them weeping and pining. As soon as you show that you can stand on your own two feet, your sister's estimation may change.

And if it doesn't you will at least convince yourself that you can be independent, financially and socially. Don't live in the past.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: How can I get a man I like interested in me, and keep him coming back? This man I speak of took me out several times, but I have now been six weeks since our last date.

ANSWER: Your friend is just afraid of being driven to the altar.

DEAR MISS DIX: I was married only six months when my child was born. Shortly after, my husband left me. When my son is old enough, should he be told the truth?

ANSWER: Don't go around inflicting your mistakes on other people. You did get married, so your baby is legitimate.

DOROTHY DIX cannot reply personally to readers, but will answer problems of general interest through her column.

Tweedy - Malcolm Wedding

On June 9th at 4 p.m. the wedding was solemnized in St. Enoch's Presbyterian Church, Hamilton, Ontario, of Margaret Helen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Malcolm of Hamilton and John Oliver Tweedy, B.Sc., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tweedy, Earnsccliffe, Prince Edward Island.

Entering the church with her father, the bride was wearing an embossed white sheer gown, having a fitted jacket and bouffant skirt extending into a chapel train.

The three bridal attendants were Miss Betty Binnie, who was gowned in Nile green organza over taffeta, with pink rose bouquet; Mrs. George Brown, Toronto, in an orchid organza and taffeta costume, and bouquet of yellow roses and mauve sweet peas; and Mrs. John McOrath, of Spring Valley, dressed in yellow organza over taffeta, and carrying Talsman roses and white sweet peas.

A reception was held for sixty guests at 52 Ottawa Street North, the bride's mother receiving in sky blue embossed sheer, with pink rose corsage.

Leaving by motor for a trip to the Eastern States and Prince Edward Island, the bride was attired in a mauve suit with white hat and white and violet accessories, and a white and purple violet corsage.

The couple will reside at 12 Groethuise South, Apt. 3. Out of town guests included Mr. Harry Tweedy, Earnsccliffe, Prince Edward Island, father of the groom.

How Can I!!!

By Anne Ashby

Q. How can I remove fruit stains from linen?

A. Pour boiling water over the stains before washing the article. If the stains seem stubborn, rub with a little lard and then proceed to wash as usual.

Q. How can I treat a new shoe that hurts at the heel?

A. When a new shoe hurts at the heel, a very effective remedy is to rub the inside of the heel with hard soap.

Q. How can I sweeten milk which has begun to turn?

A. Add enough carbonate of soda to cover a dime to each pint, and boil. The milk will then be quite sweet and will keep.

NEW YORK, June 11 (CP) — New York City's temperature dropped to a chilly 52.3 degrees today, only 3.3 degrees above the record low for June 11 set in 1878.

ICE BOX CAKE

Heat to boiling point 6 tablespoons water and 6 tablespoons apricot syrup, and pour it over 1/2 package of lemon jelly powder.

Indoors over our mending this afternoon, we watched the rest-les dance of the leaves of the poplar by the gateway.

Johnny watched. When she finished a line, she shifted the carriage, slowly started another. She was not a good typist.

Modern Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. When one enters a restaurant carrying several packages, where should these bundles be placed?

A. If there is no check room, place them on a vacant chair at the table. If the restaurant is crowded, then place the packages under your own chair.

Q. Is it necessary to apologize for writing a letter to a friend on the typewriter?

A. No, there isn't any reason to apologize. Many people today write all their correspondence on the typewriter, excepting the most formal social notes.

Q. Should a wife receive her husband's guests at a stag party?

A. No, it is better not. This is an "all-man party," the husband is the host, and he should certainly be the one to receive his guests.

heavy leather couch and the wall. Someone entered the adjoining room. The door did not close.

Then he saw a girl standing there, a certain tenseness in her trim, straight figure. She was watching the pathway on the far side of the bluff.

The girl was Kay.

Johnny watched her next actions with interest. She stepped to the card table, lifted the portable typewriter from its case and pulled a chair up to the table.

Sitting down, her movements purposeful and quick, she removed a folded sheet of paper from the pocket of her white linen sport jacket. She unfolded the paper and put it into the machine.

Slowly, one finger at a time, she started pecking at the keys.

Indoors over our mending this afternoon, we watched the rest-les dance of the leaves of the poplar by the gateway.

Johnny watched. When she finished a line, she shifted the carriage, slowly started another. She was not a good typist.

Overcome with curiosity, Johnny Saxon came out from behind the divan and moved up behind the girl. Rubber-soled shoes made his approach soundless.

Two feet behind Kay Smith he craned his neck and read the words just typed on the paper:

You are not Irene Smith. Don't try to remember who you are. Otherwise there might be another...

He waited as the last word was slowly typed out. It was "accident."

Finished, the girl sat and looked at the words, Johnny, too, stared at them with concentration.

Then he realized that Kay was aware of another being in the room. She didn't move. Her breathing seemed to have stopped completely.

Johnny said, "That is what I call a pretty good copy of the real thing!"

Relief was in the girl's manner as she swung around quickly to face him. "Johnny! You gave me an awful scare!"

He said, "I was scared myself when I heard you step on the porch. I thought someone might want to shoot me."

Sitting sideways in the chair, hands gripping the back of it, her green eyes looked up at him. Her flushed face beneath summer tan, was have you been here?"

Her eyes seemed cautious instead of frightened now.

"I just come in. I forced the lock."

Kay said, "I suppose the reason you are here is the result of our finding mother last night. I mean you had the idea she was coming here?"
