

London U.S. Embassy Party Startled By Gate-Crasher

LONDON (Reuters)—A Brit. student was ejected from an American embassy party here after he gate-crashed it and startled the assembled diplomats and politicians by calling for the withdrawal of U.S. forces from Viet Nam.

The student was identified as Christopher Cowley, a member of the Committee of 100, a British organization advocating nuclear disarmament. The party marked U.S. Independence Day. Earlier Monday, four men who took part in a mass demonstration outside the U.S. Embassy and were given jail sentences ranging from 14 days to two months when they appeared in court.

They were among 28 men who faced charges of assaulting police during the demonstration, called to protest against U.S. bombings of North Viet Nam. The arrested men also were charged with carrying offensive weapons, using obscene language, obstructing police and causing wilful damage.

Seven were fined between £2 and £10 ($6 and $30) each, and 17 were denied the charges, were freed on bail.

Five policemen were injured in a 45-minute battle with the monarch of an emerging Negro state in southern Africa, Moshoeshoe II of Basutoland, has been given a public warning by his own prime minister. Quit meddling in Basutoland's party politics—or be fired.

Chief Leabus Jonathan said here Monday he intends putting the issue of Moshoeshoe's future squarely before the country's college of 22 chiefs for their decision. "Moshoeshoe can be deposed by the college of chiefs," he said.
