Polyansky Tries Hats, Eats Barbecue Beef

SWIFT CURRENT, Sask. (CP)—Dmitri Polyansky, a Soviet deputy premier, got his first hat just outside the hotel door in Regina Tuesday. He then drove to Swift Current for a visit to the federal agricultural experimental station which he termed "all right" in one of his rare remarks in English.

Mr. Polyansky showed an extreme interest in the Polish mine—a towering $40,000,000 plant erected in 18 months. Katur Chemicals Ltd. now turns out 2,000 tons of fertilizer ingredient a day.

At the end of the tour Mr. Polyansky told the plant manager, G. J. Lambillotte, "You've got a good modern plant and with this kind of technology you've got very good prospects."

The mine produces potash by pumping a brine solution into the earth, and back to the surface, then drying the resulting solution to extract minerals.

The Russian deputy premier also was taken on a trip through the year-old Swift Current experimental station.

He toured through the laboratories where researchers are conducting a host of experiments including one that simulates what goes on in a cow's stomach after the animal has grazed on various grasses.

MacDonald Addresses Souris Conservatives

SOURIS — The refusal of the Federal Liberal Party to increase Old Age Pensions is not a matter of deep concern to all those who would like to see justice done to our senior citizens, but it is also a matter of dispute, dissension and disagreement in the Liberal Party itself," Rev. David MacDonald, Member of Parliament for Prince, told a well-attended Progressive Conservative meeting in Souris last evening.

"Time and again in recent days, Opposition Members have pressed the Liberal Government to follow the example set by Premier Walter Shaw and the Conservative administration of Prince Edward Island, but as late as last week Prime Minister Pearson declared that his government would not increase pensions to $100 a month at the same time, Liberal Ministers were forced to admit that the Old Age Pension Fund now has a surplus of $217 million—sufficient to pay an additional $25 a month to every Old Age Pensioner in the country for the rest of the year," he said.

"I am proud to be a federal representative of the first province in Canada to provide universal one hundred dollar a month pensions for our senior citizens," Mr. MacDonald declared. "Once again Prince Edward Island has led the way. I only wish that the Government of Canada had the same concern for our senior citizens as does the Government of Walter Shaw."

Mr. MacDonald added, "The leadership given to this issue by the Conservative Government of Prince Edward Island has had more influence on making the $100 a month Old Age Pension a reality for pensioners in all parts of Canada than any other single factor. Sooner or later, despite Liberal opposition to a pension increase, justice will be done to our senior citizens and it will be done sooner because of the example set by our Island Government."

Mr. MacDonald was speaking in support of Keith MacKenzie and Peter MacAulay, the Conservative candidates in Monday's deferred election in First Kings.

Premier Walter Shaw congratulated the Conservative candidates on the manner in which they had waged the campaign.

"I am proud to say that our organization has conducted a hard-

Writer Came To P.E.I. To Work On Two Novels

By Richard Whitlock

Island brings people from far away centres of North America and abroad who just want to "get away from it all." But there are a few people, one in particular, who rather than getting away from it all has come here to jump into the middle of his work.

Bryan Eddington arrived here in May to work on his first novel, "Hot Snow." He says that it is a commercial novel but hopes to have completed a serious one before he leaves in September.

Bryan, born in Scotland, has lived in Toronto for the past two years where he has worked as a copy writer. He has taken a leave of absence from his job to work full time at something that he really wants to do, write.

He has travelled throughout the world, in his younger days with his parents, but at the age of 16 he journeyed alone to Australia to work on a farm. From Australia Bryan returned to England and then came to Canada where he has tried various occupations. He believes that he has found what he really wants, here in Canada, and hopes that he can continue successfully at it.

Following the completion of "Hot Snow," Bryan intends to go right into his serious novel. He defines his next book as rather personal and has put his beliefs and philosophies into it.

Although he hopes that "Hot Snow" will be successful Bryan hopes for greater things from his second novel. After he leaves here and returns to Toronto he says that he will want to see what the future will bring. Whatever these two books bring he wants to keep writing and his main ambition in life is to be a successful writer.

gression against North Viet Nam and pledged all-out aid for Hanoi — including any military volunteers the North Vietnamese ask for.

The crisis in Viet Nam and all its implications—preoccupied statesmen and politicians in key Asian, European and American countries. Former French minister Jean Sainteny conferred in Hanoi with President Ho Chi Minh, presumably to sound him out on a settlement.

RISK WARNS CHINA

In Kyoto, Japan, Secretary of State Dean Rusk offered an unmistakable warning to China. Any "insane" nuclear attack on an America ally in the region will bring retaliation "with whatever means would be required." He said, there has, however, been no evidence to suggest Peking may be contemplating such an attack.

Viet Nam was the theme of debate in the British House of Commons, with legislators deeply divided on the issues.

Conservative Leader Edward Heath assailed Wilson for disassociating Britain from the American bombing of oil depots near Hanoi and Haiphong. He said the move was "not logical nor honorable" and could encourage the Chinese and North Vietnamese to go on waiting for the Americans and their allies to "wilt and weaken."

Left-wing Laborites, for different reasons were equally hostile to the Wilson policy of backing President Johnson's Vietnamese policy except for the bombings. One of them, Frank Allan, asked Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart if the Labor government now is saying: "We regret one-tenth of the dirty American war in Viet Nam but support the other nine-tenths."

DEFINES MISSION

Stewart defined the major purpose of Wilson's mission to Moscow July 16 to 18:

"He will impress upon the Soviet government our view that negotiations are urgently needed and that the Geneva co-chairmen, Mr. Andrei Gromyko and myself, have heavy obligations to Southeast Asia and to the world to promote negotiations."

In New Delhi, Mrs. Gandhi in a nationwide broadcast declared "This war must end" and proposed a Geneva conference, a halt to U.S. bombings and a cessation of hostilities.

"It is necessary to secure the withdrawal of all foreign forces from Viet Nam and to insulate that unhappy country from every foreign interference," she said.

She proposed that the International Control Commission supervise a truce while the peace-makers go to Geneva. Canada and Poland are the other ICC members.

Shortage Of Doctors Is Eased

ALBERTON — A serious shortage of doctors in the Alberton-Tignish area was eased considerably last night when arrangements were completed for Dr. Michael Leser to see patients, starting today, in the Western Hospital, Alberton, each morning and also keep office hours in Tyne Valley.

The situation developed following the death of Dr. Roy Kennedy, Tignish, while Doctor Helmut Alberton and Dr. Arnold Goldberg, Tyne Valley, were both away on vacation.
