Opening lead—jack of spades.

There's no such thing as playing bridge perfectly all the time. You expect to make mistakes here and there, and about all you can do is try to hold the number of them to a minimum and hope that the ones you do make won't turn out to be too expensive.

Look at this hand played in Naples in the match between Italy and the United States in 1951 When Simiscalco and Forque held the North-South cards for Italy, the bidding went as shown.

Some of their bids are incomprehensible by ordinary standards, but they were playing the Neapolitan system, and the slam they reached was certainly sound enough. The American East - West pair bid merrily along, considering the few high cards they held but they were simply taking advantage of the vulnerability conditions.

West led a spade. Forquet took the ace, entered dummy with a diamond, played the queen of hearts and finessed. This lost to the king, but that more or less ended the hand Forquet later played another trump, discarded three clubs from dummy on his long diamonds, and made the rest for a score of 1,430 points.

When the American pair held the North-South cards, they also reached a slam, but on this bidding:

The Italian West (Chiaradia) opened the six of clubs. This inspired lead cost declarer the contract. He won in dummy with the ace and finessed the queen of hearts, but Chiaradia took it with the king and returned a club to defeat the slam a trick—100 points.

Italy thus gained 1,530 points on the deal, but it does seem that even if West's opening lead at the first table is regarded as a mistake, the punishment was out of proportion to the crime.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
