Political Winds Follow Tight Money Statement

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP)—Not in almost a decade has a federal government employee stirred up such a touchy political situation as has Governor James E. Coyne of the Bank of Canada in his annual report.

Mr. Coyne's pre-election airing of his difference of views no "tight money" with Finance Minister Fleming may be an even sharper split than the one in 1949 between cabinet ministers and then combine commissioner Fred M. McGregor.

That case resulted in the resignation of Mr. McGregor, a top-flight official, because of his feelings over the way the cabinet treated a report he submitted.

ESSENTIAL DIFFERENCES

There are essential differences in the two cases. First, Mr. McGregor's split was with a Liberal government in between elections, while Mr. Coyne is in disagreement with a Progressive Conservative government during an election campaign.

Mr. McGregor, too, never was accused of playing politics, as Governor Coyne has been by a cabinet minister.

Thirdly, Mr. McGregor quietly quit because the government held up publication of a report he turned in. Mr. Coyne's report was made public by the government and then was promptly jumped on by government spokesmen.

Mr. McGregor's report as combines commissioner dealt with an investigation into pricing policies of flour milling companies, and he was critical of some of them.

MINISTER DISAGREED

It was held up in cabinet beyond the statutory time for making it public, and eventually it became known that this was done because then trade minister C. D. Howe disagreed with its contents.

There was a furore in Parliament over the issue, but by election.

Mr. Reg MacNutt spoke on the role of education in the home. This was the topic of the workshop he attended at the conference.

Mr. Percy Cameron on behalf of the Home and School, moved a hearty vote of thanks to the speakers. At the close of the meeting, the different classrooms were visited. Delicious refreshments served by the catering committee brought the evening to a close.

tion time in 1949 it was not a major campaign point. Mr. McGregor, meanwhile, had left the job. He subsequently became one of the biographers of the late prime minister Mackenzie King, to whom he had been secretary some years earlier. Prime Minister St. Laurent was in office when the matter developed.

ON EVE OF ELECTION

Unlike the case of Mr. McGregor, that involving Governor of Coyne is tied up directly in politics, and comes on the eve of the March 31 general election.

The Conservatives, in last year's successful campaign and in this one, have been saying that Liberal "tight money" policies cramped lending last year and contributed to unemployment.

In brief, Mr. Coyne said in his annual report—regard as the government document perhaps next in importance to the budget—that he knows of no tight money policy as he would define it.

The Liberals have gleefully leaped aboard this as a claimed justification for their monetary policies of last year before they went out of office.

Finance Minister Fleming has administered a carefully-worded but stiff public rebuke to his $50,000-a-year top financial adviser, a move unprecedented since the bank was set up in 1935.

Transport Minister Hees was more blunt. He called it a related attempt to help the Liberals.

Governor Coyne so far has been silent.

N.Y. Stock Market In 3rd. Straight Weekly Advance

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market scored its third straight weekly advance last week. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks nudged ahead 30 cents to $164.

This brought it once again within striking distance of the Feb. 4 recovery high of $165. That was the high-water mark of the snapback from the decline last October to $150.90, the lowest point since January, 1955.

The market performance last week had two big highlights—Monday and Friday. The Monday move was the sharpest drop since Feb. 11. Friday brought the biggest rise since March 11. Each involved an estimated $1,500,000 in the quoted values of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the movement in the average.

COPPERS MOVE UP

In the final two sessions coppers made great strides on news of firmer prices. Aircrafts rallied smartly late in the Friday session.

The big industrial issues moved ahead slightly on average but their performance was a mixture of small gains and losses.

The rise in the short interest to its highest figure since Sept. 11, 1951, continued bearish trend among traders, since it showed that more and more people on Wall Street expect a decline.

The slump in industrial production to its lowest level since December, 1954, was a dismal piece

Disappointed By Paintings Shown

MONTREAL (CP)—A judge of the spring exhibition at the Montreal museum of fine arts said today the quality of most paintings submitted was disappointing.

Albert Dumouchel of Montreal said he and fellow judges Alex Colville of Sackville, N.B., and Anne Kahane of Montreal were "disappointed there were so many traditional academic-style paintings submitted."

He said only 91 of the 1,589 works submitted would be shown. Paintings, sculpture and water colors were sent from all Canadian provinces except Prince Edward Island, and from the United States, Italy, France and England.

Mild Weather Hampers Nfld. Pulp Cutting

GRAND FALLS, Nfld. — (CP) — Vice-President T. R. Moore of the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Company said Saturday a second winter as mild as the one just passed could result in the shut-down of the huge pulp and paper mill here.

He said unseasonable high temperatures and complete lack of snow seriously handicapped pulp-wood hauling operations. Hauling costs for the season were higher than normal and much cut wood had to be left where it fell.

The reserves may keep the mill going this year but "another such winter could easily result in the mill being closed down for want of wood for . . . several months."

Mr. Moore said at least 30 of a total of 52 company camps may not be able to complete their haul this year. Up to March 14, about 135,400 cords had been hauled compared with 372,244 cords for the same period last year.

Paraplegic Society Plans To Expand Operations On P.E.I.

A. L. Caldwell of Halifax was elected chairman of the Maritime Division of the Canadian Paraplegic Association at the 7th annual meeting of the Division, held at Camp Hill hospital.

Mr. Caldwell succeeds Stewart S. Sime, who headed the association for the past two years.

Sinclair Allen was elected vice-chairman, Donald E. Curran remains the secretary-treasurer and executive director, and Dr. W. D. Stevenson, the chairman of the medical advisory committee.

In his chairman's report, Mr. Sime stressed the need for continued development of the Association's work on behalf of paraplegics—persons paralyzed in body and limbs as a result of injury to or disease of the spinal cord.

Particular emphasis must be placed on expanding the services of the Association in Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island," he said.

Mr. Curran in this report said he thought the highlight of the past fiscal year was in the engagement of the Maritime Division's first full-time rehabilitation officer in August—Clifford Jones of Amherst.

Mr. Curran reported on the work done with paralyzed persons—the issuing and maintenance of wheel-chairs, other equipment and medical supplies.

"Living allowances to paraplegics in training and taxi to and from hospital or rehabilitation represent other ways in which our Association help paraplegics," he said.

In the report of the medical advisory committee, Dr. Stevenson said its most significant service improvement throughout the year had been the opening of an in-

Steel Output Continues Slow

CLEVELAND (AP)—Steel mill operations last week continued at the recession - lowered level of 82.5 per cent of rated capacity, the magazine Steel reports.

Mills have operated at the same level for the last three weeks and steelmakers think there is little likelihood of reaching capacity production for some time, the magazine says.

A gradual upturn in operations is expected, however, as construction gets under way.

Present rate of steel consumption is 7,600,000 tons a month, compared with 11,500,000 tons a month last year.

Scrap prices continued a two-week dive. The magazine's price composite on the prime grade of steel scrap slipped to 36.33 at gross ton last week, off 50 cents from the previous week.
