over the Charlottetown track this week and one of the best was a hookup between Babe Britton 2:09 2/5, Johnny Kalmuck 2:10 1/5, My Darling 2:08 1/5, Miss Knox 2:09 3/5 and Argot Pointer 2:07. They finished heads apart in 2:19 with the last eighth very fast. Other workouts we have noted were Dean Swift in 2:19, Gahagen 2:19, last half in 1:06 3/5, Keppoch Playgirl 2:21, Rajah Hanover 2:20, Silk Hal 2:23, Waymark 2:20 2/5, April Bub 2:26, Royal Scott Jr., on the trot in 2:20, Royal Jim 2:22, Eva Budlong 2:22, Feather Duster 2:22, Lassie Lucille 2:19 and a lot of other miles better than 2:30.

In our recollection, which goes back a long time, we have never seen horses performing so fast so early in the season but the reason is that most of them have been stabled at the track or have been worked over the ice and have lots of miles under their belts and are going well within themselves. Another reason is that Jim Llewellyn, caretaker of the Exhibition Grounds, has about the finest track for them to train over that could be found anywhere. All the loose stones have been removed and there is several inches of nice clay loam and every morning it is as smooth as a billiard ball. The horsemen certainly appreciate the work Jim and his helpers have put on the track and the results are shown in the sound, speedy horses that are being trained over it.

A letter dated May 22nd from Walter S. Pound, Merced, Calif., states that Joe O'Brien is shipping out the Sol Camp stable to Vernon Downs Raceway, N. Y. The Bay Meadows track where he was to have raced is programmed each day with running events as well as trotting and pacing events. The runners want the track soft, the trotters and pacers want a good firm surface and the result was that Joe figured his horses would get a set back if he continues racing there. This means that Joe's pacer Prince Jay 1:58 3/5 and Walter Found's Patrick Primrose will not meet in the $5,000 pace. Walter has won a start with his mare Prudent Found. It was her first time to face the starter.

Wendell Barbour arrived back from a visit to the U. S. A. and while there he was out to Foxboro track and had a talk with Billy Hood whom everyone will remember as the driver of Watchdog and other horses owned by Frank Adams of Halifax. Billy only has one horse now, says he is taking things easy and enjoying himself. He was certainly a wonderful driver and the Maritime record books show that.

The lights have been put in at the Charlottetown track and all preparations will be completed by Monday noon for the first night racing program of the season which opens Tuesday, Coronation night. We expect to see really good racing and good time made with some newcomers coming up with surprises. The trotter Royal Scott Jr., that was campaigned for years as a pacer by Bob Ryan and had a record of 2:07 2/5 at that gait, was turned over to the trot last year and with a limited preparation took a record of 2:14 4/5, is eligible to the 2:24 trot. He was bought by Len O'Meara at Yankers last fall for George Gregory, Charlottetown, and John MacLean, Souris, and he showed real form Friday morning in a workout mile with Argot Pointer and Babe Britton. Every foot was in the right place and he came through the stretch on even terms with those two notable pacers which shows that he has a lot of lick. Despite the high wind the time was 2:20 with the last eighth better than 16 seconds.

FLIGHTS DAILY TO Charlottetown Summerside Moncton Fredericton St. John Halifax New Glasgow Magdalen Islands

Aubrey Keizer's column of the Sydney Post-Record of May 27th - - - The June 2 races at the Sports Centre on Coronation Day will offer at least six new horses who were purchased by Cape Breton interests last fall. Such new names as Futuramic, Josedale Clansman, Tru Single G., Inkus Truax, Patchon Volo 2nd and Miss Judy Hal, are shown on the eligibility list for that day. Race Secretary MacDougall reports the 16 starters nominated for the Down Easter on August 3 have a value over $50,000. Those listed for the big free-for-all are—Argot Pointer, Texas Brewer, Vanguard, Handbook Dick Eria, Thelma Lou, June Bee, Lucky Chief, Fenny Lyn, Headway, Hedgewood Chief, Pat D., Conlay, Direct Mite, A. G. Scott and Josedale Clansman. Centres represented, are Charlottetown, Sydney, Summerside, North Sydney, Summerside, Saint John, Glace Bay, Halifax and Springhill. That's quite a collection.

The passing of Major T. B. Rogers, to his thousands of friends "Tom", early this week, brought forth expressions of deep sympathy for his family who will so greatly miss him. Tom went through life with a smile and a cheerful word for everyone and that made him a host of friends. The writer knew him when he was a young man of eighteen and arrived in Halifax to join the Royal Canadian Regiment. It was a great school for discipline but also a unit where one could make many friends and Tom was popular from the very first. He went to France with them, had a splendid military record and returned to go into business with his father, the late W. K. Rogers. His pleasant smile and helpfulness in business transactions added greatly to the prosperity of the firm. As a youth he had been interested in athletics, particularly hockey, and a few years after his return from overseas his father bought a race horse and Tom was a frequent rider of the track. He then became owner of that good trotter Johnny Walker as well as others. He also bred several colts and the last few years was the owner of the trotter Tartan 2:15 3/5. Tom was keenly interested in hockey and was the principal promoter of the Islanders Hockey Club. It is very sad and hard to realize that less than a year ago he was attending races and hockey matches and apparently in good health. The turnout of military men and the great numbers of citizens and friends who paid their respects to him yesterday afternoon was a fitting tribute, but there were thousands of others who could not attend but would also be saddened by his passing. To his sorrowing mother, wife and family we on behalf of the horsemen, tender our deepest sympathy.

Hunter's Corner

Ordinarily I wouldn't have ventured out but left early when the weather gave promise of breaking and once I got started, decided to stay with it. Hardy anglers, a member of the fair sex among them, dressed in slickers and oil skins stuck it out until one o'clock in the afternoon, with a few pan size trout to show for their efforts but after that I had the show all to myself.

I wasn't out to check on fishermen but was interested in what I could learn on how the black duck broods were faring. At 4:00 P. M. I decided to point the car homeward. The information I gathered was not encouraging. For instance, Harvey Moors, who has the wildlife Sanctuary at Milltown Cross, told me about one black duck that hatched out a brood of nine on Wednesday, May 20th. On Friday afternoon he took a stroll up the dam to see how she was faring. She had only four following her. A check discovered one little fellow sitting on the water in a dazed condition and appeared to have lost the power of motion. It never moved when he picked it up and carried it to the house.

Placed in a box behind the stove it soon revived and that night when he retired it apparently was as good as new. At 3:00 A. M. on Saturday morning he looked at it before he left to haul his lobster traps and it was dead. Children of the wild are very much like our own children. If they receive a bad chilling complication are liable to set in. My experience is that respiratory troubles do set in with very few exceptions. Years ago my father, a very observant outdoorsman, told me that coveys of ruffed grouse, up until several weeks of age, developed a sort of croup if the weather held wet and cold for any protracted period. Observers have reported this spring that they have observed small ducklings all by their lonesome along the edge of ponds and in creeks. In rough weather the young ducks are more liable to become separated from their mother. This is not so serious if the days are warm and the nights not too cold. They feed naturally from the moment they are out of the shell and when night falls they'll crawl under a root or a hole of some sort. This is a poor makeshift for their mother's soft, warm feathers and companionship but its remarkable the way Nature's instinct for self preservation will work at times.

Trout have eased off during the past two weeks although the odd good catch has been creelied but the general catch is not up to par. It will be July 1st before fresh run sea trout begin to filter up into the headwaters of our rivers and creeks in really fishable numbers. While I am on the subject of trout fishing I will reply to an enquiry from a sportsman from Providence, R. I., as to whether or not Prince Edward Island issues a temporary license to its visitors in the summer.

Answer: No, there is just the regular fishing license issued at a cost of $3.00 which is good for the entire season. . . April 15th to September 15th. . . except the National Park which opens from June 1st to September 15th. The foregoing season applies to Speckled or Brook Trout. Rainbow Trout: July 1st to October 31st applies only to O'Keefe's and Glenfinnan Lakes. Rainbow trout are taken in good numbers in Scales Pond, Freetown, and with less frequency in the Dunk and Cardigan rivers but such Rain-bow trout are legal trophies and come under the same open season as allotted to Speckled or Brook Trout.

Scales Pond is situated on the headwaters of the Dunk River in Prince county and the Cardigan River is in King's county. This river has been stocked with Rainbow trout as an experiment which every sign indicates as being successful. Rainbows fight wickedly in salt water and several have been hooked on the Cardigan river of a poundage that defied all efforts of the angler to bring them to creel and the battle has ended with the fish stripping the gear and heading seaward with the throttle wide open.
