Burgess Bedtime

In the distance, rattles thrust his head out of the doorway. His pointed top-knot was standing right up. Billy looked at the big bill and shivered at the thought of what that bill could do to him. Rattles came out and flew to join Mrs. Rattles. Now was Billy's chance. Should he take it? Would those eggs be worth the price if he should be caught in there? delicious lunch was served by the hostess assisted by some women present.

JOAN CRAWFORD STARS IN "TORCH SONG" CAPITOL, SUMMERSIDE

In "Torch Song" new M-G-M offering at the Capitol Theatre, Joan Crawford makes a triumphant return to the studio where she first won stardom. It is her first Technicolor picture and is highly-kept drama of a vibrant musical comedy actress, taking place for the most part against backstage scenes in a Broadway theater, offers filmgoers a chance to see a singing and dancing Crawford as well as the dramatic talent which has won her an Academy Award and three Oscar nominations. With Michael Wilding co-starring and with such prominent film personalities as Gig Young, Marjorie Rameau, Henry Morgan and Dorothy Patrick playing pivotal roles, "Torch Song" unfolds the story of Jenny Stewart, a temperamental and volcanic musical comedy star who broods and alienates everyone with whom she works, then meets her Waterloo when she comes up against the perception, insight and love of blind pianist Tye Graham (Wilding).

S'side High Notes

Lawrence Gallant, Grade XI student, left Summerside for Ottawa on Saturday for Ontario. He will take part in a citizenship program sponsored by the Rotary Club of Canada. The first pull from Sum-Hi to make this trip was Jessie Bingham who attended last year. We hope Lawrence will have an enjoyable time, and we extend our congratulations. On May 24, the bowlers from Sum-Hi will go down to Charlottetown to play in the Island inter-scholastic bowling tournament. Pupils of Grade XII held a debate last week. The subject was "resolved that the atomic bomb is no use to mankind". John Campbell, John Compton and Benoit Simmons upheld the affirmative side while Dee Lefurgey, Paul Newcombe and Eugene Richards took the negative. The affirmative side won. "The Emblem", the yearly school magazine, is expected to be on sale around the first of June. Doris Heckbert is the editor-in-chief. Terminal examinations for Grades X, XI, and XII begin the week of May 25. We pupils will not be able to throw away all dull care when they are through, however, because the dark aspects of the provincial examinations will be just around the corner.

Burton And Vicinity

It is with deep regret the parishoners of St. Marks and St. Bernadettes learned of the illness of their pastor, Rev. J. N. Trainor, who has entered Western hospital for treatment. All wish him a speedy and complete recovery. Miss Gladys Walsh, Burton, was a recent guest of her brother-in-law and sisters, Mr. and Mrs. Leo MacDonald, Gleggary. Alberton Players Stage Comedies

A capacity house greeted a group of Alberton players in the Women's Institute Hall Wednesday evening when they presented two one-act comedies, "A Mad Breakfast" under direction of Mrs. Vernon England and "Utter Relaxation" directed by Mr. Henry Clarke. Local talent provided specialties and also music for the dances after the programme. Vocal numbers included a solo, "Carolina Moon" by Miss Evelyn Kinch (encore, "Cruising Down the River"); two groups of songs, "Long Ago Ago", "The Quilting Party", "Uncle Ned" and "Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground" by a male quartette comprised of Messrs. Roy Leard, Perley Hardy, Albert Noonan and Cyril Leard who sang unaccompanied, and a group of two comic songs, "Winking At Me" and "I Was Chawin' My Chawin' Gum" by Mrs. Eldon Miller. Instrumental music was furnished by Messrs Henry Myers, Albert Noonan, Thomas Phillips and Elzear Doucette. An appreciative audience gave warm applause to all parts of the programme and it is pleasing to report that approximately $160 in proceeds will go to Alberton Public Library for which the entertainment was staged. The cast of the first play, "The Mad Breakfast" was: Mrs. Simpson, the landlady, Mrs. Vernon England; Lizzie, the maid of all work; a melancholy and romantic frame of mind - Mrs. Winston Currie; Miss Brown, young lady boarder, kind-hearted and popular - Mrs. Erskine Campbell; Miss Smith, another boarder, a stenographer who feels she is the boarder who has "nerves" - Miss Thelma Ahearn; Miss Green, a boarder, and an aspiring artist - Mrs. J. C. Profit; Mrs. Hill, a boarder who has "nerves" - Miss Beth Waugh; Mr. Hill, who goes in for spiritualism - Erskine Campbell; Mr. Roberts, a boarder whose appetite is always good - Earl Alkinson; Mr. Jones, a boarder going to practical joking - Health Profit; Mr. Long, who is of an enquiring turn of mind - Winston Currie. Mr. Long has advertised in a newspaper that he would like to visit a small, select private home for the insane for the purpose of investigation and study. Mr. Jones, the practical joker, arranges for him to visit Mrs. Simpson's boarding house, leading him to believe everyone there except Miss Brown and himself are insane. Before Mr. Long arrives in time for breakfast Mrs. Jones tells Mrs. Simpson and each of the boarders about Mr. Long but explains him to each in such a way that their reactions to Mr. Long's visit would really lead that gentleman to believe they are insane. In the second play, "Utter Relaxation", Wilbur Edmondson, due to a supposed cold, is forced to remain in bed by his flighty wife. She insists, "There is nothing like a quiet day in bed to cure a cold in the head." But the day develops into anything but a quiet one, because of the arrival of Amy's talkative friend, the telephone man, Wilbur's boss, and Ella, the singing maid servant. The cast are: Wilbur Edmondson - Henry Clarke; Amy, his wife - Mrs. S. M. Burke; Ella, the maid - Mrs. Eldon Miller; Emma Froskwick, Amy's friend - Miss Beth Clarke; Arthur Clement, Wilbur's employer - Angus Milligan; Joe McGrath, the telephone repair man - Wesley Hardy. Mrs. J. A. Noonan and Mr. Wesley Hardy served as prompters and Mr. M. F. Gallant was in charge of properties. Chairman for the evening was Rev. J. R. McMahon. During an intermission candy was sold. Delicious refreshments were served to the performers by members of Alberton Women's Institute. ATHENS (Reuters)—A decision on the formation of the projected Balkan military alliance of Greece, Yugoslavia and Turkey will be made at a conference of the foreign ministers of the three countries in Belgrade next month, informed sources said Friday night. A major problem facing the meeting will be to reconcile the obligations of Greece and Turkey, as members of the Atlantic pact, with new obligations under the alliance. Gregor, entertainment, Mrs. Harold Howard. An interesting contest put on by Mrs. Colridge Rogers was won by Mrs. Edward Collicutt. Mrs. Melvin McGregor invited the members to her home for the June meeting. Roll call will be a donation for a grab bag. —CB
