid was also present.

Prior to the start of the Crown's case, a 12-man jury was formed, after 11 men had been challenged by Mr. MacNaught.

One of the first witnesses called was 15-year-old Allison Francis MacCormack, Unionvale, who told the jury that he and the deceased were walking along the left side of the highway between the Western Road and O'Leary, on their way to a school dance, at about 8 o'clock on the evening of Nov. 17.

He recalled seeing headlights coming from behind them and moved on to the shoulder of the road, while Andrews remained on the edge of the paved road.

"I heard a bang, and then I was in the ditch", stated MacCormack, who said that the only things he saw following this were red taillights of a car going away, and a boot bouncing along the road.

Under cross-examination by Mr. MacNaught, the young witness said it was not raining at the time and there was a centre white line on the road. He admitted that he could not tell whether it was a car's headlights which he saw approaching from the rear.

Edward Joseph Gallant, Unionvale, stated that around eight o'clock on the evening in question he was parked on the shoulder of the road at Austin Malone's, a short distance to the east of where the accident took place. After hearing a bang, he came outside and saw a car with its hood bonnet up and the radiator steaming, parked alongside his own vehicle. Gallant identified the accused as the only man beside the car.

HEARD NOISE

Mr. and Mrs. Malone testified that they went out to the parked cars after hearing the noise and heard the accused say, "I think I struck something down the road."

Both witnesses went down the highway to where the body was lying on the south side of the road. Neither saw any other traffic on the road at the time, and Mr. Malone stated that the parking lights of both vehicles, were on.

A newspaper carrier, Dwight Gallant, 14, explained that he had just delivered a paper to Malone's when he heard the bang and got on his bicycle and drove down to the road, from the house, where he saw the accused standing beside his car and asked him whether he had a blowout. He stated that it was quite dark that night and when he first saw the vehicle it was moving and the hood was up.

Ralph Gard, O'Leary, an uncle of the deceased, said that after hearing of the accident he went to the scene, where he found a shoe and overshoe lying beside the road, a short distance from where the body had been. He said he could identify the shoe as being the one he saw previously at the Andrew's home.

Both Douglas Ferguson, the ambulance driver, and Dr. Cyril Rugden, noted that the pavement was wet when they arrived and it was a cloudy night. Dr. Bugden estimated the time of death as within an hour of his arrival.

Provincial pathologist, Dr. Robert Abel, Charlottetown, reported doing the autopsy on the body and found skull fractures, brain damage and fractures to both legs. He said that death was due to the head injuries.

TOOK BLOOD SAMPLE

In Dr. Dewar's evidence, he noted that after driving to the O'Leary Hospital with the accused, and Cpl. Ronald Petit, he took a blood sample from Gallant at exactly 10 p.m.

He said that at this time the accused appeared flushed, his speech was slurred and his gait unsteady. In answer to Mr. MacNaught, he said that he had known the accused for about three years, but not very well and his observations would be subject to a margin of error.

Mr. McMahon handed the doctor a piece of paper, which he identified as a statement made by the accused, to the effect that he was giving the blood sample of his own free will. Dr. Dewar and Cpl Petit witnessed the document while Gallant signed it.

The court adjourned until 9.30 this morning at which time Cnst. Wayne Horrocks of the Alberton RCMP will take the stand.

Both the Crown and Mr. MacNaught stated that they expect today's sitting to complete this case.

Farmers Need Liberal Gov't, Mr. Ryan Hall Meeting Told

"The Tories are telling us that times were never better," Allison Gillis said last night when he and Ira Lewis addressed upwards of 200 people in Mt. Ryan Hall. The men are Liberal candidates in Queens for the June 18 federal election.

Mr. Gillis went on to say that under the present federal government this country has lost the respect of the other nations of the world. Without this trust "we cannot hope to be part of the advancing trade enjoyed by the rest of the world," he stated.

While Mr. Gillis spoke of the plight of the nation, Mr. Lewis dealt with the problems of farmers.

"Farmers are the type of people who prefer to earn their own living, and want and need a Liberal government," Mr. Lewis said. He further stated, "Farmers do not want government handouts," to the cheering of supporters.
